A FAMILY PHOTOGRAPH.
A FAMILY PHOTOGRAPH.
A FAMILY PHOTOGRAPH.
A FAMILY PHOTOGRAPH.

The old-fashioned stereotyped way of taking a Family Photograph pleased the generation of the past; but to-day we pay more attention to the artistic arrangement, and usually succeed in pleasing all concerned.

Get that family group taken whilst you are all together, for the time will come when separation will be inevitable, and a reunion may be impossible, then how much you will wish that you had a family portrait group.

Nothing preserves the home atmosphere and home memories like a good photograph, especially a family group-picture, with father and mother in the centre. One never knows what changes time may be holding in store, and then how welcome a group picture will be, with its possibilities of a copy for each member of the family, and its retention of happy memories, though all may be scattered far and wide. Don't delay, get photographed at the Crown Studios.

MANY YEARS AGO
Oliver Wendell Holmes wrote:—
Plain Food is Good Enough for me.
Three Courses are as good as ten.
If Nature can subsist on three, Thank Heaven for three! Amen!

"REX"
CAMP PIE

is just the kind of plain food that Oliver Wendell Holmes would have liked.

It is the one and only course when a light, yet nourishing, meal is required.

A slice or two of REX CAMP PIE, with Tomatoes, Cucumbers, Beetroot, or Lettuce Salad, is considered good enough by many. In fact, some declare it unsurpassable.

We leave it to you. Just in case you have forgotten—Rex Camp Pie is all meat—no waste. It is cooked and packed in a delectable jelly.

All Grocers sell it.
Say Rex Brand.

"REX" LUNCHEON CHEESE
is always of uniform flavour. Try it for Sandwiches.

DRESS, FASHION, ETC.

NO MATTER HOW LARGE the business grows, it is always an expression of personal force. We believe that our customers and employees feel that our business is as much a matter of personality now as it was in the beginning. Behind each transaction is personal guarantee, and we trust that behind each customer is personal interest in the growth and the perfecting of a system that seeks to interpret the personal desires of each man, woman, and child who deals with it.

Thus our policy is a composite of the ideas of all our customers, expressing their will in our undertakings, while our increase, growth, and success are, we believe, as much matters of personal pride and gratification to our patrons as they are to ourselves and our employees.

Sometimes we are told that corporations have no souls. The fact is that everything that don't have a soul is dead and should be buried.

All great business institutions that are in the line of progression are animated by right intent. Kindness, courtesy, friendliness are worth more. We do business on courage, animation, hope, and when these are killed, and the gloom drive the joys out of business, it's time to call in the undertaker.

Light and airy subjects contribute to the enjoyment of life. For instance:—

A QUIET TIME.

The battalion comforts committees have thrown open their depot doors again, and for the majority of all these fund workers, the business of this new year has got into its stride. It has become quite an ordinary business, apparently, this work of caring for our men on active service, and there is nothing to chronicle in the way of new ideas. Requirements are by this time almost stereotyped, and their supply practically automatic, except for the cry for recruits, who, in this field, would appear to be just as much needed as they are in the field of war. Beyond the quiet, steady work done by those women interested in one or other of the war activities, there is "nothing doing." We often smile over the quaint way in which this colloquial slang phrase is used, but for this month of January it constitutes a fairly accurate record. It has been one of the quietest times we have ever had. Of course, this is as it should be. Even in normal years, these two months, January and February, have been noted as the off-season, and it would be quite outside of anybody's inclination to turn this summer into any season of gaiety.

"Oh, Sydney people don't feel the war at all. They are just as fond of pleasure as ever, and throng the theatres and picture shows as if nothing out of the way were going on at the other side of the world." This is the kind of remark often heard. Could anything be more unjust or unkind? As a matter of fact Sydney women have completely changed in the last two years and a half. There is now no social life, as this phrase was understood in the old days, so it is hard to make the comparison between what is and what was. But the different feeling induced by the very mention of the words "fun" or "gaiety," provides a useful kind of test of feminine sentiment towards that once all-powerful "joy of life," which found expression in gay clothes and fine feasting and luxurious display. Randwick on Anniversary Day showed that the hearts of the women are not in pleasuring. Men were there in thousands, and the usual full-day programme was gone through, but the women were not the laughing, brilliant, chattering flock of yore. Subdued of manner, and in very sparse numbers, and dressed in sombre blacks and greys, or else in simple white muslins, they almost crept about the lawns and stands as if the shadow of a great sorrow had fallen on them—as indeed it has.

The beaches and the mountains have charmed away from the city more than their usual quota, while the other States and New Zealand have attracted many holiday-makers—if holiday-makers they can be called—where the quiet days are passed in almost monotonous sameness. It is here that the swing of fashion's pendulum can be seen—for even in these times, places, like people, lose or keep or increase their vogue. Tasmania has taken a larger number of folk from this State, and Hobart is distinctly popular this year. For long journeys this is the time when they can be planned, and Japan, Honolulu, and the Pacific generally crop up in conversation when long sea voyages are to be [illegible]. Looking nearer home for a long while Manly seemed to draw with a less powerful magnet than the South Coast resorts, especially Cronulla, but, to-day, Manly is again "the fashion," and crowds of well-known citizens have flocked thither for rest and change. Manly has brought itself up-to-date with its outside improvements and its better indoor accommodation. But even Manly, the happy-go-lucky and pleasure-loving village, is wearing its rue with a difference. On the granite slabs of the Corso monument there are cut names which Manly thinks about in the long "saved" twilights of this summer. Ah, those names! we each and all carry our own list in our own hearts. Is it any wonder that we are all quiet and subdued?

The women who filled in the forms issued by the recruiting committee have been asked to join the local committee of the district to which they belong, and to help win the war by the various means described in the circular. This is giving thought to many and also occupation for spare time—if anybody has any of that commodity now. Then there are several schemes afoot for raising money for patriotic purposes, helping returned soldiers, or the ever-asking, ever-generous War Chest. But these will not mature until people have come back to town, and the next few weeks will be times of preparation only. Still, there is every reason to think that Easter, which falls in the second week of April, will see crowds of visitors in our city, and people are already saying that we shall have then a busy time.

HOW TO LOOK YOUNG.

"Do please tell me how you keep so young-looking!" I said to a friend whose grand-child is twelve. I was sitting on the beach with her in the dazzling summer sunshine and noticing that her face looked young and almost without lines; her skin was soft and fresh, her eyes bright, except that her hair was almost white one would have taken her for thirty at most.

"Of course, I will tell you," she said. "It really means so little trouble and is so well worth while. I never eat very big meals nor very rich food; I always eat slowly and drink plenty of hot or cold water between meals. I rise early for the most part, but occasionally I take a few extra hours in bed. I sleep with windows and doors wide open.

"Every night before I go to bed I wash my face and neck with really hot water, using a flannel washer and a little good soap. I take plenty of time and bathe and splash well. After drying my face I rub some face cream in under my eyes (there is no danger of hairs growing there) and brush my hair well. I try to get at least seven hours' sleep, eight if possible. In the morning I take a cold sponge bath. I take quite a time over my face and neck, splashing them well and rubbing them with my wet hands (this makes the flesh firm). Then I rub my face and neck well with a soft towel until they are quite dry and glowing. That is most important, a glow means the blood is well to the surface. Then I use a very little good powder, but I rub it well off; it should take away the shiny look, nothing more. I spend as much time as I can outside; walk a good deal, and try to keep happy and contented.

"Perhaps my grey hair helps me to look young. When I was young I used to think women very foolish to dye their hair, because the harshness of dyed hair shows up the lines of aging faces. If only women would realise it nothing is less trying to faces no longer young than the softness of grey or white hair. I always desired to grow old gracefully; I am glad you think I am succeeding."

MASSAGE IN WARTIME.

Massage is certainly to be recommended as a career for women, provided that the intending student is possessed of a bright and cheerful personality, a strong constitution, tact, and a well-formed, sensitive pair of hands.

The war has been a tremendous factor in bringing massage to the fore; also the infantile paralysis outbreak. Previous to this, many medical practitioners, although admitting that massage was beneficial in its results, regarded it rather in the light of one of the "frills" of convalescence, and, therefore, more of a luxury than a necessary. Of course, there have always been strong champions of it in the medical profession, otherwise it would never have reached the position it now holds, with a recognised course of training at the Sydney University and Royal Prince Alfred Hospital.

Originally the art of massage was taught by one or two qualified teachers privately. But such a number of quacks and impostors sprang up, who were really "rubbers," with no knowledge either of anatomy or physiology, that it was deemed necessary, both for the protection of the public and the saving of the art from disrepute, to form an association. This was duly brought into being, and called The Australian Massage Association. A course of instruction was promulgated, and a prospectus, comprising anatomy, dissections, elementary science, osteology, histology, physiology, massage manipulation, medical gymnastics, and electricity was drawn up. This course was to cover a period of two years. However, later, it was reduced to 18 months, as it was found that by practically eliminating holidays and doing hospital work during the University vacation, it could be managed without interfering with the amount of work to be accomplished.

The actual fees amount to somewhere about £65 sterling. This, of course, does not include the cost of text books or hire of bones, so all intending students need a little money to undertake this profession. It is very devitalising work, and anyone contemplating it, must be prepared to sacrifice a great deal of pleasure, as to do good work it is necessary to keep regular hours and to be as fit physically as is possible. For this reason, the graduate should always have a regular holiday annually for, at least, a month— away from the usual environment, and among healthy, happy people—if possible, in another State. If this were the rule among masseuses, there would be fewer breakdowns; but women are generally extremists, and few realise the value of health until it is lost. Also, it is very difficult to refuse work when it is offered—both from a professional and a remunerative point of view. Hence, many overtax their energies, and realise too late that success, if purchased at the price of one's health, is dead sea fruit. If a masseuse averages three patients per day per annum, she can make £300 per annum in private practice. Some get hospital appointments, others set up massage electric rooms, and, if efficient and conscientious work is performed, a comfortable living should be the reward.

When war broke out the Australian Massage Association was very keen to send some of its members to work in the military hospitals abroad. However, the local military authorities would have nothing to do with them. Then the A.M.A. inaugurated a fund, and sufficient money was raised by private subscription to send a representative from each State. When, later, the military authorities recognised them, and took them over as part of the trained attendance necessary to the efficient equipment of military hospitals, it was found that a greater number of masseuses was needed. To help to supply this deficiency an accelerated war massage course, with a studentship of 22, was initiated at the Sydney University. This course was to extend over a period of 12 months, but the authorities later came to the conclusion that it was impossible to qualify thoroughly the students in the time specified, so three months were added, thus making the course 15 months instead of the usual 18 months. This accelerated class exceeded all expectations, and passed brilliantly, only two students having failed out of the 22 who sat for the final examinations, held in December last. However, the authorities have come to the conclusion that in future the regular course shall be adhered to, as the accelerated course interferes both with the preceding regular students, and also the new arrivals. Hence the new course, beginning in March next, will conform to the regular prospectus, in that it will take 18 months to qualify.

Students come from all the Australian States, including New Zealand and Fiji as well. Some have gone to England to train, but there the course is only for a period of six months, so that there can be no question as to the superiority of the qualifications of those holding the diploma of the Sydney University.

In England and Egypt many Sydney University massage graduates have been doing excellent work in the military hospitals. Also on the transports returning with the sick and wounded splendid efforts have been made, but there is no doubt that better results would be obtained if the massage staff were increased on these ships.

Masseuses wishing to apply for military service should send a written application to the principal matron, Garrison Hospital, Victoria Barracks. Forms are provided at the Barracks, and it would be advisable to interview the matron personally, if possible. Of course, none will be sent away unless they have already done service at one of the military hospitals.

The Almeric Paget Massage Corps, initiated in England at the beginning of the war by Miss Paget, daughter of the late Sir James Paget, has been employed at the military hospitals. To come nearer home, at Randwick Hospital, there is a massage department, and masseuses who have been appointed work there daily from 9 till 5 from Monday morning until Saturday afternoon, the patients being among the returned soldiers. Thus, the war, which has been, and still is, a ghastly event for civilised man to contemplate, has established massage as an indispensable adjunct to military hospitals.

In the Riviera, and in Italy, and doubtless in England, too, there are large sanatoriums being erected which will require enormous staffs of masseuses when the war is over. These are to be equipped with all the mechanical aids to massage in the way of electricity, hot air, and gymnastic paraphernalia. They will be kept busy for a period of five to ten years after the war, so there is no doubt that the demand for highly-qualified and experienced masseuses will continue for some years to come.

A MASSEUSE.

SUMMER DIARRHOEA.

Like "A Mother," who wrote in last Wednesday's "Page for Women," I had a little one ill with gastro-enteritis. Unlike hers, however, my child did not improve when placed on a diet of white of egg, barley water, and whey. I had done this as soon as the diarrhoea started, also giving him a good dose of castor oil, but in spite of it he grew steadily worse, and, from a rosy, lively child, changed so that other children in the house asked if he were dead. When I took him to the doctor he prescribed raw meat juice in addition to the diet stated, also salt water enemas. From the first day he began to improve, and continued to do so, although very slowly, and it was nearly two months before I could use his usual food—viz., milk, with lime water and barley water added.

To make the raw meat juice, take lean meat without gristle, scrape it into a mince, add as much cold water as there is meat; squeeze the juice through muslin after it has stood for about an hour. The juice from ½lb of meat will make enough for two or three meals, but great care must be taken to ensure its being absolutely fresh. If little other food is taken ½lb may eb used, but in that case it should be made twice daily, and kept in a cool place—an ice chest by preference. Never neglect diarrhoea in infants—or, indeed, in anyone. Many people think that when a child is teething a little looseness of the bowels is a good thing, but the doctors say that that is a mistake which often proves fatal. Any abnormal or unnatural motions should be the signal for prompt measures.

PENELOPE'S WEEKLY NOTES.

ICE CREAM.

Penelope denies that ice is an extravagance, even in war time. A middle-sized ice-chest may be kept going with four or five blocks a week, and with ice at 5d a block this small sum is readily earned by the amount of food saved from deterioration, without taking into consideration the fact that appetites faded by the heat are not improved by the sight and taste of liquid butter, half warm water, and limp lettuces. Out of this same supply of ice, too, if carefully husbanded, there may be a weekly, or even bi-weekly meal at which ice cream may appear, and it is to ice creams that these notes are devoted this week.

It is Penelope's experience that the kitchen, presided over by a highly paid cook, rarely makes a weekly observance of this summer delight, while the one from which it most often issues is in the hands of "mother," or a sympathetic sister.

To the cook without the grace of sympathy the making is simply a "messy" business, and voluble excuses are forthcoming at the mere suggestion of this dish—"not enough ice," "We've run out of rock salt," "Something's gone wrong with the crank again," and so on, and so forth. We are all familiar with the tale. But with "mother," and a small sparkling-eyed boy for aide-de-camp, the thing is accomplished as readily as the making of an apple pie, and at no greater cost, if the family does not demand all ice creams.

The method used by "Penelope" is as follows:—The ice (about half of one of the blocks) is put into a clean sugar sack, carried into the laundry or outside the kitchen door, and with a hammer smashed into fragments the size of a nut.

An ice chipper may be used, but "Penelope" finds this slower. Next the freezing salt is brought out, and the machine.

In passing, there are many makes of machines on the market, and many of them are good. The wooden-bucket kinds, with the can and fixtures of zinc and with no complicated parts to become rusty or out of order, are the ones to be recommended for simplicity, and cost from 15s to £1, according to size. Scrupulous care must be observed in washing these, and drying them immediately after use.

The next step is to pour the flavoured cream or the less expensive custard into the can, insert the dasher, put on the lid, clamp down the top bar, and give the handle a turn or two to be sure that all is exactly in place.

Now for the mixture. Put three cups of ice to one of salt, repeating until the bucket is full to the top. Now is the time for the small boy's arm to turn the crank. Bid him to turn slowly for the first eight minutes, and then more quickly. In about 20 minutes (or sometimes less) the crank should be turning more and more stiffly, and the lid may be lifted for inspection. If the cream is frozen lift out the dasher, scrape the cream from it back into the mass, put on the lid, and cover with more ice and salt. Now throw over the bucket an old woollen tablecloth or piece of carpet to keep the cold in, and set it away to ripen for an hour—or, better, two.

We all know the rough, unripened taste of too hastily-made icecream. Tearooms are often offenders against this rule, and set down before their customers stuff that has just reached freezing-point. One more point about the machine must be kept in mind—the outlet hole must be kept open, poked with a stick now and again, or the water from the melted ice will rise over the top of the can. With cream at 4s, or even more a quart, Penelope refuses (in war time) to lightly give recipes that begin—"take two quarts of cream." A simple and wholesome foundation may be made with a smooth custard, using three or four eggs to the quart of milk. If wanted richer than this, a quarter-pint tin of cream, at a cost of 7d, may be added. With this as a beginning, many changes may be rung. Two ounces of grated chocolate, melted with 1oz of powdered sugar, may be added for chocolate ice cream.

A cup of strong black coffee will give a refreshing change for people who do not care for over-sweet things; or passionfruit may be added, or chopped, preserved ginger, or grated pineapple.

Strawberry, raspberry, or apricot jam may also be used, with a touch of cochineal for the two former, and yolks for the latter, to keep the colour attractive, but Penelope confesses that these, though liked by children, are by no means as delicious as are the same jams when added to plain, genuine cream and frozen.

Since space is almost as disobliging as time and tide in accommodating itself to man's services, further consideration of this subject must be postponed to another week, while we glance at the prices ruling for a few of our foodstuffs.

Most of our summer fruits are exceedingly plentiful, and here and there a slight decrease in price was noticeable. Apples, our most useful culinary fruit, are cheap. Good cooking apples may be bought for 8d and 9d a dozen; while eating apples of very fair quality are only 1s a dozen.

The sweet, ordinary orange is 1s a dozen, the navel variety runs up to 3s, and even more a dozen. Bananas are plentiful, at 1s and 1s 6d a dozen; passionfruit at 6d a dozen abound. Blackberries, strawberries, and mulberries are all offering at most reasonable prices.

Vegetables, like fruit, are cheaper this week than last. Old potatoes are available at 2d a lb, but good ones are somewhat scarce; new potatoes are 3d and of better quality than the old. All the salad vegetables are at present good; peas at 2s a peck, and beans at 1s 6d, may be recommended; marrows are 5d and 6d each; tomatoes 1s a dozen; and corn 2d a cob.

ANSWERS TO CORRESPONDENTS.

Sharks in Sirius Cove.—M.F.M.: As you say, "it is only a short time ago since a boy had his thigh torn out by a man-eater in Sirius Cove; yet any Sunday many people are to be seen bathing in the very spot where the tragedy took place. Something should be done to prevent people taking such foolhardy risks." The "fin" you mention probably belonged to a porpoise, as it appeared and disappeared. A shark's fin goes in a straight line on top of the water, while the tails of a shoal of porpoises bob up and down. But it was as well to be on the safe side, and call out the swimmer. Shell Cove is as dangerous a bathing place as Sirius Cove.

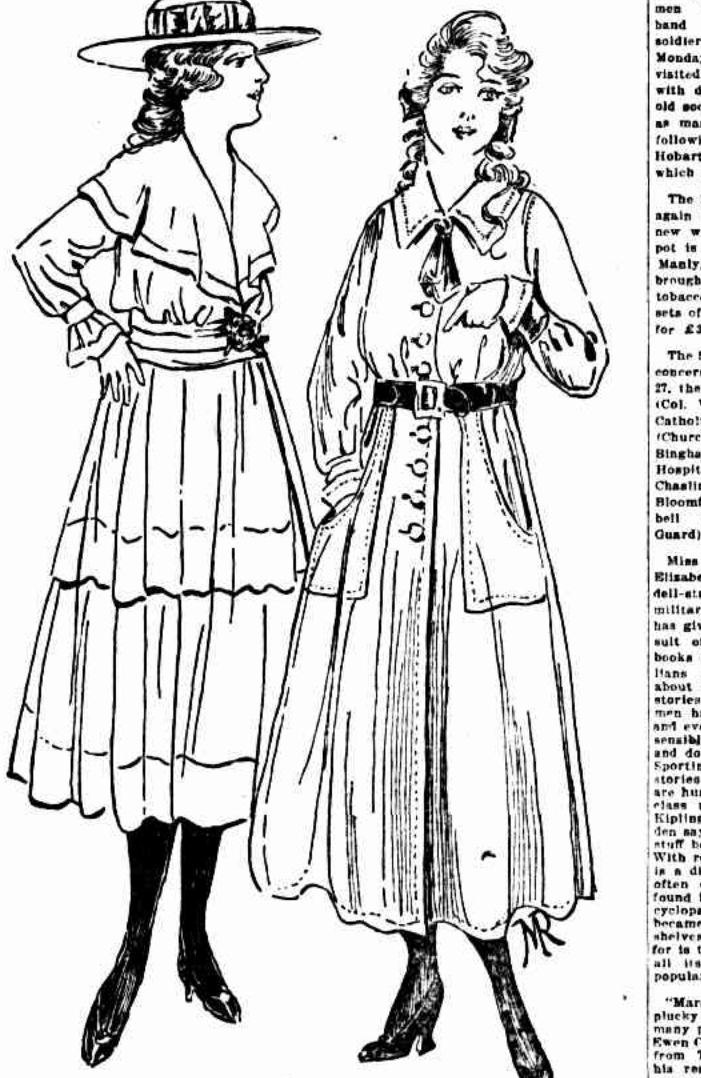
Kerosene, Rockdale.—See "Home Affairs" for answers to 1 and 2. (3) Methylated spirits would be far better. (4) There is a fad now for taking liquid paraffine (deodorised kerosene) as a cure for constipation and indigestion. It is not injurious.

Cuttle Fish Tooth Powder.—"C.M.": To make a tooth powder from cuttle fish, powder it well and mix powdered borax and precipitated chalk with it, say, 1 tablespoonful cuttle fish, borax eggspoonful, chalk 2 tablespoonfuls. You may add a pinch of cinnamon and another of powdered orris root to make it sweet tasting. This dentifrice is very good for the teeth.

To Remove Freckles.—"D.B.": Peroxide of hydrogen diluted with glycerine and rose water will remove freckles; if applied on the dark spots with a small brush they will gradually disappear.

Fashion Plate Drawing.—To obtain the information asked for you should send stamped and addressed envelope for reply.

Cape Gooseberry Jam.—C.A.S.: Take 1lb sugar to 1lb fruit, put the pint in the preserving pan, and sprinkle over a little of the sugar, allowing to stand all night. Next morning bring to the boil, and add the rest of the sugar, and boil till it jellies. Guava jelly: Take 3 quarts of red guavas, the juice of two lemons, and some loaf sugar. Cut the fruit in slices, put on the stove, covered with cold water, and simer gently for two hours; then strain through a jelly bag. When the syrup is cold put 12oz sugar to each pint of syrup, and one tablespoonful of lemon-juice. Boil in pan one and a half hours; it should jelly when poured on a saucer. The pots should be covered soon, and put in a dry place. Guavas should be in very soon. Cape Gooseberries are fairly plentiful in their season, the early autumn.



FROCKS FOR SCHOOL GIRLS.

HOME AFFAIRS.

HAIR AND HAIRBRUSHES.

With the annual surfing season comes again the usual trouble about the hair, and its treatment; for a course of seabathing, be the rubber cap ever so watertight, means sooner or later that the hair becomes dull and brittle, and even impoverished. Sea water cannot be said to be good for the hair, and how the mermaidens manage to retain the sleekness of those "soft, alluring locks," which we read about, only poets know. Yet, without "a comb and a glass in her hand" nobody would recognise a mermaid. Certainly her constant use of these implements might infer that she is ever trying to get her hair right after her submarine adventures! Be that as it may, mortal maidens know to their cost that much tugging at tangles follows the daily dive, and a comb and a glass likewise a brush, are distinctly necessary for comfort and tidiness.

It is much to be feared that in pursuit of the said tidiness much good and erstwhile pretty hair falls a sacrifice. Being in a more than usually crowded dressing-shed at a surf beach one day lately, I glanced at the floor in front of the mirror, and there was enough hair strewn about to stuff—no, not a mattress, but a small paper bag. Every hair, however, represented a vicious tug, and twinge. Yet the bathing is well worth it. Some girls adjust their caps to a nicety, and tie a fetching "mammy" handkerchief around it, with coquettish ends cocked up, and after half an hour's shooting the breakers come out with the cap and its adjustments at exactly the same angle as when it was put on. While over the dishevelled state of other heads, just as businesslike in appearance to start with, the all-concealing towel is thrown for a veil. Concerning caps, there are as many opinions almost as there are shapes, and each girl will know exactly the sort that will stick on her head. Caps are rather expensive at first cost, but the right sort and one handkerchief ought to last easily a whole season.

By all means, comb out your locks, sleek or otherwise, after a surf bath, O modern mermaid, but the comb should be a strong "rake" (that is, one with teeth all the same distance apart), and it should not have broken, catchy tooth-ends, which ruin the hair by pulling out separate strands. Five shillings is not too much to give for a rake. Although the sixpenny and shilling combs attract by their smaller price, they do not last, and they do not do the work like a better made one.

The ever useful olive oil should be well rubbed into the hair fairly often in the surfing season. There need not be much oil used. The Japanese woman can obtain the glossy appearance of her well groomed hair from a single drop well rubbed in. If the hair is naturally greasy oil should not be used, but any tendency to become dry and brittle is corrected by the use of oil. Cocoanut oil, so beloved by sunbakers, can also be used, but only if it is to be washed off again very soon. It thickens with a sudden drop in temperature, and so clogs the hair, making it more difficult to comb. It also becomes musty and rank, and the user is soon perfumed as with cheap scented soap. A correspondent asked me if kerosene should be used on the hair, in answer to whom I can say that it is, but it should be used sparingly, and first just a little to try should be rubbed in, as to some skins it is unbearably irritating. Once a fortnight would be quite often enough for the treatment. It should be rubbed in at night and the hair washed next day. It makes the tresses glossy, and thickens the growth (it is said).

Good hair brushes should be treated with respect now, as their price has gone up, and it is a pity to use a brush with the best bristles on hair that is wet with sea water. An old brush should be taken to the dressing shed if one is necessary there. Brushes should be washed say once a week, and it is better to have at least two in use, which would mean turn and turn about and a longer spell between the washings. Cold water does less to soften the bristles than a too hot bath does. Dip the bristles up and down in a basin of warm water, in which a few drops of ammonia have been poured. Do not wet the back of the brush. That should not go into the water at all. There is no need to use soap, but a rinsing in cold water is good. The brush should be shaken to help dry it, then stood on end in a windy corner. Too much sun seems to turn the bristles yellow, though a brush should never be allowed to remain damp. Men who affect the fashionable "water-brush" back from their forehead should see to it that their mother, wife, or sister perform the kind office of drying their brushes for them.

MARTHA.

SEASONABLE DAINTIES.

Everybody's Favourite Buns.—To prepare the dough, take 3 cupfuls of sifted flour, 2 tablespoonsful of lard, ½ cup of sugar, ½ cup of milk, ½ cup of warm water, one large tablespoonful of fresh yeast. Mix the yeast, sugar, milk, and water together, add half a teaspoonful of salt, rub the lard into the flour, and stir in the wet ingredients. Set aside to rise for about three hours, then knead in half a cup more flour. This dough should now be divided up into small buns or loaves, and allowed to rise double the size, then baked in a moderate oven till cooked. The great advantage of this bun dough is that it can be used for fashioning all kinds of different varieties of buns by the addition of currants, sultanas, candy peel, cinamon, spice, and so on, and the addition of a well-beaten egg or two makes a really rich tea cake. The buns keep well, and if brushed over with milk may be reheated and are as delicious as if freshly made.

A Dainty Luncheon Dish.—Cut moderately thin rounds from a French roll, toast, and allow to get quite cold. Spread very thinly with chutney, ketchup, or tomato sauce, pepper and salt well. Take the outside large leaves of a well-washed lettuce, soak in salted water for an hour. Lay one nicely-trimmed leaf on each round of toast and a slice of cold corn or roast beef or ham in the lettuce leaf. Pile finely-chopped lettuce with which a little chopped cold meat has been mixed on the meat, garnish with sliced tomato, beetroot, and sliced egg, topping each mound if preferred with a half egg rolled in well-browned crumbs. Serve with a dressing made from two tablespoonsful of sugar, ½ teaspoonful of mustard, pepper and salt to taste, and the yolk of a hard-boiled egg all well mixed, a half-cup of sweet milk added, and sufficient vinegar to thicken to the consistency of cream. This makes a very nice light luncheon or tea dish, and is a pleasant change from plain meat and salads. It "looks good," too.

Salmon Rissoles.—A small sized tin of salmon will serve for quite a large family if made into rissoles. Take two large cups of cold potatoes and half a cup of crisped bread crumbs; drain the salmon liquor into a cup, add a tablespoonful of Worcester sauce, a tablespoonful of vinegar, and pepper and salt to taste; mix well with the potatoes and breadcrumbs, add the salmon, and mix all well together. Make into small flat cakes or little rolls, roll each in browned breadcrumbs, and fry a golden brown. These may be eaten hot or cold. They look very well when cold, and eat still better if served on a large crisp lettuce leaf piled with chopped lettuce, a rissole on top, and a garnishing of beetroot and tomato cut in quarter slices round the edge. The toast foundation in this case should be quite dry. Salad dressing as in the cold luncheon dish, may be served with the salmon rissoles.

Nut Apples.—Apples are fairly plentiful just now, and a pleasant change from the plain baked apples may be had by coring the apple and filling the centre with a mixture of a spoonful of chopped peanuts, a spoonful of brown sugar, and a little butter. Enough should be mixed to fill the quantity of apples required. Only just enough butter should be used to bind the sugar and nuts together—a very tiny bit and little circles of bread will hold the filling in place. The nuts cooked with the apples give them a most delicious flavour, and a custard made from custard powder served with these will be found a different thing if a couple of spoonsful of chopped peanuts have been boiled in the milk. Fruit teas are much better for both children and "grown-ups" than meat during the hot weather, and pleasant changes can be made in the fruit menu by taking a little thought in the preparing.

EXPERIENCE.

A TIGHT SHOE.

A tight shoe may be eased by laying a cloth, wet with hot water, on the place where the shoe pinches. The shoe should first be stuffed with paper to the shape of the foot. Stockings should be chosen to fit the foot, and when buying new shoes thick stockings should be worn, for the shoes will fit easily over thinner ones. The new semi-silk hose sometimes grow hard after washing. They should be soaked for a few hours in warm suds and rubbed betwen the hands to wash; soap should not be rubbed on. Although most of the stockings sold as "silk" seem really to be silk substitute, it is better not to use soda in the washing water. The plan of machining a tuck round the top of the stocking prevents "Jacob's Ladders." This is well-known, but may be new to some readers. The dainty shoes of to-day cause much torture at times, and any hints to reduce the discomfort should be welcomed, for the sweetest temper breaks up under the misery of a pinching shoe in summer weather.

FROM NEAR AND FAR.

Miss Dorothy Harris, of Turramurra, who left Sydney during the latter half of last year to do war work in England, has received an appointment in No. 3 Australian Hospital, Kent, where she has been placed in charge of the Red Cross stores during the absence of the head of that department. The hospital has 1050 beds, and while the matron and orderlies are English women, the doctors, nurses, and patients are all Australians. Fifty women orderlies do all the general work of the hospital, thus releasing men for the front. The proposal to appoint women in place of men orderlies met with the greatest opposition, but the experiment has proved such an unqualified success that now many other hospitals have replaced their men orderlies with women.

A teacher in one of our Public schools, who is light-hearted and resourceful, has not allowed her strenuous profession to lead to mental and physical apathy, for she has joined many war activities. She is a member of a V.A.D., taking turns at dressing wounds in a hospital on Sunday mornings. Most of her holidays were spent in sewing for the Red Cross, and during a vacation she found time to qualify for a motor driver's certificate. As soon as our sick and wounded men began to arrive she joined a band of workers, who entertain the soldiers on Saturday afternoons, and every Monday evening for six months past she has visited one of the military hospitals armed with darning needle and wool, crying, "Any old socks to mend," sometimes carrying away as many as 30 pairs to be returned on the following Monday. She left recently for Hobart for her first holiday for two years, which (thinks "A.S.") is well deserved.

The 20th Battalion Depot has been at work again since January 9, and would welcome new workers, especially machinists. The depot is very grateful to Mrs. G. A. Moore, of Manly, for holding a gift evening, which brought in £26 8s 6d, and also a quantity of tobacco, and, secondly, for presenting two sets of hand-painted china, which were raffled for £31 17s.

Miss Beatrice Harraden, who, with Miss Elizabeth Robins, is hon. librarian to the Endell-street Military Hospital, London, the only military hospital officered entirely by women, has given to the "Cornhill Magazine" the result of her observations on what kind of books the soldiers like best. The Australians and New Zealanders ask for books about England, she says, also bushranging stories and Australian poets. Most of the men have a very pronounced taste for light, and even trashy, literature, but the librarians sensibly give the men the books they ask for, and do not attempt to influence their choice. Sporting and detective novels and sentimental stories are the favourites, but, of course, there are hundreds of convalescents who like higher class reading. Dickens, Conan Doyle, and Kipling are always in demand. Miss Harraden says that very often the men ask for poor stuff because that is the only kind they know. With readers of that group "Treasure Island" is a discovery in more senses than one, and often opens a new world. The librarians found it a great want not to have a good encyclopaedia, and, when one was donated, it became the most asked-for book on the shelves. The only kind of book never asked for is the society novel. It was weeded out in all its varieties to make room for more popular reading matter.

"Maraquita" forwards particulars of a plucky rescue of a North Shore line boy:—So many people have asked about the little boy, Ewen Campbell, aged three years, who was lost from Turramurra on New Year's Day, and his rescuer James Blair, that I thought many would like to read how the child was rescued. After spending the later part of the afternoon and all the night in the bush, Ewen was found about 11 o'clock the following morning in a rough, rocky bit of country, bordering on a space of very thick scrub. Although he had fallen over 13 feet between two straight rocks, which were between two and three feet apart at the top and less at their base, Ewen escaped with bruises and scratches. His rocky prison was hemmed in at one end with rocks and earth, and at the other by part of a big, charred tree-trunk. The brave searcher and finder, Jim Blair, first saw the child's hat and called repeatedly. On hearing a voice he had some difficulty in locating it, but on tracing it wondered however he would get the child out. The others of his party were not within call, so he set to work alone. Bringing a forked branch of a tree he wedged it against the charred tree-trunk, to make it secure, for on it must he climb out. He then slid down the 13 feet of rock, and persuading the child to get on his back he climbed up. When on top his troubles were not yet over, for he had a long and very rough walk to Pymble.

Mrs. R. R. S. Mackinnon is at present taking a short holiday from her Red Cross activities. During her absence from No. 4 Bridge-street, Miss Gladys Owen will act as relieving officer.

A CASUAL ACQUAINTANCE.

"Are you girls going for a dip?" asks the youth in the suburban tramcar with a towel round his neck. "Yes, are you?" promptly reply the girls with their bathing costumes in their handbags, and ten minutes later they are all exchanging confidences in the surf.

While there is surely nothing more delightful than a free and easy relationship between the sexes, there is much to be regretted in the slip-along method of companionship that exists between the boys and girls of some of our suburbs. Many a young girl becomes acquainted with and spends her week-end afternoons with boys whose acquaintance she has picked up haphazard in the street, who have never visited her home, and who never will. These afternoon and evening jaunts together may be harmless enough in themselves, perhaps, or they may not, but such casual introductions are in the worst possible taste, and the possibilities for evil are great.

There are still a few in this ever-changing world who hesitate to scrape acquaintance without the once-necessary introduction, yet an introduction would sometimes create much pleasure for two nice people. How often one nice person sees another nice person whom he would like to know, but because a third nice person is not there to introduce them they must not speak to each other. Is there no way out of this difficulty of the third person? Could we not evolve some automatic form of introduction, some simple little formality, by means of which the most scrupulous of people can make themselves acquainted without breaking etiquette?

Could we start a new etiquette touching on the performance of making acquaintance with persons not introduced? Who is in a position to start a new etiquette; anyhow, where do etiquettes come from?

FENELLA.

Miss Mary Jay has received another letter from Sir Edward Wallington, containing a message of thanks from Queen Mary for socks received. Miss Jay sent 1200 pairs for 1916—making a total of 2800 pairs sent. Contributions of socks may be sent to Miss Mary Jay, "Belgravia," 142 Phillip-street, Sydney. It is a sign of the times that the notepaper and envelopes used now by the Queen's secretary is of a much cheaper and commoner quality than was the official paper used for the first letters from Buckingham Palace.

The usual monthly meeting of the 117th Howitzer Battery Comforts Fund, Queensland Insurance Company's office, Pitt and Bridge streets, will be held at the rooms on Thursday morning at 11 o'clock. All interested are invited to attend.

MELBOURNE NOTES.

Under the direct control of the Central Bureau in Rome a delegation of the Italian Red Cross has been officially established in Melbourne. Mr. Clive Baillieu is delegate for Australasia. The Italian Red Cross is under the patronage of the King and Queen of Italy. Its aims are practically similar to those of the British Red Cross. The office is situated in Collins House, Collins-street.

Much regret was expressed at the news of the death of Miss Beatrice Davidson, deaconess of St. George's Presbyterian Church, East St. Kilda. This lady was ordained as a deaconess in 1910, and was well known in connection with the Young Women's Bible class and the weekly mothers' meetings. Miss Davidson had just entered on a four weeks' holiday when illness overcame her.

Much enthusiasm was displayed at the St. Kilda Bowling Green on the opening day of the Victorian Ladies' Bowling Association's annual mixed pairs tourney. Evidently the game of bowls is as popular with women as with men. Many of the women players showed remarkable skill. There was a large attendance of visitors. The tournament will be concluded one day next week. All nomination fees (there were 62 entries) will be handed over to a patriotic fund. The association has been in existence eight years.

A prompt reply was received with money orders enclosed. Payment of this Royal bounty has hitherto been made in sovereigns.

Considerable interest is evinced here in the Act recently passed which enables the mother of an illegitimate child to take action to have it legitimised where the father is on war service, is physically or mentally incapable of taking action as the result of such service, or is dead. It is essential that no legal impediment to the marriage should have existed at the time of the birth. Any information in regard to the procedure to be adopted may be obtained from the Government Statist.

VERONICA.

FOR THE SCHOOL GIRL.

Happy is the mother whose girls wear a school "uniform," for then there is little difficulty in choosing frocks for the growing daughters. Some of our leading schools for girls regulate the costumes of their pupils, decreeing white frocks for summer and blue serge for cooler days, the pinafore style being the chosen cut, over a white muslin blouse. In winter the girl contents herself with the serge skirt and a neatly tailored shirt blouse, either of cotton shirting, linen, or a light flannel. In this way the yearly round is catered for, and the hat must also be of prescribed shape, the "college" hat with badge. There is, therefore, not much to try either the ingenuity or the purse of the mother when considering the necessaries of her girls' wardrobe.

When the outfit is completed, however, it appears to have spread to quite trousseau-like proportions. For the boarding-school pupil there must be, first of all, a rainproof coat. Plain as the "mack" is, its long lines give it a gracefulness which makes it worn with a distinction. An older woman can never attain to the same distinction in the same garment. "Costly the raincoat as thy purse can buy," might have been a motto of Polonius if he had known of Burberry. Certainly a cheap waterproof should be shunned if more be forthcoming for a better one, which should be chosen too large for the actual size of its wearer. A "mack" will last many school terms, and its owner will grow out of it, if the fit is too neat at the start. An umbrella, on the other hand, should be cheap. It is bound to suffer an exciting career at the hand of its young possessor, and will, in all probability, end that said career—a very short one—as a mass of wreckage, even if it should come to its final end in its original owner's keeping, which is extremely doubtful. Therefore, cheap utility should be the aim achieved by the schoolgirl's "brolly."

Fond parents let their fancy have full play when they choose kimonos and lingerie for the girl who is leaving home for the first time. The kimono may truly be said to be our national undress uniform, so warmly have we adopted its ample comfort. The garment is as various in price as it is settled in form. One kimono is beautiful in its gay embroideries of birds, flowers, and butterflies on bright-hued silk, while another is just the very cheapest and skimpiest of crepe gowns. Between the extremes is variety enough to satisfy all tastes. Besides, a light weight dressing gown, there must be a fledgling of flannel robe for winter mornings and evenings. For this, the plain "bath robe" pattern should be used, and one made at home may be quite as well turned out as a ready-made gown, if expense be an object.

For the schoolgirls' wardrobe, several pairs of bloomers form now an indispensable adjunct, and most likely a "gym" suit will be added. Then there will be dancing slippers, house slippers, strong boots, and walking shoes, so that her youthful ladyship requires a large trunk to carry all her belongings. Handbag, schoolbag, week-end suitcase, all these must be added to the lengthening list.

Thus it will be seen that the things that do not show take more time and money to choose than does the actual dress and hat. For the dress, it is easy to choose a pretty fashion. So simply in form are cut the women's clothes of to-day that the girls can imitate them closely without looking too old or in doubtful taste. Never were white organdie and ninon and voile frocks for young girls prettier than they are now, and present fashion tending itself to girlish effects with great readiness. A sports coat can be contrived much more cheaply than it could a season or two ago, and the new jumper coat to slip over the head with the fulness smocked at each shoulder and the basque well flared meets with the approval of every girl, when it is made of thick Chinese silk, poplin, or cachemire de soie.

Those wishing to post parcels to soldiers are reminded that they can obtain suitable goods at the Comforts Depot for the 1st Light Horse and the 4th D.A.C., 28 Moore-street, Sydney. Special containers for 3, 7, and 11 lb parcels are on sale at 3d, 6d, and 9d each. Parcels will be made up to customers' own order and posted to members of any unit of the military or naval forces. The depot is open every Tuesday and Friday, from 10.30 a.m. to 5 p.m. Workers are urgently needed to take away and make up khaki cotton undershirts and to knit socks, materials provided. Funds for the purchase of comforts for the 1st Light Horse and the 4th Divisional Ammunition Column are very low. If all those interested in these two units would contribute a small sum every month the committee would be able to keep the men supplied with many extras, which would go a long way towards easing their hardships. Contributions should be specially earmarked for the unit to which they are to be devoted.

MY LOVE'S BUT A LASSIE.

BY KATHARINE TYNAN.

(ALL RIGHTS RESERVED.)

CHAPTER XIII.—Continued.

Then she said something which startled him.

"Dearly as my uncle loves me, I think he would not grudge me to the convent if I were to choose to go back there."

"But you are not of their religion?"

"No. Nor is my uncle. Not that he ever goes to church. He does not object to my going when it is possible. There was someone at the convent who loved me for my mother's sake. She was Mere Angelique. She is very beautiful, though she is no longer young. She was a great friend of my uncle, and I think it was for her sake he placed me in the convent. He called her Elise that day long ago when he took me to the convent for the first time and left me there. I listened in wonder. And she called him Laurence. I have an odd memory about that first day that, when he was going away, she said to him: 'I shall be very tender to the little one for her mother's sake; and remember, my friend, that I am always praying for thee.' And he answered: 'Not all the prayers you can say will wash me clean.' I was standing by—a little figure in black against the green of the garden trees outside the window. I could see the reflection in a mirror on the wall. I saw Mere Angelique make a little movement, holding towards him the crucifix of the big rosary she wore at her girdle. 'This would have saved thee, Laurence,' she said: but he shook his head and went away."

Rupert had got up while she told the story. He looked at her with a disturbed countenance.

"You would not think of going to the convent?" he said, sharply. "It would be iniquitous."

"I would not leave my uncle as long as he needed me. Of late this woman comes between me and him. I don't like it. It is as though Mere Angelique had forgotten to pray."

"You shall not go to the convent," he said. "And I shall break through all those mysteries and get rid of that woman. I shall go to my father and tell him about it. He will help me."

"Your father," she said. "Your father looked as though mysteries would disappear before him like so many cobwebs. He was so strong, so comfortable, so kind. He was as good to me as though I were a dear child he loved."

Rupert coloured with pleasure.

"No boy ever had such a father" he said.

It was afternoon and the day had been very sultry. While they talked the sun had gone in. Suddenly there was a distant peal of thunder, and the rain began to fall in great heavy drops, coming faster and faster.

"We must run for it," she said, springing up from her seat on the rock and beginning to move, not towards the path which climbed out of the bay, but away from it. Rupert asked no questions, but followed with her. They both ran, side by side.

She pulled up panting and laughing. A crumbling cliff face had been buttressed by a bit of wall, great slabs of granite welded together solidly faced them.

"Can you climb?" she asked, and without waiting for his answer began herself to climb the wall, placing her little foot into interstices between the stones which looked as though heavy seas might have washed away the cement.

The wall was about ten feet high. She went up it easily and he followed. The cliff rose before them covered with heavy bee-orchis.

"Look," she said, smiling back at him, while the dimples flew in her cheeks. As though she had lifted a curtain she disappeared beneath the bee-orchis. He followed her. They stood upright under an arch of brick, the light filtering in through the leaves and flowers.

"I discovered this for myself a long time ago," she said. "Doubtless it is a smuggler's cave that runs back into the old mine. It goes ever so far. I have never followed it up, though I have always meant to, some day."

A furious barking broke out at the foot of the wall. There was a note of anguish in it.

"It is Bill," she said. "Never mind him. He can climb the wall himself, but he hates to do it. Was that lightning?"

It was lightning. The sky was growing momentarily darker.

"We had better get in out of the storm," she said. "It is not so bad within. You can stand upright, and the place is not foul, at least, as far as I have explored. They had some way of ventilating it by shafts to the upper air."

"It is just like Baker-street station when I was a kid," Rupert said, going inward a little way, "only it is fresher. Is that light I see beyond?"

"It is one of the shafts to the upper air. Sometimes they are nearly overgrown by briars, but some light always filters through. I wonder how far the passages go back. I have never dared explore, as I have always been alone here."

The place where they were standing was lit up as though by blue flame and the thunder rattle. There was a rumbling of clay or earth somewhere near them.

"We shall be kept here for a while," Rupert said. "No use standing in this dismal place. I expect the roof gets higher as the passage goes further in. Does no one know how far the passage goes?"

"I have never liked to ask the fishermen, lest I should give away my discovery," she said. "There is a story that the cliff is completely tunnelled through and that the passage comes out in St. Lewy's churchyard, half a mile inland. St. Lewy's has an uncanny reputation. It has long ceased to be a burial place except for stillborn babies; and the flat stone at the entrance covers the grave of a giant of prehistoric days. The little old church has long been a ruin."

"I remember," he said. "It is the tower that stands up against the western sky. I took it for an old castle."

"That is St. Lewy's," she answered.

Exploring, they came up against a blank wall. They were holding each other's hands by this time; it seemed the most natural and comforting thing to do in the glimmering darkness.

Rupert lit a match, and by its light they saw that galleries branched off at right angles from the wall. Overhead there was a roof of the same flat slabs as the floor they walked on, but the roof dripped. Somewhere a stream had made its way through the cement and was running down the side of the walls, making a channel in the stone floor.

They turned down one of the galleries at haphazard. At first, after the match sputtered out, they could see nothing. When their eyes grew accustomed to the darkness there was a glimmer of light a long way ahead of them it seemed.

Neither thought of turning back. The spirit of adventure was in their blood. Still holding each other's hands, with odd notions of delight in their blood, what room was there for fear?

"We shall go a little way further and turn back," Sylvia said, when they had gone as it seemed, a considerable distance.

The light grew stronger as they approached it. At the end of a long passage they stood in a tiny, vaulted space. Overhead was one of the gratings by which the place was lit. It was covered with a network of briars. The lightning flashed, and the little chamber was lit up for a second; it sufficed to show them that the walls were of brickwork and very solid.

"This would have been a cellar of the smugglers, doubtless," Rupert said. He stooped and lifted something. "Hullo!" he said. "There has been some one here before us." He looked curiously at the thing that lay in his palm. It was something that looked like a portion of a sleeve-link.

Apparently the storm had come up very rapidly and with great violence. They heard the crashing of the thunder in the world above while they stood listening, and again and again the blue flashes of the lightning leaped overhead, dazzling them even through the network of leaves beyond the iron grating.

Sylvia cried out at a particularly vivid flash, which was followed by a dull roar of thunder, and a heavy thudding noise, that seemed underfoot and overhead and all about them. Suddenly they were in darkness.

Something had fallen on the grating. A shower of earth pattered through it on to their heads and shoulders.

"It is the cliff," Sylvia whispered. "It is always sliding. A bit must have fallen just over us."

"Let us get out of this," Rupert said, feeling for her hand which he had let go. It rested in his, in a soft, warm content. With that contact neither of them felt afraid.

"We had better get back to the entrance and wait there till the storm is over," he went on. "We can do a more thorough investigation to-morrow, bringing candle and matches. I have only a few matches left. Luckily we are not far from the entrance."

They retraced their steps. They walked along in the darkness peering for the light. There was no light. Where it had been it was no longer. The fall of cliff must have been right over them.

POULTRY.

Questions relating to fancy or commercial poultry keeping, etc., should be addressed to "Ancona," "Herald Office."

ANSWERS TO CORRESPONDENTS.

R.L.W.—The evidence points to a trouble for which there is no cure.

A.T.S.—The hens are evidently too fat. Mix a packet of salts for each dozen fowls in the morning food for two or three days in succession, and reduce the quantity of food for a time.

Senga.—You say nothing of the age of your chickens, how they are fed, housed, or other information. The sanitary conditions are evidently unsatisfactory. If you give some particulars, remedial measures will be suggested.

Amateur.—The Hopetoun Poultry Farm, Pennant Hills, is worked on the system you speak of, and there are others in the Ryde district. Any bookseller will forward you a list. The majority of recently published books refer to the intensive system.

The Lands Department is advertising for a poultry inspector, whose duties are to supervise and instruct returned soldiers who have taken up poultry farming. The salary is £250 a year.

The end of last week saw a distinct reduction in the egg supply. The result is advancing prices, which will continue till midwinter. The glut in poultry has also eased, firmer rates ruling for the various classes.

For many years past eggs in London were almost as high priced as in Australia, and while exports were occasionally spoken of, those interested wisely marketed here. The prospects are now changed, the English rates being more than double the current Australian rates. The present is a good opportunity to make trial shipments.

Mr. J. C. Scott, one of the New South Wales delegates to the Melbourne poultry conference, in pleading for higher duties on Asiatic eggs, writes:—"Apart from the selling of stud stock and settings of eggs, there is a big loss on the poultry farms from August till December, the cost of rearing the young stock being so great. No profit has been made out of poultry since the war began by the man who receives only market prices. The industry has been kept going by new capital coming in." If this be correct, the outlook for returned soldiers, who are taking up this branch of stock-keeping would appear to be anything but promising.

Beginners frequently inquire what quantity of meal and grain should be given to a certain number of fowls each day. It is impossible to name the exact quantity of food that fowls will consume day by day. No flock will eat the same amount each day, in fact, a single hen will not consume the same quantity at each meal, for the fowl's appetite varies according to circumstances. Fowls on an unlimited grass run require less grain and meal during spring and autumn than they do at other times, and less in summer than in winter, for, during the two former seasons there is an abundance of vegetable and insect life. And under these conditions fowls require less than when they are debarred from finding natural food. Maize, through its fattening tendency, is often condemned as a poultry food. The following report of the results of experiments at the Massachusetts Agricultural College is to the opposite effect. The writer of the report on the experiment, after mentioning that many people have held that wheat is the best food for poultry, both as to the number and quality of eggs produced by its use, continues:—"Results prove that such is not the case, and that maize which many declare to be unfit for the best results in egg production, is really, all things considered, the best and cheapest food for this purpose. Not only may more eggs be had, but larger eggs with a better quality of yolk. The fowls fed on corn were found to moult out earlier in the season, to get a better plumage, and to be very much better market birds. It is probable that the exclusive use of corn is not the best food for either laying hens or market poultry. The use of corn in its various forms, together with a liberal proportion of animal food, and a fair addition of green food, will not fail to produce the best results in growing poultry and egg production.

NOTES.

The death is reported of the imported bull bitch Bankside Gem, which was imported by Mr. Alban Gee at a very high figure a few years ago. When Mr. Gee retired from exhibiting he resold Bankside Gem to Messrs. Clarke and Pattrick for th highest price paid for a bull bitch in Australia.

Mr. A. H. Long, of the Romany Kennels, reports the sale of several Pomeranian puppies. Mrs. Tovey has transferred some of her pugs to suburban fanciers.

The evening parade of the Pomeranian and Toy Dog Club of New South Wales will be held on Saturday, the 24th of next month. Miss Brooke, hon. secretary of the club, notifies that the prize schedules are now ready for distribution. Entries close on February 19. Judging will begin at 7 p.m. The judges are Miss Purves, Dr. R. Stopford, and Mr. H. M. Liddell. In addition to the certificates and ribbons, two special prizes will be given—one for the best dog and the other for the best bitch of any breed exhibited at the parade.

The members of the Sydney Silky, Yorkshire, and Australian Terrier Club will meet to-night to receive nominations for office-bearers for the current year.

Miss B. Lee, the well-known breeder and exhibitor of Pomeranians, has been appointed matron of the Pambula Hospital, on the South Coast. She has taken with her three Poms., and left the balance of the kennel behind for the present.

FOX TERRIER CLUB'S SHOW.

The Fox Terrier Club's Show, held last Saturday afternoon, proved successful so far as entries and quality were concerned. The attendance at the R.A.S. Show Ground, where the exhibition was held, was not up to expectations, but the show was quite up to the high standard that the club has set. The classes for puppies produced a number of high-class terriers, which would be a credit to any show. The competition was so keen that dogs which a few years ago would have won either first or second place had to be content with being mentioned by the judge. In the open classes for dogs four out of six entries were imported. R. Comley's world's champion Levenside Luke (imp.) added to his many English laurels. This terrier, though five and a half years old, is a "laster," and there is nothing here to extend him in the show ring. Lister and Maude's Victor Mark (imp.) was second; R. Comley's Avarua Cromla third; Harold Hunter's Southboro' Seldonite (imp.) fourth; and J. Maude's Wrose Nugget fifth. Dr. Kerr, of Wollongong, scored with Kerrsland Kilvictor K. Kilmark. A. Palfreyman won in two classes with Kersland Kilcreggan. J. Maude's Marami scored in the puppy bitch class, and was runner-up to R. Comley's Avarua in another class.

In the A grade Australian-bred bitch Tasmania was first and second through the agency of Farrer and Saunders' Kersland Killarney and N. J. Routley's Norvic Duchess. The latter was the sensational winner at the June show of the F.T.C., but on Saturday she had in front of her in the A grade class R. Comley's Ronken Miss Surprise (imp.), first; J. Maude's Southboro' Sadie (imp.), second; and Kersland Killarney, third. The surprise of this class was the position—fifth—of Harold Hunter's recently imported English champion Kitty Sparks, who on one occasion beat Levenside Luke. The lastnamed terrier, in addition to winning the dog championship, sired the runner-up (Victor Mark), and the bitch champion, Ronken Miss Surprise. Mr. H. Moyse judged.

JENOLAN CAVES.

The increased accommodation provided by the Government at the Jenolan Caves was appreciated by hundreds of tourists during the week-end which included Anniversary Day. The hotel at the Caves is now one of the best equipped in the State. The roads are in excellent condition, and parties of tourist from Sydney and the Blue Mountains make the trip by motor. The use of electricity adds to the popularity of the caves. Prior to the outbreak of war magnesium ribbon was employed extensively in several of the caves. Difficulty in procuring supplies of ribbon necessitated the additional installation of electric lighting.

QUEEN VICTORIA MARKETS.

At the last meeting of the City Council the minute of the Lord Mayor was read in connection with the report of the finance committee on the proposed remodelling of Queen Victoria Mark

Alderman Hagon said that, on the Lord Mayor's estimate of £31,728, the actual cost would be 50 per cent. higher than it should be with the increased price of materials and labour. He felt it his duty to move that the Lord Mayor's recommendations be referred back to the finance committee.

This course was agreed to.

Why should not your Hair Just as Quickly Improve?

"My hair fell out very much in spite of all I could do, until I used Koko, when there was marked improvement, the colour improved, the natural lustre was restored, my hair became glossy again and is now very thick."

"Koko is just lovely for making the hair glossy and wavy. Sometime ago my hair was very short and thin, now it falls to my waist."

"One bottle of Koko stopped my hair falling and made it wavy. Everyone admires my hair since I began using Koko; it is so beautifully soft and glossy."

"My hair stopped falling after using Koko for five nights. I consider this wonderful, because my hair was coming out in handfuls. Koko is the nicest dressing I have ever used, and leaves the hair quite wavy and glossy."

KOKO,
The Famous British Hair Preparation
CLEAR AS CRYSTAL —— ODORLESS.
NEITHER OILY NOR GREASY.

There would be less talk of Dandriff and Falling Hair, Gray Hairs and Baldness, if people would only remember that it is much easier to keep their hair healthy and plentiful, than to make it so after years of grudging, haphazard attention have left it dry, lustreless, thin, and full of Dandriff. Knowing the antipathy there is to anything that is disagreeable and inconvenient to use, we purposely made Koko so delightfully clean, cool, and refreshing, so useful as a daily dressing for the hair, that those who once try it are inclined to use Koko regularly to make their hair "fluffy" and "wavy," thus keeping the scalp in that healthy condition necessary to ensure the hair being always abundant, lustrous, and livelooking.

So that you may prove how needless is the use of a Hair Preparation that is in the least degree unpleasant, we offer a

THE WORLD'S GREAT WAR.

WARTIME IN LONDON

THE NAVY.

DRAMATIC CHANGES.

(BY OUR SPECIAL CORRESPONDENT.)

LONDON, Dec. 4.

By a sudden dramatic change Admiral Jellicoe gives up his command of the Grand Fleet and comes to Whitehall as First Sea Lord. It is a move that has been hinted at for some weeks past as likely to result from the unsatisfactory state of the submarine campaign against us, and from the successive raids into the Straits of Dover by German destroyers out of Zeebrugge. These unexpected blows at the prestige of the Navy have disquieted us chiefly because we are so sure that in order to accomplish all that is required the Navy only needs to be given a free hand. The fear has arisen that influences at the Admiralty have conspired against that free hand, and that the Navy as a result has been shackled when it ought to have been at large.

Mr. Balfour has come in for an avalanche of abuse in this regard—most of it in the worst possible taste and of the merest political intriguing sort—while Sir Henry Jackson, the First Sea Lord, has been summed up—though little is known of him save that he is a man of brilliant scientific attainments—as not vigorous enough to order the Navy in time of war. So we have Sir John Jellicoe at the Admiralty and Sir David Beatty in command of the Grand Fleet. This was not quite what the intriguers have been aiming at, and it remains to be seen who will best be satisfied with the result.

There will be very many people, at any rate, who will wish that Admiral Jellicoe had been left in a position which he filled to perfection; the greatest position the Navy has to offer, and holding which he had not merely the respect but the affection of every man and boy in his Majesty's ships. It is no light thing to have removed him at this stage of the war, even to the Admiralty. The difference in calibre as between Jellicoe and Beatty has been summed up this week by a naval man, who says that Beatty may be regarded as a master of the game of draughts, while Jellicoe is a chess player of the first order.

FOOD PROBLEMS.

The continued loss of shipping by submarine, no less than the difficulty of securing adequate wheat supplies, at last has faced us with the problem of food. The Government, promising drastic measures, notified us quite a long time ago that the whole matter of food distribution will be given into the hands of a controller, or dictator. We thought he was to be appointed at once. He is still undisclosed. Some of these days perhaps the affair will be set in motion. Meanwhile we understand that more than one of the men regarded as likely has declined to serve except with absolute powers—and, as is its way, the Government is not quite sure whether he ought to have absolute powers or powers not quite absolute. So we meekly await developments.

COSTLY FEEDING.

One of the scandals attaching to food, however, is in process of being ended—that, namely, of the extravagant and costly eating of people who patronise the West End fashionable restaurants and hotels. In a dozen of these, in the very midst of the week in which Mr. Runciman was showing us how really serious the food position is, thousands of people were to be found night after night living luxuriously and with no slightest regard to waste of food or to waste of money.

The Carlton, the Ritz, the Piccadilly, the Savoy, Claridge's, etc., were all filled on these nights, and menus were served as freely as ever at a table d'hote cost of twenty-five shillings, exclusive of wine, while their patrons were cheerfully paying pounds sterling for sumptuous meals a la carte. In these places a single dish often costs fifteen shillings, and a mere sweet four and sixpence—and on the very nights when the House of Commons sat listening to the Minister's statement of the necessity for pinching and saving, these dining rooms were filled by hundreds of gay livers eating and spending as lavishly as ever.

Well, there is to be an end of all that. Managers of hotels and restaurants have been called into consultation with the Government, stern orders have been issued to them, and it is likely that no meal more luxurious than can be served in three courses will be allowed to be served at all. As to sweets, too, in regard to which the West End expenditure in a single day aggregates an incredible sum, while at the other end of the scale people cannot be served with a pound of sugar—drastic prohibitions are abroad, and the expensive delicacies which still flaunt their pretty wrappings in the fashionable sweet shops will presently go hence and be no more seen.

CHRISTMAS AND THE AUSTRALIAN SOLDIER.

The approach of Christmas reveals a busy activity on behalf of Australian soldiers on this side. Whether they be confined to hospital wards, or, convalescent, are up and about, or are unharmed soldiers merely abroad on leave of absence, they will be well cared for in these coming days of semi-festivity. Many agencies are at work on their behalf. Australians by the score are energetic, with a view to their Christmas enjoyment, and now, as throughout these long months of their absence from home, hundreds of kind-hearted English, for no other reason than that of sympathy, will be unsparingly devoting themselves to the comfort and entertainment of our boys. The Australian Red Cross, too, and the Comforts Fund, of both which activities one hopes to write at length presently, are full of Christmas work and Christmas effort, there will be parties and dinners and teas in abundance, and, in short, so much is in preparation that there can be absolute certainty of as pleasant a Christmastide as is possible for the Australian soldier so far away from his home and friends.

NON-COMBATANTS.

The old town of Lewes, in Sussex, was notified by the military authority a day or two ago that it must make provision for billeting 600 soldiers. It did so. Housewives with their own sons at the front set themselves heartily to the task of making other sons comfortable nearer home. Dinners were cooked, bedrooms were swept, and fires were lighted. Then the 600 marched in, and, to the horror of Lewes, on each man's tunic were the letters N.C.C.—non-combatant corps. A crowd of conscientious objectors had been loosed on Lewes.

But Lewes was equal to the occasion. Too many gallant Sussex lads have gone fighting to their graves for any chance of misplaced sympathy in Sussex for the conscientious objector. So, when he marched in 600 strong into the streets of Lewes, honest housewives there, one after another, turned him down, shut the door in his face, unmade his bed, blanketed the fires set up for him, and bade him go elsewhere for his shelter.

And nobody is worrying overmuch on his behalf.

BATTLE INCIDENT.

THE HELMET HUNTER.

CHANGES RETIREMENT TO ADVANCE.

Mr. Boyd Cable, an Australian writer, who has published some of the most entertaining battlefield sketches of the war, has a highly diverting descriptive article in a recent issue of "Land and Water." An Australian battalion, which has been advancing in a frontal attack on a village, is held up by enemy riflemen and machine gunners, who are present in force in shell-holes and craters. The order has been given to retire. Private Ben Sneath, an enthusiastic collector of souvenirs, becomes engaged in a duel with an adventurous German sniper. He misses his man several times, and expresses his annoyance.

"Wot's up, Ben?" said his companion. "Is some bloke stringin' you?"

"Fair beats me," said the exasperated Ben. "I've 'ad half a dozen clean shots at 'im, an' 'e just laughs at 'em. But I've marked the last place 'e bogged down into, an' if 'e just pokes a nose out once more, 'e'll get it in the neck for keeps."

"Where is 'e?" said the interested Chick, "show us, an' I'll drop it acrost 'im too when 'e pops out."

"No," said Ben firmly. "Fair dinkum. E's my own private little lot, an' I'm going to see 'im safely 'ome myself. S-steady now, ere 'e comes again. Just' havin' a look out, eh Fritz. Orright m' son. Keep on lookin', an' it'll meet yer optic plunk," and he fired again. "Missed again," he said sadly as he saw a spurt of mud flick from the edge of the German's cover. "But lumme Chick, di'jer see the 'elmet that bloke 'ad?" Ben could see distinctly that it was one of the old pickelhauben type—one of the kind he so greatly coveted as a "souvenir."

"That settles it," said Ben firmly. "I'm goin' to lay for that bloke till I gets 'im, an' then when we advance I'll 'ave 'is 'elmet."

He lay for several minutes, watching the spot where the German was concealed as a cat watches a mouse-hole, and when his patience was rewarded by a glimpse of grey uniform he took steady aim, carefully squeezed the trigger until he felt the faint check of its second pull-off, held his breath, and gave the final squeeze, all in exact accordance with the school of musketry instructions. The patch of grey vanished, and Ben could not tell whether he had scored a hit, but almost immediately he saw the spike and the rounded top of the helmet lift cautiously into sight. Again Ben took slow and deliberate aim but then hesitated, "Tchick-tchicked" softly between his teeth, aimed again, and fired. The helmet vanished with a jerk. "Lookin' over the edge of 'is hole, 'e was," said Ben, "an' at first I didn't like to shoot for fear of spoilin' that 'elmet . . . but arter all," he conceded cheerfully, "I dunno' that it wouldn't maybe improve it as a fust-class sooven-eer to 'ave a neat little three-oh-three 'ole drilled in it."

"Did you drill it?" asked his companion directly.

"Dunno," admitted Ben. "But I'm keepin' a careful eye on 'im, an' I'll soon know if 'e moves again."

Over their heads the great shells shrieked and rushed round them crackled a spattering rifle fire, the occasional hammering of machine gun, the rolling crash and whirr of bursting shells and flying splinters. Far out to right and left of them, far to their front and rear the roar of battle ran, long-thundering and unbroken, in a deafening chorus of bellowing guns, the vibrating rattle of rifles and machine guns, the sharp detonations and reports of shells and bombs and grenades. But for Ben, and in lesser degree his companions, the struggle had boiled down into the solitary duel between Ben and his German; the larger issues were for the moment completely overshadowed, as in war they so often are, by the mere individual and personal ones. Ben insisted in finishing off his duel single-handed, declining to have the others there interfere in it. "It's 'im or me for it," he repeated, "fair dinkum. An' I'm going' to get 'im, and 'is 'elmet on by blinkin' own."

He decided at last to move his position, to crawl along and try to catch his opponent in flank, to stalk his enemy as a hunter stalks a hidden buck. He hurriedly crawled over into the next crater, squirmed and wriggled away from it along cracks and holes and folds of the torn and tumbled ground in a direction that he reckoned would allow him to reach the German sheltering in his hole and behind a broken hillock of earth. But before he reached such a position as he desired he found himself looking into a deep crater occupied by an officer and half a dozen men with a machine gun.

The officer looked up and caught sight of him. "Hullo Sneath," he said, "where are you off to? You've moving the wrong way, aren't you? The order was to retire and you're movin' forward."

Ben was annoyed—exceedingly annoyed. This retirement looked like losing him his duel, and what was more, losing him his coveted helmet. He began to wish he had never come across this officer, and from that passed to wondering whether he couldn't give the officer the slip, and finish off his programme in his own way.

At that moment the British artillery fire redoubled in intensity, and the rush of shells overhead rose to a roaring gale.

"Sharp there," said the officer. "Get that gun picked up. Now's our chance to get back while the guns are socking it into 'em."

The others were picking up the machine-gun and preparing to move, and Ben took a long and careful look over the edge of the hole to locate his helmet wearer. With a quick exclamation he snatched the rifle to his shoulder, aimed, and fired.

"That'll do," said the officer sharply turning at sound of the shot. "Cease firing and get along back." But Ben was gazing hard in the direction of his shot. "I've got 'im," he said triumphantly. "I'll swear I got 'im that time. Showin' a fair mark 'e was, an' I saw 'im jerk an' roll when I fired."

"Never mind that," said the officer impatiently, "there's their rifle fire beginning again; time we were out of this. Keep down as well as you can all of you. Move yourselves now."

The men began to scramble out of the hole, and in an instant Ben's mind was made up. He climbed up the rear wall of the crater, halted, and spoke hurriedly to the officer. "I won't be 'half a mo', sir," he said. "Something there I want to pick up an' bring in," and without waiting for any reply turned and bolted across the open towards his helmet. The officer was consumed with a quick gust of anger at such disobedience. "Here," he shouted, and scrambled out of the pit, "hi, come back you"; and as Ben gave no sign of having heard him, he shouted again and ran a few paces after him.

And so it was that about a dozen Anzacs rising sullenly and grumblingly out of a big shell-crater in reluctant obedience to the order to retire, saw a khaki figure rise into sight and go charging straight forward towards the enemy, and a second later the figure of an officer bound into sight and follow him.

Two or three of the Anzacs voiced together the thought that rose to all their minds:

"Who said retire? . . . . What blundering fool twisted the order? . . . retire, Goatrewth, they're advancing . . . . us retire, an' them going' forward . . . ."

To them the position required little thinking over. They could see some men advancing, and distinctly see an officer too at that. And how many more the smoke hid.

In an instant they were swarming up and out of their crater; there was a wild yell, a shrill "Coo-ee," a confused shouting. "Come on, boys . . . . at 'em, Anzacs . . . . Advance Australia," and the dozen went plunging off forward. Out to right and left of them the yell ran like fire through dry grass, the coo-ees rose long and shrill; as if by magic the dead ground sprouted gleaming bayonets and scrambling khaki figures. Every man who looked saw a ragged and swiftly growing line surging forward, and every man, asking nothing more, taking only this plain evidence of an advance, made haste to fling himself into it. Straight at the flashing rifles and the drifting fog-bank of shell smoke that marked the German position, the shifting wave swept and surged, the men yelling, shouting, and cheering. Bullets beating down upon them, shells crumpling and smashing amongst them cut them down by dozens, but neither halted nor slowed down the charging line. The village was taken; the line pushed out beyond it, took firm grip of a fresh patch of ground, spread swiftly and linked up with the attack that raged on out to either side and bit savagely into the crumbling German line.

These wider issues were, of course, quite beyond the knowledge or understanding of Private Ben Sneath. He had come uninjured to the spot where his German lay, found he was an officer and quite dead, snatched up the helmet that lay beside him, and turned to hurry back. Only then was he aware of the line charging and barging down upon him, and understanding nothing of why or how it had come there, noticing only from a glimpse of some faces he knew that men of his own battalion were in it, he slipped his arm through the chin-strap of his captured helmet, turned again and ran forward with the rest. With them he played his part in the final overrunning of the village, the usual confused scuffling jumble of a part played by the average infantry private in an attack, a nightmarish mixture of noise and yelling, of banging rifles, shattering bomb reports, a great deal of smoke, the whistle of passing bullets, the crackling snap and smack of their striking ground and stone, swift appearance and disappearance of running figures. He had a momentary vision of men grouped about a black dug-out mouth hurling grenades down it; joined a wild rush with several others on a group of grey-coated Germans who stood firm even to a bayonet finish; scrambling and scuffling down and up the steep sides of the smaller shell-craters, round the slippery crumbling edges of the larger, caught glimpses—this towards the end—of scattered groups or trickling lines of white-faced prisoners with long grey coats flapping about their ankles, and hands held high over their heads, being shepherded out towards the British lines by one or two guards. All these scattered impressions were linked up by many panting, breathless scrambles over a chaos of torn and broken ground, pocked and pitted with the shell-craters set as close as the cells of a broken honeycomb, and ended with a narrow escape, averted just in time by one of his officers, from firing upon a group of men—part of the flank attack as it proved—who appeared mysteriously out of the smoke where Germans had been firing and throwing stick-grenades a moment before.

Through all the turmoil Ben clung tightly to his helmet. He knew that there had been a stiff fight and that they had won, was vaguely pleased at the comforting fact, and much more distinctly pleased and satisfied with the possession of his souvenir.

DISABLED FIGHTING MEN.

CARE AND ADVICE DURING TRAINING.

A paper on the "Problem of the Disabled Soldiers and Sailors" was read recently at the London School of Economics by Major Robert Mitchell, Director of Education at the Polytechnic, Regent-street, and honorary director of technical studies at Queen Mary's Hospital, Roehampton.

The lecturer read a letter from Sir Alfred Keogh, who wrote:—"You are quite at liberty to say that the Secretary of State for War has relegated to me the problem with which you are dealing in your paper. Next, as president of the Association of Technical Institutions, I know that these institutions can be charged with the training and that, indeed, nothing can replace them. Furthermore, since training and treatment must go on together, this postulates a necessity for unification of the authorities of the technical institutions and of the local hospitals to produce an efficient working system. Since, too, as you have pointed out, the problem varies with the locality, each such combination should work out its own local problem in its own way. Thus a combination of doctors, trainers, employers, employees, and municipal or civic authorities is the first step to be taken, and the sooner that is done on their own initiative the better, so as to be ready when a few details, now awaiting the decision of the Secretary of State for War, are settled."

Major Mitchell declared, says the "Times" of November 2, that the State must take immediate steps in this matter, for the problem was a national one and intimately connected with that of unemployment. First, the disabled men needed advisory assistance, and it must include medical advice and advice concerning the most suitable vocation for the disabled soldier. The medical man would be required to consider whether his patient could return to his former kind of business—a cabinetmaker, for example, taking up the position of a draughtsman to the firm or a wages clerk; whether he was fit to enter some other trade; or whether, though unable to exercise a trade, he might not undertake administrative work. When the men had selected a course of training it should not be left to them to decide whether they still needed medical assistance, but they should be compelled to report regularly to their medical officer. No disabled man should be discharged from the army or navy until he was again ready to take his place as a productive unit in the economic system.

Training and medical committees, working in conjunction with the local authorities and hospitals and technical institutions, should be formed without delay to supervise the welfare of the disabled in each locality. The committees should include doctors, employers, and representative employees. To these committees would be relegated power of military control over the men during their training, and they should be entrusted with the selection and classification of the men for their courses of training, the supervision of their training and physical and medical progress, and the procuring of suitable employment for those who passed satisfactorily through the training course. The cost of maintenance and training should be borne by the State, and should be regulated by responsible officials appointed by the Secretary for War.

"DETAILS."

A STORY FROM FRANCE.

HUMOROUS AUSTRALIANS.

(BY A.J.B.)

FRANCE, Dec. 10.

I must relate an incident which occurred quite recently to illustrate how vastly different is the Australian soldier from the imperial man temperamentally—on active service, at any rate.

At a famous chateau, somewhere in France, a squad of motor machine gunners were performing the guard of fatigue duties on account of a general and his staff officers being housed there temporarily. These men, taxi-drivers, chauffeurs, and mechanics in private life—were pictures of neatness, splendid samples of discipline, and out on their own as "saluters." Suddenly their reign came to an end. They were wanted down the Somme, and in their place came about 60 Light Horsemen, and straight from the trenches, too.

They arrived in the lovely chateau grounds encased in mud, in tattered uniforms and unshaven. The General saw them and stopped his morning stroll under the well-kept trees. His pups and his aide-de-camp, stopped as well. Who were these men, who fitted in so badly with the beauty of the chateau, the lawns, ponds, and flower beds? "Surely there must be a mistake," said an A.D.C.

After reporting to the camp commandant the sergeant showed his men their billets—a row of sheds over the stables. They washed, scraped their mud away, and then shaved. At night the general paid them a visit and found the majority of his guard, fatigue parties, and handy men immersed in games of two-up, euchre, vingt-et-un, doodle-em-buck, and dice. Instead of rising when he entered Ted O'Toole—a great character from the back-blocks—pushed him an empty biscuit box and asked him to "have a spin." The G.O.C. was immensely amused. In other places he found the remainder of his men teaching Tommies the finer points of various games and replenishing their banking accounts.

Anxious about a rationing party that had failed to report the following morning, the G.O.C. asked one of the L.H. whether he had seen any soldiers about the chateau. "No soldiers, Sir," said the trooper, "only Light Horsemen and A.S.C. men." Near to the general gambolled four pretty pups with ribbon round their throats and long tails. A rough and ready trooper named Tomlinson noticed the long tails of the pups, and winking at O'Toole, said, "I'll make dogs of 'em."

About noon two of the pups, while taking an airing in the grounds, crossed the path of O'Toole and Tomlinson, who were busy cutting down a fence for their fire.

"What are we called, Ted?" asked Tomlinson."

"What do yer mean?" said Ted.

"Aint we called 'details'?"

"Yes. Why?"

"Well, I was thinking as we might detail the pups and smarten 'em up."

A couple of minutes later the axe that had been used to chop down the fence chopped off the tails of the pups, which raced into the chateau and caused tremendous commotion among A.D.Cs. and staff officers.

Fences, trees, and everything that would burn disappeared from the beautiful chateau, for the "L.H. details" were housed in windy sheds, whilst the G.O.C. and staff were in the chateau; but the last word in crime was committed when Ted O'Toole (after "kidding" a Tommy to bail out the pond) took the gold fish and pike to his billet for tea.

Accustomed to smart salutes and the best of discipline the G.O.C. was astounded to meet such "curious people" and threatened to pack the "whole lot back to the trenches unless they saluted and said "Sir."

To his great surprise the men said they would gladly return to the trenches, and preferred the life to fatigue work about H.Q.

After a fortnight they were back facing Fritz. In three weeks they had raided his trenches with great success, and Fritz's great hope is that these men will learn to salute and get permanently ~~[illegible]~~ for guard work anywhere in France.

TRANSFERRING A NERVE.

AN AMAZING EXPERIMENT.

Sufficient time has now elapsed to render assured the complete success of one of the most striking surgical experiments resulting from the war (says the "Pall Mall Gazette" of December 5).

The patient, a young officer at the Queen Alexandra Hospital for Officers at Highgate, had been severely wounded in the forearm, four inches of the ulnar nerve, one of the important nerves supplying the hand, being totally destroyed, thus rendering the hand practically useless.

Search was made (says the medical correspondent of the "Daily Mail") at a number of London hospitals for an amputated limb, from which was obtained the required length of a practically living, healthy nerve of the same quality and size as the destroyed ulnar.

This was sent to the officers' hospital by taxi-cab. On its arrival the officer was at once anaesthetised, the wound in his forearm was opened, and the section of leg nerve was sewn to the two ends of the injured ulnar, thus bridging the gap. The wound was then closed.

After some weeks faint sensation, and, later, power to move the muscles of the hand governed by the ulnar nerve gradually returned, until a few weeks ago the officer was able to leave the hospital and take up light duties at a home station.

LAW REPORT.

IN BANKRUPTCY.

VOLUNTARY SEQUESTRATION.

William Augustus Carruthers, of Bellbird, near Cessnock, road-layer. Mr. W. H. Palmer, official assignee.

QUARTER SESSIONS.

(Before Judge Docker.)

Mr. A. F. Dawson, Crown Prosecutor.

ACQUITTED.

Lillian Gray, a young woman, pleaded not guilty to a charge of stealing on November 20 last three ostrich feathers, the property of James Robert Haslam. The jury returned a verdict of not guilty, and the accused was discharged.

PERJURY CASE.

Edwardo Ricotta, 18, a native of Italy, pleaded guilty to a charge of perjury. The charge arose out of an indictment for stealing, for which the accused was now serving a sentence of two years. His Honor said that he had received a letter from a lady, who suggested that if the Court thought fit Ricotta might be permitted to leave the State and return to Italy. On the present charge, his Honor said, he would sentence him to two years in Goulburn Gaol, concurrent with the previous sentence; but his release would be recommended if arrangements were made for his return to Italy.

LARCENY.

Donald John Smith was charged with having stolen, at Waverley, on January 31, 1916, two watches, a chain, a camera, and £6 10s in money, the property of John Christian Kubler; and a watch and chain, 3 brooches, and a ring, £24 in money, the property of Charles Rudolf Kubler. The accused, for whom Mr. E. R. Abigail appeared, pleaded guilty. He was remanded for sentence.

CROWN CASE FAILS.

William Stephen John Stone pleaded not guilty to a charge, that he did, at Sydney, on January 30, 1916, make a die for the purpose of being used to forge a trade mark registered by the Board of Water Supply and Sewerage. The case for the Crown was that the accused forged a die used for officially stamping cisterns, etc. It was alleged that this die had been used on cisterns which had not been passed by the board. Stone, who was defended by Mr. W. Carter Smith, in his evidence, denied having forged the die. He had been temporarily employed in looking after the business of a Sydney die-maker, who was sick. A man came to the shop and asked to be made a die according to a sample. The accused said that he fulfilled this order in the ordinary course of business.

The jury found a verdict of not guilty, and Stone was discharged.

WHARF-LABOURERS' WAGES.

WELLINGTON (N.Z.), Tuesday.

The conditions of the waterside labourers were considered at a conference held at Wellington. The employers intimated that they were unable to take the responsibility of increasing the wages and altering the working conditions of the waterside workers. The federation would not agree to a suggestion to refer the matter to the Arbitration Court. The employers announced that under the circumstances they would themselves take steps to have the matter dealt with under the Arbitration Act.

SYDNEY SAILORS' HOME.

The annual meeting of the Sydney Sailors' Home was held yesterday. The president, Mr. G. E. Fairfax, was in the chair, and there were also present Captains S. G. Green, W. H. Mason, and C. J. Henty, and Mr. F. W. Hixson. In their annual report on the working of the institution to December 31, 1916, the directors stated that 2880 seamen took advantage of the benefits of the establishment during the year. Foreign Consuls had taken full advantage of the well-known resources of the institution by placing distressed seamen there until they were re-shipped or otherwise dealt with. The superintendent took charge of £789 from the inmates for safe keeping during the year, most of which had been given back to the men as they had demanded it. The establishment was still maintaining its usefulness, and it had proved a comfortable home for sailors visiting this port. The thanks of the directors were rendered to the subscribers for their contributions. The balance-sheet showed a small credit balance of £56 6s 11d, which was considered satisfactory.

On the motion of Captain W. H. Mason, seconded by Captain C. J. Henty, the report and balance-sheet were adopted. The directors congratulated the superintendent, Captain Kerr, on the economy that had been practised in the institution during the year. On behalf of the directors, the president tendered to Captain Green congratulations on his gallant rescue of a drowning man at Circular Quay recently. Captain Green, in a modest reply, gave thanks for the congratulations, which were heartily endorsed by the gathering.

FIRE ON WHARF.

At an early hour yesterday morning a fire was discovered in some piles on Weston's Wharf, at the foot of Adolphus-street, Balmain, the property of Messrs. Allen Taylor and Co. The flames were extinguished by the Balmain Fire Brigade before much damage was done. The cause of the outbreak is unknown.

PERFECT DIGESTION MEANS PERFECT HEALTH.

Thousands of people who have suffered from stomach troubles and general ill-health resulting therefrom, because of a badly regulated diet, and the ingesting of an excessive amount of food at the table, have obtained speedy and permanent relief by means of a simple expedient—that of using one or two of Dr. Sheldon's Digestive Tabules after each meal, or whenever any of the well-known symptoms of Indigestion are present. These powerful Digestive Tabules contain the same elements as found in a healthy stomach. They take the place of the natural digestive juices when the latter are deficient in quality or quantity, and do their work for them, removing the Indigestion by digesting the food and resting, strengthening, and purifying the digestive tract.

There is no other digestive remedy on the market which has been found equal to Dr. Sheldon's Digestive Tabules. None which is so rapidly and powerfully efficient or which removes discomfort, banishes stomach pain, and relieves and removes all the symptoms of Dyspepsia and Indigestion in so thorough a manner as these marvellous Tabules.

DR. SHELDON'S DIGESTIVE TABULES.

DR. SHELDON'S DIGESTIVE TABULES ARE SOLD EVERYWHERE AT 1/6 PER TIN OF 36 TABULES, AND 2/6 PER TIN OF 80 TABULES.

Buy a tin, eat a good square meal, and then take the Tabules according to directions, and note the result. You will forget all about it if you are not careful, for there will be No Pain or disturbance, and the food will be Digested just as it used to be when your Stomach was well and Strong. Furthermore, your Stomach will soon be restored again, if you keep on taking them, just as thousands upon thousands of other Stomachs have been, by the sole and exclusive use of Dr. Sheldon's Digestive Tabules.

HOW ABOUT YOUR OVERHEAD?
Let us for a moment think of "overhead" as being the roof above our heads. No building is better than its roof. Your architect will confirm this statement. He knows that the factor of permanence is decided largely in the roof. A leak in the roof causes a leak in maintenance.
CERTAIN-TEED ROOFING
is weather-proof and water-tight. It is unaffected by changes of temperature or by atmospheric gases. Nor will it buckle, blister, crack, nor creep.
CERTAIN-TEED has the endorsement of the world's leading architects.
You should know more about this splendid roofing. Inspect it at our local distributers. Be sure the "General" is on the roll. Ask for free samples and literature.

FARM HOMES.

Referring recently to the competition for designs of farm home buildings, to be held in connection with the Royal Show, we mentioned the necessity for studying the womenfolk on the farm and installing conveniences that will obviate unnecessary labour and discomfort on their part. There is need for considerable reform on only too many farms in this direction, a fact brought home to the writer during a recent visit to a well-known farming district noted for its general prosperity; a district which for years had been on the top line of wheat averages, and which is very sound financially. The pumpkins and maize which grew on the river flats were a delight to the eye; the locality for miles was a picture of agricultural prosperity. Mile after mile of grain was ready for the stripper; mile after mile of maize was tasselling a 90-bushel crop. The farmer admitted it was a great year; he felt great and looked great. The farmer's wife, however, said, "I will be glad when the harvesting is all over; I can hardly stand on my feet to-day." It is safe to say that there were thousands of farmers' wives who felt the same way during the last few weeks particularly. On not one of these prosperous farms are the same old methods of cultivation being used that were used 40 years ago. The machinery is modern and labour-saving, making life easier for the farmer and the farm hands. The great majority of the farm women, however, in the district were found to be doing their work with exactly the same appliances and putting up with the same discomforts that their mothers and grandmothers did in the pioneering days. There is certainly plenty of room to make farm life more pleasant and agreeable for hundreds of farmers' wives. As the health and comfort of every member of the household depends upon the woman in the house, she should be given every opportunity of performing her household duties without being made a tired, worn-out woman. There is no reason nowadays why a woman should be expected to carry water for domestic purposes 200 yards from the creek to the house, or tramp three miles into town to obtain something for the larder because all the horses were in use. A telephone doesn't cost much, and would save the expenses half a dozen times in the year. Nor is it necessary that a woman should be asked to cook under a low skillion iron roof, the only means of ventilation being a wooden shutter window a couple of feet square. There are hundreds of such homes in this State, owned by farmers who could well afford to alter such a condition of things in the home. The disabilities mentioned are only a few of what many farmers' wives have to put up with in a climate that calls for every device that will lighten and make home life more endurable and less a drudgery than it is. The answer to a question by one farmer to another sums the matter up. Asked why he always hitched up whenever his wife wanted to go into town, although it was only a short distance away, he replied, "Bill, my boy, it only takes three years to grow a horse, but it takes twenty-one years to grow a good woman."

BLACK SPOT AND BROWN ROT.

The question as to whether Bordeaux mixture or lime sulphur is the better of the two sprays for black spot of apples and brown rot of peaches is still exercising the minds of orchardists of the different States of the Commonwealth. This year's experiments have been decidedly interesting, and, while some favour Bordeaux mixture, the majority of growers pin their faith to the lime sulphur solution. In wet seasons such as the present one it has been found necessary to make more than one spraying, and in this respect lime sulphur solution has been found the best. With apples, fruitgrowers must be prepared to spray at fairly frequent intervals for black spot if the season is wet. The result of American investigations just to hand, which were conducted by Professor H. P. Barrs, of the Oregon Agricultural College, shows that, with less staying power than its rival remedy, Bordeaux mixture, lime sulphur can be used often with due discretion without injury either to the fruit or foliage, and therefore can be made to protect the tree throughout its danger period. Professor Barrs concludes with a strong recommendation for lime sulphur as the remedy par excellence for black spot.

SCIENCE AND THE SETTLER.

"Intending Settler" writes:—In your article under the heading "On the Land," "Science and Settler," you say that the old, slow, cumbersome, and dangerous method of felling and grubbing trees is likely to be a thing of the past. That "plants" or appliances can now be obtained that will pull or push down trees and take them out by the roots, and that the cost is well within the reach of most men on the land. I take the liberty of suggesting that in another article you might give your readers the benefit of any information you have in regard to such appliances, the cost of same, where they can be purchased, and seen in operation. I know several men who have been thinking seriously of going upon the land, but this very question of the cost and hard labour of clearing has deterred them. I feel sure that the publishing of this information would be a great public service.

We could not publish the details mentioned, as it would not be fair to implement-makers and others with whose goods we are not familiar, but which may be of first quality. Anyone interested, however, by visiting the different implement manufacturers and agents in the city, and examining different exhibits at the Royal Show, can obtain the information desired. Further, information will be furnished to applicants by the Department of Agriculture, and a good deal of useful information is obtainable from the "Farmer's Handbook," published by the department.

PRICKLY PEAR.

Mr. E. P. Cottin, late Commissioner and Director of Surveys, Nigeria, writes:—Since my return to Australia after an absence of 16 years I have been greatly struck by the enormous and almost unchecked spread of the prickly pear. I remember some 25 or 30 years ago that an inquiry was instituted in New South Wales as to the area affected by this pest. I am not now quite sure as to the exact area then affected, but I am certain that it was well under 200,000 acres. I have recently made careful inquiries, both official and otherwise, and I find that in New South Wales the prickly pear has spread over from 3,000,000 to 4,000,000 acres, and that in Queensland there are from 30,000,000 to 50,000,000 acres that are similarly affected, and, moreover, the greater part of this large area is either good pastoral or agricultural land. As the spread of this pest belongs to the snowball, or compound interest order of increase, it should not be difficult to realise, having regard to the increase during the past 30 years, what may be expected in, say, 20 years hence, if drastic measures are not immediately taken to eradicate it, or at least arrest its progress.

By present methods I find that the cost of eradication is from £3 to £6 per acre; indeed this cost is generally more than the land is worth. It would therefore be a very conservative estimate to assume that the direct loss in New South Wales and Queensland caused by the prickly pear is considerably over £100,000,000; not to mention the potential loss, i.e. the loss that its unchecked spread may cause. I wish to point out that this is a direct loss—e.g.—the shares of a company may depreciate, say, 50 per cent., possibly through another company cutting the ground from under its feet. This would be a great loss to the shareholders, but it might be a gain to the general public. But when we get 5000 prickly pears in place of one sheep or one acre of wheat it is a loss that no financial chicanery or commercial legerdemain can ever restore. This is the real test of a direct loss.

When in France recently I made inquiries as to how the French Government was dealing with this question in Algeria. I found that they were employing very successfully and at small cost (certainly under £1 per acre) a gas somewhat similar to that used in the trenches, and I hope in a short time to be able to describe in detail the methods that they employ. Mr. O. C. Roberts, Cactus Estates, Limited, Queensland, informs me that he also is using successfully a somewhat similar gas. And the officials of the Agricultural Department of New South Wales have very kindly explained to me the experiments that they are carrying out. I find that these experiments are being conducted in at least six different localities, and the results should be available in a short time. I trust that the pastoralists of New South Wales may avail themselves of the results of these investigations, as I am sure that they will be of great practical value.

I have recently had an opportunity of discussing the prickly pear question with several of our leading pastoralists. They were all of opinion that comprehensive and drastic measures should be taken as soon as possible to attempt to eradicate this pest. All who can should attempt to place at their disposal the most suitable methods of eradication. Next to the war the question of the eradication of the prickly pear is to my mind the most important in New South Wales and Queensland. This may seem an exaggeration, but I am sure that those who are au courant with the matter will not be disposed to regard it as such.

WHITE ANTS.

Mr. Arthur Mackellar writes:—In connection with note upon above subject under "Answers to Correspondents," reference is made to the use of corrosive sublimate for this pest. It is most effective when properly used, but sufficient stress is not laid upon the proper method. That is: the solution should not touch metal of any kind, particularly metal containers, such as kerosene tins or galvanised buckets. Corrosive sublimate has a great affinity for nearly all metals, and given opportunity will promptly attack such vessels and leave the solution practically valueless. The dishes should be of wood, porcelain, or similar non-metal material. On one occasion as a chemist I supplied corrosive sublimate to a contractor who used it in solution for the wood work of a church. Some time later he remarked how it wore out the buckets, and could not be convinced that all his work had been practically useless. The hint should be stated every time this remedy is advised, as only a chemist can appreciate the necessity of a non-metal contact. It is the most common cause of failure in treating "White ants," or vermin in woodwork generally.

WHEAT GUARANTEE.

Mr. T. Collins, Talwang, writes at some length with regard to the proposal that the Government should guarantee a price for the next wheat crop. He traverses the history of the last three seasons, and in view of such holds it is impossible to approve of any further Government interference. He concludes:—"Coming to this crop, the fact of a farmer not being able to raise a 1s on his wheat before the end of January, and then only to get 2s 6d per bushel for f.a.q. wheat, and having to pay interest on that for an indefinite period, should be sufficient for any man of Government interference. Then there is the branding of the bags. According to Mr. Hinder's letter in a recent issue of yours, the farmer is responsible for any damage to the wheat through the agents' neglect until it is delivered in London. As a farmer of three years' experience with Government interference, I would like two guarantees:—The first that the Government will not interfere with next year's crop, and the second is they won't keep ships tied up for a month."

FRUIT WASTAGE.

Mr. Arthur Griffith, M.L.A., writes:—Facts recently published in the "Herald" bring under public notice once again the shocking wastage of fruit which results from the absence of a proper system of cold storage and efficient distribution, and I think the conditions must convince anyone interested in the problem that there are only two ways of meeting the position—co-operation among the fruitgrowers or Governmental action. If the orchardists of the State were like the pastoralists, a body of men able to find a large capital sum to start the work, the former method might perhaps solve the problem; but they are not. No scheme can be effective that does not embrace cold-storage depots, refrigerating railway cars, pumping plants, and a complete network of distributing organisation. This would place the scheme quite outside the power of the fruitgrowers, and would also be unworkable by them alone, for the reason that the machinery for storage and distribution must, to be profitably employed, be utilised to deal with other perishables, such as vegetables and fish, with which, of course, the fruitgrowers have nothing to do.

To me, therefore, it seems clear that no agency other than a Governmental one can meet the conditions to provide means for supplying the public with what it needs at reasonable rates, and at the same time securing to the grower a return for his produce. There must necessarily be alternations of glut and of scarcity; to-day the producer loses by the glut, but the consumer does not benefit. With a proper system of storage and distribution the means would exist to so balance the markets as to protect the grower from the result of the glut and the consumer from the resultant famine. It is not only the metropolis that is affected. There is scarcely a town in New South Wales where one can get an adequate supply of either fruit or vegetables. There is not one railway station in the State where the thousands of women and children travelling during the summer months can buy decent fruit at any price. The organisation necessary to accomplish all that must be done would be far from simple, the capital needed would be considerable; but both are easily within the power of the Government of the State to provide if only it can be got to realise the necessity and to face the hostility of the ring of middlemen who to-day manipulate the trade to the utmost disadvantage of both the consumer and the producer.

THE SHEEP-FLY.

"Grazier" writes:—When the losses this summer from the maggot fly are added up, they will be found to equal one of the most serious droughts. The loss to the country is already stupendous, and is still going on; and likely, not only to continue, but to increase with cooler weather. The Government does not seem to realise the great urgency of the matter, and take any effective steps to help. The various specifics and preparations available are more or less useless or beneficial, as the case may be, but not one of them is sufficiently effective to be called a preventive. Even crutching, well and carefully done by machine, is not a cure; though it reduces the trouble to comparatively small proportions. What is wanted is a cheap preparation, which will scald the wool right off where applied without any injury to the sheep, either on healthy, clean skin, or on skin that is eaten through by maggots. Or it will probably be advisable to use two preparations, one for blown sheep, and one for clean. I feel convinced that a cure lies in this direction, in conjunction with poisoning the flies.

FRUIT INDUSTRY.

VICTORIAN PEAR CROP.

MELBOURNE, Tuesday.

A deputation from the Victorian Fruitgrowers' Association waited on Mr. Adamson, who is acting on behalf of Mr. Hagelthorn, State Minister for Agriculture, to-day, and urged that the New South Wales Government should be asked to refrain from insisting upon the rigid inspection of pears that obtains in that State when the fruit is affected with spot. It was also requested that the Government of that State should be asked to admit the Victorian bushel case for this season.

As regarded the first request, it was stated that the apple crop this year was practically a failure, and that orchardists were largely dependent upon pears, which, on account of the damp weather, were affected with "spot." The deputation asked that the Victorian Government should make representations to the Agricultural Department of New South Wales, with a view to having inspectors in that State instructed not to interpret too rigidly the regulations with reference to the importation of fruit from Victoria. Otherwise it was apprehended that the pears so affected would be excluded, which would result in a great loss to Victorian orchardists.

Mr. Adamson promised to make representations as requested. As regarded the fruit case, it was stated that the Victorian bushel case differed in measurement from that adopted by other States as the result of a conference on the subject. Mr. Adamson promised to comply with this request also. He also undertook to endeavour to induce Parliament to adopt a measure during the next session to enable the size of the fruit cases to be fixed by regulation.

ORANGE SHOW.

ORANGE.—At an adjourned special meeting of the Orange A. and P. Association, the collectors reported that they had secured £452 out of the £500 asked for, in order to ensure the holding of the 1917 show. The decision previously arrived at to abandon the show was reversed, and the show fixed for April 18, 19, and 20.

DISTRICT ITEMS.

GLEN INNES.—At the monthly meeting of Glen Innes P.P. Board the stock inspector reported that there was a luxuriant growth of pasturage throughout the district, with an ample supply of water. Good feed prevailed on all stock routes and reserves. There had been no further outbreaks of pleuro. Rabbits were increasing, and owing to the prolific growth of grass would not take poison. The rabbit inspector reported that rabbits were more numerous on New England now than was ever previously known. Landholders were practically powerless as to destroying, as they would not look at poison, there being too much green feed available.

THE PRICE OF NATIONHOOD.

In his speech at the annual luncheon of the Australian Natives' Association in Melbourne last Monday the Prime Minister made an impassioned appeal for unity while victory and disaster trembled in the balance. We are living in this great empty land as though war were a picture show. Our pleasure-making and racing, our political squabbles and recriminations, are being carried on behind the rampart of human bodies in Europe; and our whole future is being decided at the present moment near the centre of the Empire under conditions so trying that even the hardest work of our pioneering in this continent is child's play beside it. The great mass of Australians have not heard a single shot fired in this war, nor even listened to the far-away rumbling of giant artillery in action. Mountain has been piled upon mountain in the accumulation of munitions, and these have been exhausted as the greedy guns have consumed them; but all that we know experimentally of the deadly shells and the shattering bombs is through a few trophies brought back by our returned soldiers. But we look to our public men, our leaders, to take juster and wider views, and it is lamentable that the people who live by politics and who have staked everything upon them should find it easy to act as though the war were a secondary consideration, and, like Messrs. M'Donald and Tudor, should insist upon making bargains against a day of reckoning with the electors which shall secure their possible advantage. But the Prime Minister insists quite rightly that Australians have a duty to perform which must shut out all thought of class, creed, or party. We have come to the critical point in our history at which the Empire must be all in all to us, or it will become nothing; and without "this great Imperial fabric," in Mr. Hughes's phrase, we shall lose our nationhood altogether.

It is a miserable fallacy to suppose that any part of a great Empire can thrive and develop at the expense of other parts without ultimately paying for it. We like to think that Australia is a nation, young it is true, but full of the fine qualities of nationhood. Have we not shown our mettle in this war? Are we not a people paying our way, developing our country, and practically governing ourselves in a world full of the fiercest competition? This may be all true up to a point, but the real test of nationhood is upon us now. It is not what a nation can do in days of excitement and enthusiasm, but what it is capable of when the strain grows severe, and when courage has to be reckoned by grim endurance and endless effort, and not by the shouting of the crowd. We are now being called upon before the world to show that we are capable of continuing to play a part among the nations. The offer of "the last man and the last shilling" is to be made good or despised as idle boasting. Our soldiers at the front are asking to be reinforced; and those in Australia who are sneering at them or who are forgetting them if not cynical or contemptuous, do not see that as we fail now we shall fail altogether. Only if we take the broad national view to-day shall we enter the coming peace of to-morrow accredited and secure; and this means that we must actually prepare to send the last man, if he should be needed, and look out the last shilling, if it may happen to be required. In other words, we shall have grasped the great fact that millions of men are fighting for us in Europe if we are ready to fight to the last ourselves; and if we do not show ourselves ready for the supreme sacrifice we shall never become a nation worthy of the name. The Empire is actually struggling for life. If it survives, and we have not struggled with it, this great Imperial fabric will be weak where Australia is woven into it, and until our weakness is made strong by the influx of new blood—of millions of men and women from outside—we shall be handicap and not help in the coming days.

IMPERIAL RELATIONS.

The "Quarterly Review" will have performed a considerable public service if the series of articles quoted in our cablegrams this morning stimulates thought and discussion on the relations of the dominions to one another, and to the mother country. The problem has suffered very much from the manner in which it has been treated in the past. In times of peace it has been canvassed so often that it has come to be regarded as fit only for debating societies or after-dinner speeches; and the solutions offered have shown so little consideration of present difficulties that the same critical formula has been considered a sufficient answer to every scheme. It was a result partly of this method of treatment and partly of the British habit of mind that the Empire found itself at war before the dominions had asked themselves what were their obligations, and how they could be fulfilled. If the war had been as short as the belligerents expected, the necessity of answering the question might never have come home to the minds of statesmen, either in Great Britain or the dominions. We might have realised, with the "Quarterly Reviewer," that our actual relations had outgrown their political expression, and have determined that we ought not to be involved in a great war again without having been previously consulted on the course of foreign policy. In all probability we should never have realised that the answer to the question must involve some act to be performed immediately, as well as some permanent addition to our rights and obligations for the future. In the midst of a war in which anything short of victory may be followed by the dissolution of the Empire the question comes to us with a new force and with all its implications. We are bound to consider what we owe to the protecting force of the Empire, and how we could have survived against a predatory despotism if at any time we had decided to depend on our own resources. Having recalled our history, we have then to ask ourselves what was meant when with universal consent "the last man and the last shilling" were pledged on our behalf. Was that the offer of a neighbour which can at any time declare its neutrality, or the fulfilment of a pledge by an ally to send a limited number of troops in accordance with some treaty obligation? It was clearly the act of a people which recognised that years of security must be paid for, and a peaceful future assured by unlimited sacrifices. It was accepted as the recognition by each dominion of its community in the trials of the whole Empire of which it had accepted the blessings. The question answered then without a full realisation of its meaning, has now to be asked again at a time when every competent judge has declared that a speedy victory depends on the employment of every human and material asset immediately for the common cause. The answer expressed in deeds must obviously far transcend in importance anything that can be decided by a conference to arrange the government of the Empire for the period after the war. In reality the vital question for such a conference will be settled when the dominions are discussing not their Constitutions but their contributions.

We can agree with the reviewer that an effective Imperial Government must have the power in the last resort of obtaining the men, money, and material from its constituents as it needs them. But the centre of the Empire cannot be expected to have much confidence in such a power, if, when its people are mobilised, its men and lads conscripted, and the nation in danger of a shortage of food, it can get no effective help from a dominion which has scarcely felt the sufferings of the war. An Empire which has such a power will also have the obligation to defend each of the dominions from any dangers arising from its geographical situation or national ideals; but it will shrink from admitting to these privileges a dominion which has made only half-hearted sacrifices at a time when the mother country was watching the loss of a whole generation, and was incurring a debt which will impoverish it for hundreds of years. The "Quarterly Reviewers" obviously have little hope of throwing any light on the legal, geographical, or national difficulties which have confronted all the attempts to devise a new Constitution for the Empire. The writer who goes farthest in moulding a new organisation out of old material suggests that the Imperial Conference be given some legislative or Executive authority, that it be enlarged and made elective. The danger of any half-considered scheme is that these defects may produce the impression that no practical system can be devised. The articles will produce their most useful result if they persuade their readers that the questions propounded have a vital bearing on the affairs of every citizen of the Empire, and cannot be ignored. Once the questions are considered their urgency must be admitted. We must see what is involved in our decision to remain a full partner in the Empire, and we must act on our decision immediately. If we in Australia are content to go on as we are at present we must recognise that the circumstances of Canada and South Africa demand the creation of machinery through which individual views may be expressed. But the circumstances of Australia and that interest in commercial questions which the Reviewer particularises are of themselves enough to convince us of the urgency of the constitutional questions which an Empire council must discuss. We know the kind of mobilisation which Germany will adopt whether victorious or defeated. There will be no overlapping nor any waste of failure of energy throughout Central Europe. For many years to come Great Britain will continue to be the mainstay of the Powers which have resisted German aggression. She can carry out her tasks if all her citizens work to their utmost, and if all the resources of the Empire are utilised to the best advantage. It is a necessary consequence of any community of sacrifice and of existence that the direction of foreign policy will be discussed in the future more fully than it has been in the past, and it follows that men who have fought to secure and establish peace shall have some effective voice in deciding how a peace consistent with their ideals shall be maintained.

STURT AND THE P.L.L.

Mr. Brookfield's candidature for the Sturt seat has at last been endorsed by the central executive of the Political Labour League. It has been decided that this gentleman is not a source of danger to the Labour movement. He is not a member of the I.W.W.; and because he is not a member, and has been strongly supported in Broken Hill—so strongly that he seems certain to win the seat whatever happens—he has been accepted as a candidate against whom nothing can be found. But Mr. Brookfield has said quite plainly that he believes in the I.W.W. He is not a member of it—because he thinks it should be satisfied with preaching its doctrine; but he has spoken out in words that cannot be mistaken demanding the release of certain of its members. At Broken Hill last week he defied the central executive of the Political Labour League. It had called upon him to recant, and in reply he threw down the gage of battle. "The central executive says that I must repudiate what I have said about the I.W.W. I will not withdraw one word that I have said for all the executives in the world." Here was a pretty dilemma. The Sturt seat in the hands of an independent Labour man would be lost; and in these days of earthquake and eclipse it does not do to lose seats. Already the break in the party has made sore trouble, but that has come from the moderate section. Here is defiance from the other end of the party, where the dynamite is stored; and the central executive, to save the situation and prevent an explosion, has persuaded itself that Mr. Brookfield cannot talk English—or rather that his English is capable of retranslation. To salvage Sturt the P.L.L. has declared, in effect, that a plain unequivocal statement means the opposite, and that a defiant, I.W.W.-loving Labour candidate is less dangerous inside the fold than out of it. Leaders in the P.L.L. declare that they are not members of the I.W.W., and they have shown themselves afraid of the I.W.W. in action; but some at any rate may be heartily in sympathy with its deadly doctrines. Men who are afraid to join may not be afraid to say "Hear, hear;" but they should be marked nevertheless by the sober, sound-thinking, moderate Labour supporter.

NAVAL CONTRACTS.

CLERK CHARGED WITH EMBEZZLEMENT.

MELBOURNE, Tuesday.

David Flynn O'Donoghue, naval staff clerk, appeared at the City Court to-day to answer five charges of having embezzled sums of money, amounting in all to £2828, paid to him as a servant of the Commonwealth.

Mr. H. I. Cohen, in opening the case for the Crown, said that the first charge related to the charter of a steamer, for which the Union Steamship Company was indebted to the Naval Department to the extent of £1440 8s 3d. According to the departmental practice, the accounts branch of the Naval Department had no knowledge of transactions entered into by the contracts branch until officially notified by O'Donoghue. In this case O'Donoghue neglected to inform the accounts branch, and collected the amount from the Union Company, persuading that firm to pay him by means of an open cheque. He subsequently cashed the cheque at the Bank of New Zealand.

Robert Edward Cummins, accountant, employed by Fyvie and Stewart, engineers, gave evidence in regard to the second and third charges. He stated that on March 3, 1916, he received a letter from the Naval Department, signed by O'Donoghue on behalf of the Director of Navy Contracts, asking for a preliminary deposit of £330 on a tender submitted by Fyvie and Stewart for £66,000, for the erection of a floating crane at the naval dockyard, Sydney. On the same day O'Donoghue called at the firm's office and asked for an open cheque, explaining that arrangements had been made by the department with the Commonwealth Bank by which the bank was to pay 3½ per cent. on moneys lodged. Interest on the deposit, he said, would be allowed to Fyvie and Stewart. He also asked for a deposit of £250 on a second tender for £46,000.

Alexander Stewart, a member of the firm of Fyvie and Stewart, gave evidence that open cheques for £330 and £250 were drawn by his firm. Evidence was also given that these cheques were cashed at the Royal Bank.

Evidence was also given on the other charges, in which the amounts involved were £100 and £707 12s 6d, respectively.

Accused, who reserved his defence, was committed for trial.

In applying for substantial bail, Mr. Cohen said that the discovered defalcations were increasing, and that no restitution had yet been made.

Mr. Croker (counsel for the accused): My friend has been doing his best to prevent restitution by making those outrageous statements.

Substantial bail was allowed.

"GO SLOW."

I.W.W. AND THE CORDEAUX DAM.

DOUGLAS PARK, Tuesday.

The work of building the Cordeaux dam has commenced, and a large number of men are engaged in clearing the site, and preparing the camping areas. The nearest point to the works is Douglas Park, on the Southern Line. The dam when completed will be about 160 feet high. The problem of transporting material to the works is a somewhat difficult one, as Douglas Park is about 13 miles from the dam. The road to the Cordeaux River is being put in order, and a survey is being made with a view of constructing an aerial tramline over parts of the route. The storage of water created by the dam will augment the Sydney water supply.

Along the road leading to the works the disciples of the I.W.W. have been busy painting in red letters on the trees and fences such statements as "Direct Action," "Go Slow,"" and "Fast Workers Die Young." The finger posts on the road have also been branded I.W.W., while a number of stickers were recently placed on the walls of a little church at Douglas Park.

PERSONAL.

VICE-REGAL.

His Excellency the Governor arrived in Sydney yesterday morning from Sutton Forest.

Mr. Donald MacKinnon, M.L.A., Director-General of Recruiting, who came to Sydney yesterday, will return to Melbourne this evening. To-day Mr. MacKinnon, accompanied by Mrs. Macarthur Onslow and Mrs. J. Seery, will visit the Red Cross establishments in the metropolitan area.

The Archbishop of Sydney has appointed Archdeacon D'Arcy-Irvine to be Vicar-General in the room of Archdeacon Gunther, resigned; and Mr. Burcham Clamp to be diocesan building surveyor in place of Mr. Cyril Blacket, resigned.

Alderman J. W. Hetherington was yesterday re-elected Mayor of Brisbane.

At the last annual meeting of the Royal North Shore Hospital the board placed on record its appreciation of the services rendered as honorary solicitor by the late Mr. Thomas Burton Gaden. The deceased gentleman had been identified with the institution since the foundation of the original Cottage Hospital in 1885, filling the poition of honorary treasurer for some years, the last ten of which he served as honorary solicitor. Mr. G. W. Ash, of the firm of Messrs. Ash and Maclean, has been appointed to the position of honorary solicitor in succession to Mr. Gaden.

Mr. Frank Coffee, of this city, has returned from a trip through the United States and Canada.

QUEENSLAND POLITICS.

MOTION OF NO-CONFIDENCE.

BRISBANE, Tuesday.

The State Parliament met again this afternoon after a break of more than five weeks. Mr. Tolmie (leader of the Opposition), gave notice of his intention to move on Wednesday that the Government did not possess the confidence of the country because of its incapacity in the conduct of public business, both legislative and administrative, its interference with the basic principle of the Federal Constitution, and failure to deal equitably with the pastoral and sugar industry, its injudicious interference with the free exchange of commodities, its breach of faith with the Public Service (principally with teachers), its injudicious embarkation on State enterprises, and undue interference with the producer, thereby disheartening him and restricting individual effort.

In the Legislative Council the Chillagoe and Etheridge Railways Purchase Bill was further debated. Mr. Leahy said the only basis on which the question should be discussed was whether the Council was justified in agreeing to the expenditure of £450,000, and in order that the proposition should be fully investigated he moved that a select committee be appointed. The motion was agreed to on the voices.

TRANSPORT WORKERS' DISPUTE.

CHARLEVILLE (Q.), Tuesday.

To all appearances a big industrial trouble is brewing in connection with the Transport Workers' Union, and there are indications that unless it is settled it will extend to Blackall, Longreach, and Hughenden. Mr. Lonsdale, general secretary of the Carriers' Union, leaves here on Thursday for Brisbane. The trouble may extend to all the western woolsheds.

SMALL ARMS FACTORY.

LITHGOW, Tuesday.

At a well-attended meeting of the Small Arms Factory Employees' Association the situation in regard to the application for an increase in wages was discussed. It was decided to ask the Minister for a conference, as the negotiations with the management had not proved satisfactory. It is also intended to ask the Minister to deal with the conditions of employment.

FIJI WAR LOAN.

SUVA, Jan. 30.

The subscriptions to the Fiji 6 per cent. War Loan, free of income tax and death duties, now amount to £237,000.

REPATRIATION.

MATTER OF NATIONAL HONOUR.

MELBOURNE, Tuesday.

The Prime Minister (Mr. Hughes), in the course of a speech in opening the Returned Sailors and Soldiers' Institute at Ballarat this afternoon, said:—"The Government intends to apply itself vigorously to the task which lies before it. The widows and dependents of those who have fallen will be provided for, the unemployable will be generously pensioned, and the maimed will be settled in occupations for which they are fitted. I now earnestly appeal to you, to the employers of labour, and to the great industrial unions throughout the Commonwealth, to lend yourselves to the task which duty and honour alike impose upon us all. Deal generously and justly with those who have dealt so generously with their country. Let them feel that their sacrifices are esteemed by their fellow-citizens, that their scars are honourable and envied wounds received in their country's cause, and not deterrent factors in the struggle for existence. Without you the Government can do but little, but with your help we can make the burden of the sufferer lighter, and the standard of national honour higher."

WHEAT STACKS ABLAZE.

FIRE IN LOCKHART RAILWAY YARD.

4,000 BAGS DAMAGED.

LOCKHART, Tuesday.

A third outbreak of fire amongst the wheat stacked in the Lockhart railway yards occurred last night. About 50 men were working in the yards during the day receiving, stacking, and loading the wheat. The yards were closed at 5 o'clock. Just when darkness set in the residents on the south side of the railway station noticed a red glare, and at once raised the alarm.

Fires were discovered between a long avenue of wheat, the railway loop line filling the only space between the two stacks. The volunteers who responded to the alarm tore down the burning hessian, and this action revealed scores of bags burning at the ends, some away on top under the iron roofing, and some quite low down. A long line of water-bearers furnished a plentiful supply of water to those who scaled the stacks with ladders, or climbed the wire ropes which keep the iron roofing in place. The quickest way to deal with the burning bags was to topple them on to the ground, none too easy a task when the bags happened to be about 20ft from the ground.

That the damage was not worse was due entirely to the energy of the voluntary workers. The stacks affected were those under the control of Messrs. Jas. Bell and Co., for whom Messrs. G. and C. Cornell are the local agents.

Naturally, there is much speculation as to the origin of the fire. Most of the wheat agents attribute the fire to the spark of the engine which picked up trucks on the loop line a few hours previously. They point out that a short time previously a railway employee and a wheat lumper extinguished fire at the stacks that was no doubt started by engine sparks. On the other hand, Mr. Dene, stationmaster, states that the shunting on the loop line took place three hours previous to the outbreak, and, considering the strong breeze blowing, the fire should not have smouldered so long.

Mr. R. S. Drummond, one of the principal local agents, expressed the opinion that there is an abnormal amount of wheat stacked at Lockhart. There is more wheat stacked along The Rock-Oaklands line than in any part of the State, and there does not appear to be the same effort made to remove it. About 4000 bags of wheat were more or less damaged. In the centre of the stacks one could go almost knee deep in spilled wheat.

MUNICIPAL INSURANCES.

POSITION OF NEWCASTLE ALDERMEN.

NEWCASTLE, Tuesday.

The Newcastle City Council passed the following motion at its meeting last night:—"That the Under-Secretary of the Local Government Department be requested to send an officer for the purpose of inquiring into the insurances to the amount of £6530 held by the New Zealand and Standard Insurance Company, of which Alderman R. Kilgour, is local agent, and also the insurance to the amount of £4337 held by the Phoenix Insurance Company, of which Alderman J. C. Reid is the local representative."

Alderman J. C. Reid said that when he was Mayor he told the aldermen that he could not have anything to do with the Phoenix Company's insurance, and if they wanted to do business with the company they would have to do so direct. In 1912, when he was not a member of the council, the insurance business was effected.

Alderman Kilgour said that it was understood by his company when he took over the position that he was to have nothing to do with the council's insurance business. When he was Mayor he knew nothing whatever of the business done with his company. He had been an alderman for 27 years, and had never received a penny from the council. He produced a letter from the manager of the New Zealand Standard Insurance Company, stating that Alderman Kilgour had nothing to do with the company's business with the council.

The motion was carried on a division.

WAR CHEST APPEAL.

The hon. secretary of the Citizens' War Chest Fund states that subscriptions are still freely coming in. The employees of Messrs. Robert Reid and Co., Ltd., have given £50, and promised another £50 if "six other wholesale firms give the same amount." Two such houses have responded, viz.—Messrs. G. Johnson and Sons, Castlereagh-street, £50, and Messrs. W. S. Cook and Sons, Ltd., York-street, £100.

Messrs. Norton, Smith, and Co. have offered £50, provided six other firms of solicitors each give a similar amount. Messrs. Windeyer and Williams, O'Connell-street, yesterday forwarded a cheque for £50.

Mr. T. Stanley Summerhayes has offered to subscribe £25 if 20 others do likewise. Already there have been two responses, Dr. and Mrs. Richard Read, Wahroonga, each contributing £25.

Mr. G. Hebden, Union Club, has sent a cheque for £100.

WAR HISTORY.

FOR THE SCHOOLS.

Further reference was made yesterday by the Minister for Education to the proposal adopted by the Cabinet for the preparation of a special history of the great war for the schools.

Mr. James said that a brief simple review of the war had been prepared last year by Mr. H. D. M'Lelland, B.A., deputy-chief inspector of schools. This had served a useful purpose, but it was now thought that something more complete and permanent should be prepared for teaching purposes, while the tremendous events of the war are still fresh in the memories of school pupils. This work will review all the principal events since the time of the Franco-Prussian war (1870), which have since been shown to have had a distinct bearing on the making of the present war by Germany, and the ruthlessness of its conduct by the Central European Powers.

LIEUTENANT CARMICHAEL WOUNDED.

A cablegram was received by the Premier yesterday afternoon, dated London, January 29, 1917, intimating that his old Ministerial colleague, Lieutenant Carmichael, M.L.A., ex-Minister for Education, had been wounded while serving in the trenches in France.

The cablegram read:—"Carmichael knocked out, not serious, in hospital, expects to rejoin fortnight, advise those concerned."

P.L.L. AND I.W.W.

STURT BY-ELECTION.

MR. BROOKFIELD ENDORSED.

At a special meeting of the New South Wales executive of the Political Labour League it was unanimously decided to endorse Mr. Brookfield as the selected Labour candidate for the by-election in the State electorate of Sturt.

Subsequent to the meeting the secretary, Mr. Evans, made the following statement:—"The executive, after exhaustive inquiry into the allegations against Mr. Brookfield having stated that he is a whole-hearted sympathiser of the I.W.W., find that the statements have been published without any foundation in fact. Mr. Brookfield has expressed his firm determination to work for the appointment of a Royal Commission to inquire into the conduct of the case and the nature of the evidence upon which the condemned men were convicted, and to move for a new trial. In this course Mr. Brookfield has the support of all right-thinking people. The executive further found that Mr. Brookfield was never a member of the I.W.W., the only organisation to which he had ever belonged being the Federated Mine Employees' Association. A good deal of unnecessary delay in dealing with the case arose out of a misconception on the part of the executive of the Barrier District Assembly in sending in the nomination forms and pledges on obsolete forms, the present P.L.L. executive being firm in the determination to uphold the rules and constitution of the movement at any cost."

MR. BROOKFIELD'S OWN STATEMENT.

THE P.L.L. DEFIED.

Considerable controversy has taken place in respect of the candidature of Mr. Percival Brookfield for the Sturt vacancy owing to his views concerning the I.W.W. organisation, and in view of his ultimatum to the P.L.L., much doubt was entertained as to whether he would be endorsed by the central executive. According to a report in the "Barrier Miner," Mr. Brookfield, in addressing a meeting at Broken Hill recently, stated that the central executive said that he must repudiate what he had said about the I.W.W. He would not withdraw one word that he had said for all the central executives in the world. "I got wires through from the central executive," he went on, "asking me to repudiate the I.W.W. sentiments, which I have said I will stick to. All those men who are in prison fought with us to beat conscription, and took the risks with us. Before I will retract one word from what I have said I will carry my swag and not go into the State Parliament."

"There was no man," proceeded the report, "who believed in the preamble of the I.W.W. constitution more than he (Mr. Brookfield) did. He had had many arguments about the I.W.W., and he did not think that the time had yet come for the I.W.W. as a dual organisation; it should confine itself to propaganda. That was why he did not belong to it."

At the conclusion Mr. Brookfield stated that the central executive seemed to see an obstacle, but whether the endorsement came through or not he would go on with the fight. It would make no difference with him if it did not come he would fight all the harder to get in.

THE GREAT OFFENSIVE.

CANADA PROVIDING RAILWAY LINES.

Mr. Frank Coffee, of Sydney, who has returned from a trip to America, gives some interesting information of what Canada is doing in connection with the great offensive which is expected in the West in the coming spring. He said that large gangs of men were now actively engaged tearing up the railway lines and sleepers from one end of Canada to the other, wherever they could be spared; and this railway material was being sent over to France in order to construct lines for the conveyance of troops and war material to the Western front. By this means Canada would supply 3000 additional miles of railways for the use of the troops.

Colonel Stewart, one of Canada's largest railway contractors, is the moving spirit, and he is personally directing the removal of this huge quantity of rails and sleepers. Colonel Stewart has also got together 1000 engineers and others to lay down these rails, and this work is now being carried out with all possible speed.

PRISONERS OF WAR.

NO PRIVATE PARCELS ALLOWED.

MELBOURNE, Tuesday.

The Red Cross Society are in receipt of a cable message from their commissioners stating that the despatch of parcels to prisoners of war by private individuals is prohibited, and that it is, therefore, useless for Australian friends of prisoners to send these oversea. The commissioners have had twenty-six bags of such private parcels returned to them by the postal authorities in England.

The Red Cross Society alone is authorised to send parcels, and these are despatched regularly to every prisoner of war. Friends desiring to supplement these parcels should send cash contributions through the Red Cross Society, and extras will be purchased with such contributions for nominated prisoners.

"NEAR THE FRONT."

AUSTRALIAN CASUALTY CLEARING STATION.

Lieutenant-Colonel H. S. Stacy, O.C., 2nd Australian Casualty Clearing Station, writes as follows to the hon. secretary of the Australian branch of the British Red Cross Society:—

"As we have completed 12 months' service, I am writing to thank your society for the liberal help they have given us, in Australia (before leaving), in Egypt, and for the last six months in France. As your commissioners have no doubt told you, we are well up near the front, having the honour to be one of the most advanced clearing stations in France.

"Thanks to your society's aid, we lack for very little in the way of equipment, and it must be most satisfactory for you to know that owing to the up-to-date nature of this, shrapnel, etc., is extracted with greater ease than would be possible without it. Owing to this, the soldiers are saved a certain amount of pain, and undoubtedly have a more speedy convalescence. Many of the British clearing stations have expressed a wish to me that they could have such a liberal organisation behind them.

"This station was one of the few field hospitals to have a complete electric lighting plant. The army is now equipping all the others."

DECLARED BOGUS.

FOUR P.L.L. BRANCHES.

It was decided at a meeting of the Political Labour League executive of New South Wales to call upon the Liverpool, Fairfield, and Cabramatta branches to show cause why they should not be declared bogus, by February 9, 1917, on the grounds of failure to support the resolution regarding conscription carried by the 1916 conference, and refusal to endorse the action of the executive in connection with the expulsion of Mr. A. E. Bosley, late selected candidate for the Camden State electorate.

At the same meeting the Gundagai P.L.L. was declared bogus on similar grounds.

STATE COAL MINE.

LITHGOW, Tuesday.

Work is proceeding slowly at the site of the State coal mine. About 25 men are engaged in the preliminary work for the erection of fans, boilers, etc., suitable for a modern pit top. Shaft sinking has not yet been commenced.

OUR DOMAIN.

IS IT SAFE?

Failing a direct pronouncement by the Premier on behalf of the Government, there still remains a suspicion that, sooner or later, a portion of the Domain will be filched to provide land for additions to the Sydney Hospital premises.

This is no new idea. Over and over again the suggestion has been made, and each time it has met such a volume of hostile opinion that responsible public men have been obliged to abandon it. Yet not each time exactly, for the fact is that to-day the open spaces of the Domain comprise an appreciably smaller area than when it was originally dedicated to the people for public recreation and the general good. There have been encroachments on the Domain. An art gallery, a library, a strip here for a wharf, and a strip there for baths. "Please do not walk on the grass" stares the newcomer in the face to-day as he nears the approaches to this old reserve that was in every sense of the term a "common" to the pioneers of the city. But these encroachments have had behind them some solid excuse for the public good. There is a double meaning to recreation. It means not only rest, but improvement. An art gallery, a library, a cultivated lawn or hedge, a band rotunda, maybe. All these things, though they cut down the total area available for fresh air or for indolent restfulness, had some claim to be included in the category of recreative facilities. They add to the intellectual repose of a noise-bewildered city population. They are aids to an appreciation of art and of literature. They make for the better enjoyment of nature's beauty, and as such they fit in with the general scheme of things designed for the rest and recreation of the people.

But to build a venereal clinic in the Domain—ugh! Is it any wonder that a public protest, almost unprecedented since our politicians began to think out schemes of town-planning and street-widening, arose? All these schemes have their merits, it is true. Sydney was not built, it grew, and it is easy to understand that it did not grow along lines calculated to improve the hygienic conditions of its populace. To-day the problem which faces our civic fathers and our politicians is to give more room, to open up wider avenues of transit and of communication, to meet the ever-growing demands of the city's pedestrian and vehicular traffic. But it is surely false policy to do this at the expense of existing open spaces. It is cheaper, that is true, but cheaper only as far as the pounds, shillings, and pence of either general or municipal politics go. Taken out to its logical conclusion, one might ask why should not all of the Domain and all of Hyde Park be utilised to provide wide thoroughfares for tram, or train or horse-drawn traffic to reach the foreshores of the harbour or the seashore with more expedition? That proposition would bring only contumely upon the head of the man who dared to put it forward. Yet what is being done is only part of the gradual process of theft and waste which is stealing away the whole of the public recreation grounds of the people of Sydney.

"Ministers are very averse to utilising a portion of the Domain for the establishment of the venereal clinic, but they are yet unable to make up their minds between this and some alternative suggestions." So runs the latest information on the subject, as conveyed in the news of the day. And still the general public waits for some decisive pronouncement as to whether or not another slice of breathing space will be filched from an already congested and panting city. These alternative suggestions, what are they? The most searching inquiries would appear to indicate one only. Whilst a variety of sites has been suggested for the venereal clinic, none appears to have been given serious thought, except one that means to a greater or lesser extent the pollution of the city's principal recreation area. Because finances are tight—let it be remembered that that seems to be the chief reason—it is now proposed that the construction of a special building in the Domain may be avoided by utilising one or more of the two-story houses on the western boundary of the Domain, known as Richmond-terrace. Truly, the mountain has been in travail, and has brought forth a mouse. The sheer weight of public protest has crumbled the idea of a galvanised iron surgery in the middle of the city's nearest open promenade, as was suggested at first, and the most favoured alternative is to shift the clinic less than 200 feet further along—but still in the Domain.

If this is a subscription to public opinion, it is about the most niggardly recognition ever paid. Practically every one of the objections raised to proposition No. 1 are tenable as against this latest suggestion. It is the merest pretence at an observance of the popular will. Ministers pretend that they are anxious to preserve inviolate the general right to use the public domain for public recreation purposes; and, side by side with that pretence, they seriously consider—mainly because they are short of money—the establishment of a venereal clinic on the very edge of the Domain.

The pretence is too thin. Nothing short of a deliberate pronouncement that the people's domain will not harbour an institution of this character will satisfy the demand for fair treatment in this matter. There are other alternatives. Other sites have been suggested, as Ministers know, and it is their bounden duty to give them the most serious consideration. Should the Richmond-terrace site be agreed upon, it will be the most difficult imaginable to make the people believe that it is not intended, sooner or later—as soon as funds are available—to make additions to the Sydney Hospital premises that will seriously encroach upon the public reserve of the Domain area. It may be granted without hesitation that the principle of the establishment of the clinic is one which deserves public tolerance. But the plea that this treatment can be given nowhere else but in the Domain is one that cannot be accepted. It might be admitted also that privacy is a very important factor in this treatment. But to suggest that a site in the very heart of the city is the only possible place where this privacy might be observed, is to place altogether too much reliance upon the credulity of the people. Let reasonable consideration be given to the sufferers from the diseases proposed to be treated; it is still true that the only sound principle of administration is the greatest good for the greatest number. And in this particular matter, not only the living, but the unborn, have a direct interest. There are many still alive who remember Hyde Park as a racecourse, and many more who knew the Domain as the first cricket ground of the State. It is an easy matter to cast the mind forward a few years, and to imagine the areas which now seem to us to be big, as mere parks, serving the purpose of temporary breaks in the journeyings to and fro of the people of a greater Sydney. These people will not discuss a venereal clinic in the Domain; they will talk about the short-sightedness of their forbears in allowing the original reserves to be whittled away because it was "convenient" and "cheap" to use these areas for these purposes. These people will not wrangle over extensions to a huge, general hospital in the heart of the city; they will marvel how it ever came about that the finest street of the city led to Government House, the legislative halls,—and the venereal clinic.

STATE INCOME TAX.

Taxpayers are reminded that Wednesday, February 7, is the last day for furnishing State income tax returns for the year ended December 31, 1916. Failure to furnish such returns within the prescribed time renders the delinquent liable to a penalty of £100.

NO BONUS.

MELBOURNE, Tuesday.

The Melbourne and Metropolitan Board of Works decided to-day that no man who was eligible and who could not show good reason for not enlisting should be entitled to receive a bonus.

STAMPS ON POSTAL NOTES.

The president of the Sydney Chamber of Commerce addressed a communication to the Deputy Postmaster-General relative to the non-payment of stamps affixed to postal notes, and has received the following reply:—"Respecting the non-payment of stamps affixed to postal notes after the 31st March next, I have to intimate that the regulation annulled was a relic of pre-Federation days, when each State issued its own stamps, which were not negotiable in another State. Now that a Federal stamp is in use throughout Australia there is no need for the regulation, as the sender of postal notes can forward the stamps separate from the note to make up odd amounts. Furthermore, stamp vendors who are allowed commission for selling stamps to the public are drawing the commission on stamps used in the manner indicated; hence the Government is paying commission for selling stamps to itself. As the public can enclose stamps to make up the amount no inconvenience ensues."

THE WEST

LE TRANSLOY

SURPRISE FOR GERMANS

MESOPOTAMIA

BRITISH SUCCESSES

THE RUSSIANS

BRISK FIGHTING AGAINST TURKS

The ground is deeply frozen on the western front, enabling the transport of heavy guns to be carried on.

The British raided the enemy lines near Vermelles, bombed the dugouts, and inflicted many casualties.

A narrative of the British surprise attack at Le Transloy is given by Mr. Philip Gibbs, who says that the operation was carried out with ease, 350 amazed Germans being captured and taken to the internment camps.

The Russians attacked the enemy with the bayonet southward of Brzezany, in Galicia, taking the first line of trenches. They repelled violent Turkish counter-attacks, and demolished the enemy's trenches.

Success is attending the operations of the British force in Mesopotamia.

WESTERN FRONT.

GROUND DEEPLY FROZEN.

BRISK ARTILLERY ACTIONS.

LONDON, Jan. 30.

The ground is deeply frozen on the Western front, thus enabling the transport of heavy guns, which were held up during the mud period.

A French communique yesterday stated: German attacks at Hartmans-Wellerkopf were easily repulsed. An enemy aeroplane was brought down. Our aeroplanes dropped bombs on railway stations at Athies, Savy, and Entrellers.

A communique issued at midnight stated: There has been reciprocal artillery fire and grenading in the sector of Hill 304 and on the left bank of the Meuse, and long-range artillery fire in Lorraine.

Sir Douglas Haig, in his midnight report on Monday, stated:—We raided the enemy lines north-east of Vermelles, bombed the dugouts and inflicted many casualties. We entered positions north-east of Armentieres and reached the third line, where we destroyed the dugouts with the occupants, and killed many Germans in the trenches. Some were also taken prisoner.

FRENCH PREPARATIONS.

PARIS, Jan. 30.

Correspondents insist that French preparations for the offensive are so complete that they are able to attack on a big scale wherever and whenever they choose, thus restoring the element of surprise that was absent in the Loos and Champagne and Somme battles, where the Germans were aware of concentrations of troops. The French have now prepared vast stores of ammunition and material, and laid down great lengths of new roads and railways.

ENEMY REPORTS.

(Admiralty—per Wireless Press.)

A German official message states:—We repulsed three English waves with heavy losses north of Armentieres. Repeated French attacks on Hill 304 were unsuccessful.

PRUSSIAN MILITARISM.

THE LAST DITCH.

NEW YORK, Jan. 29.

The New York "World" says that, although the German Emperor, who is wedded to rapacious war gods, is unable to perceive danger signals at home and abroad, Prussian militarism has reached the last ditch.

EMPIRE'S DEVELOPMENT

CAPTAINS OF INDUSTRY NEEDED.

LONDON, Jan. 29.

Australian munition-workers, numbering 328, employed in Barrow, celebrated Australia Day by holding a dinner. The Mayor and the Agent-General for South Australia (Mr. F. W. Young) were present.

Replying to an objection that the Empire Resources Development Committee's proposals implied State socialism, Sir Leander Jameson said: We have been tending that way since the war. It will be necessary to see that State socialism has the proper label and takes the right direction. It will be a hopeless task to make a development committee out of the existing Civil Service. The committee must consist of captains of industry.

LE TRANSLOY.

BRISK SURPRISE ATTACK.

GERMANS COMPLETELY DAZED.

LONDON, Jan. 29.

Mr. Philip Gibbs sends a brisk narrative of a British surprise attack at Le Transloy on Saturday. The objective was an important slope running to the ruined village before which picked enemy troops were strongly entrenched. The whole operation was carried out with astonishing ease, and 350 amazed Germans were bundled into London omnibuses, and taken to the internment camps before they had quite realised that the attack had commenced.

The morning was piercingly cold, and the Wurtembergers preferred to stay in their well-made dug-outs making coffee on small stoves, particularly as they suffered badly from trench feet and stomach troubles. There was no wire entanglements, only one or two shivering sentries. The Germans evidently believed the British were equally anxious to remain in peace and quietness.

This was a mistake. A body of north-British and Irish troops had their bayonets fixed and their iron rations slung in their belts, awaiting the signal to go over the top. There was no preliminary bombardment. At 5.30 there was a terrific crash of artillery. The British scrambled across the snow-clad "No-man's-Land." They took four minutes to cross a hundred yards. The frozen quagmires were pockholed with shell holes. There were no Germans above ground when the British reached the enemy line. There was an utter lifelessness about the place, giving rise to curious and uncanny feelings. Not a single machine gun spat out death-dealing bullets. When the dugouts were challenged the Wurtembergers came up dazed. The officers explained that they thought it was the usual morning "strafe," and that they had no idea that there was to be an attack. They asked, "How did you get here so quickly?"

A few of the Germans found time to recover from the stunning blow, and fought pluckily until they were overpowered. The British went on another 500 yards, and dug in the frozen ground. Others took possession of dugouts. Our artillery smashed up the counter-attacks, thanks to having absolute observation of the German movements from the higher ground won in the Somme battle.

MESOPOTAMIA.

FURTHER BRITISH SUCCESS.

SOUTH-WEST OF KUT-EL-AMARA.

LONDON, Jan. 29.

An official message from Mesopotamia states:—We now hold the Turkish first and second lines south-west of Kut-el-Amara on a front of 4300 yards, and the third and fourth lines over a frontage of 600 yards.

Nine hundred and fifty Turkish dead have been collected and more have not yet been counted. We also captured 127 prisoners, one gun, three trench mortars, and a maxim.

GERMAN BRUTALITY.

A HARROWING STORY.

LONDON, Jan. 29.

Mr. H. C. Mahoney's book, "Sixteen Months in Four German Prisons," narrates a harrowing story of German brutality. The author was arrested before the war on a false charge of spying, and was sent to Sennelager, where he was half-starved. Many wounded soldiers from Mons, mostly British, were subjected to barbarous ill-treatment. Men were ordered to remove their bandages in the open air on a hot and dusty day. When the bandages adhered to the wounds the doctor roughly tore them away. The wounds were exposed to dust and became clogged. Blood poisoning and gangrene often followed. Major Bach, the commandant, devised tortures and annoyances, and raised false hopes of repatriation.

Offenders against discipline were tied to posts for four hours. The ropes biting deeply into their flesh caused intense pain and insensibility. After two hours the victims were revived with buckets of water. The period of insensibility was not included in the period of punishment, Major Bach meanwhile joking and jeering at the victims. A colonial soldier from the Gold Coast who was sentenced to eight hours of this torture begged to be shot. Major Bach on one occasion turned out the prisoners from the barracks, forcing the majority to spend the night in a rainstorm. Many were found unconscious from exposure. Some went mad, and one committed suicide.

TO WIN THE WAR.

APPEAL TO DEMOCRACY.

LONDON, Jan. 29.

Sir Joseph Ward, speaking at a War Loan meeting in Eastbourne, said the war was not going to be won with silver or golden bullets, but required a copper bullet. He urged that a greater effort should be made to obtain the support of democracy in every part of the kingdom, and added that the dominions had already contributed 700,000 men, and would provide a million, and until they knew their efforts in conjunction with England's were successful.

VOICE OF THE CANNON

THE GERMAN BELIEF.

NEW YORK, Jan. 29.

The United Press Agency's Berlin correspondent says that during the Cathedral service in celebration of the German Emperor's birthday, when reading the Lord's Prayer, emphasis was laid on the supplication: "Give us this day our daily bread."

The Court-Chaplain, the Rev. Dr. Dryander, in the course of his sermon, said: "Before us is a decisive battle requiring the greatest sacrifice. We neither willed nor wanted this war. The Emperor extended the hand of peace, but with unprecedented frivolity and insults our enemies slapped that hand. To such enemies there is only one voice—the cannon. God cannot permit the Germans to go down."

The service was attended by Royalty and the highest nobles, officials, and diplomats.

SUBMARINES.

TRANSPORT SUNK.

GERMAN CLAIM.

LONDON, Jan. 29.

A Berlin official message states: One of our submarines sank, in ten minutes, on January 25, an armed enemy transport full of troops.

The vessel was steering eastward, 250 miles east of Malta.

The transport was accompanied by a French torpedo boat.

ATTACKS WITHOUT WARNING.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 30.

An inspired statement emanating from the German Embassy states that submarines will attack without warning British merchantmen armed fore and aft.

VESSELS SUNK.

The British steamer Jevington (1739 tons), the Norwegian steamer Myrdal (2631 tons), and the Danish steamer Suhr (1482 tons) have been sunk.

Lloyds report that the British steamer Matheran, 7654 tons, has been sunk.

SINKING SUBMARINE.

The Norwegian "Tidens Tegn" states that a trawler brought to Hammerfest (Norway) thirty-nine of the crew of a large German submarine which was found sinking on Sunday. The crew were rescued in neutral waters, and will therefore be allowed to return to Germany.

BRITISH NAVAL MEASURES.

THE HAGUE, Jan. 29.

The "Berliner Tageblatt" alludes to the new British naval measures in the North Sea as "the blockade of Heligoland Bight," and points out that they are designed to stop German submarines.

DEUTSCHLAND OVERDUE.

NEW YORK, Jan. 29.

The submarine Deutschland is overdue, and the agents are anxious concerning her.

GREECE.

ALLIED FLAGS SALUTED.

ATHENS, Jan. 30.

The saluting of the allied flags was carried out on Monday afternoon.

Members of the Cabinet and units of the Athens garrison attended on the Zappeion Esplanade. The Allies' flags were grouped under the peristyle where the allied Ministers and chief officers stood. The Greek troops then lowered their flags to those of the Allies, and defiled before the peristyle, the bands playing the national anthems of the Allies.

SEVERITY OF BLOCKADE.

LONDON, Jan. 29.

The "Daily Chronicle's" Athens correspondent says the censorship holds up all but colourless news. It is evident the blockade has been severely felt. Disturbances have occurred at Patras. Demonstrators calling for bread raided the cafes and smashed the King's portrait. They cried, "Long live the Entente and Venizelos—down with the tyrants!"

The so-called "blockade bread" contained only 30 per cent. of white flour, and was in general use, even in the Royal household. Business is at a standstill, and there has been no European mail since November.

It is definitely stated that the German Emperor advised King Constantine to accept the Allies' ultimatum, as Germany was unable to despatch a force to aid Greece.

CLAIM FOR PRIZE MONEY

INTERESTING POINT.

LONDON, Jan. 29.

The crew of E14 are claiming prize-money for sinking a Turkish gunboat and transport on May 1, 1915. The latter had 6000 troops aboard, and all were lost.

The question was raised whether prize-money is payable regarding the transport.

The Judge pointed out that the sum payable would be £31,000, if the troops were included. He reserved judgment.

BRITAIN'S FOOD SUPPLY.

LONDON, Jan. 29.

It is officially stated that the statement made by Mr. Anderson, M.P, that England will very shortly be rationed, is unauthorised and incorrect

ROLL OF HONOUR.

ALLIED CONFERENCES.

LONDON, Jan. 30.

Lord Milner, General Sir Henry Wilson, Lord Revelstoke, General Castlenau, and other French and Italian delegates were heartily welcomed at Petrograd, where they have arrived to attend a military and political conference similar to those that have been already held in London, Paris, and Rome.

ALLIED NAVAL ACTION.

PARIS, Jan. 29.

Admiral Corsi (Italian Minister of Marine), who was interviewed while en route to Italy after the conclusion of the naval conference, said: The war at sea will be intensified. Necessary measures for the protection of merchantmen will be taken.

Admiral Corsi does not approve of torpedo destroyers accompanying convoys. Other means will be employed—the French and Italian fleets in the Mediterranean are collaborating splendidly. He was more than ever convinced of victory.

TRIUMPH IN SURGERY.

PARIS, Jan. 29.

Surgeon-Major Buvergey extracted a bullet from a soldier's heart. The bullet had lodged there for several months. The soldier is entirely cured.

ALBANIAN RECRUITS.

ROME, Jan. 29.

Messages from Valona state that the Austrians have recruited 20,000 Albanians.

RAIDER'S RUSES.

PRETENDS TO BE IN DISTRESS.

FATE OF SHIPS THAT COME TO AID.

COPENHAGEN, Jan. 30.

Twenty-six Scandinavian and American seamen released from the steamer Yarrowdale, captured by the Germans, state that the raider that has been operating in the Atlantic is named the Moewe, and is a new vessel of 12,000 tons, of 22 knots, with four big and two small guns and two torpedo tubes, and ammunition and food for four months.

The raider frequently pretends to be a ship in distress, and, when other ships come to her help, opens fire on them and also tries to get round the stern of doubtful merchantmen to see if they are armed. If she detects a gun she immediately drops her disguise and opens fire.

The Moewe, on an average, they say, sinks one merchant vessel daily.

MERCHANTMEN WARNED.

NEW YORK, Jan. 30.

A wireless message states that a mysterious ship was recently sighted 700 miles off Sandy Hook. She refused to disclose her identity. The warships have sent wireless warnings to merchantmen.

GERMANY'S EFFORT.

SEEKING A DECISION.

SPECTRE OF FAMINE.

LONDON, Jan. 29.

The Exchange Telegraph Agency publishes an article by Lieutenant Paux, formerly editor of "Temps," who is now attached to General Foch's staff. He points out that the old tradition of winter quarters no longer exists, also that Germany's internal condition does not permit her to await the Entente's exhaustion.

She is certainly feverishly preparing for a great effort, Lieutenant Paux continues. Her only hope of victory is the inflicting of a stunning blow. It is useless for her to keep back troops for the autumn, owing to the spectre of famine. We must expect a victory or a confession of defeat. Germany must lose the game if she does not obtain a satisfactory decision before June.

Lieutenant Paux rejects the idea of German offensives against Salonica, Italy, or towards Petrograd. Only the West front is left. The difficulty is to say where the offensive will break out. Certain indications suggest it will be against Paris. Germany will immediately simultaneously employ all her available troops. It will be for a decisive objective—a supreme effort, or an attempt to break through at the Ango-French junction. One thing is certain—though Verdun was a surprise, this will not be one.

PEACE OVERTURES.

ANOTHER MOVE LIKELY.

NEW YORK, Jan. 30.

The Washington correspondent of the "New York World" says that the Entente Envoys expect President Wilson to make another move toward peace. It is considered that there are two possible courses for him. First, he may formally invite an official discussion by belligerents upon the principles of his peace speech; and, second, he may invite the belligerents to send a representative to confer with the United States with a view to adopting general principles as a basis for an armistice pending actual peace treaties.

PRESIDENT WILSON'S NOTE.

NEW YORK, Jan. 29.

The United Press Agency's correspondent in Berlin states that Germany will reply to President Wilson's Note.

APPEAL TO WOMEN.

LONDON, Jan. 30.

Reports from Vienna state that there has been a great peace demonstration there. A meeting of women resolved to appeal to the women of enemy countries to declare their desire for peace.

THE RUSSIANS.

VIOLENT ATTACKS REPELLED

TURKS ON EAST FRONT.

Admiralty—per Wireless Press.

LONDON, Jan. 29.

A Russian official report reads: We attacked with the bayonet south-west of Potutory, southward of Brzezany, taking the first line of trenches.

We repelled violent Turkish counter-attacks. We exploded six Turkish mine-galleries, demolished the trenches, and withdrew. The Turks twice attacked, but were driven back.

GERMAN ACCOUNT.

A German official message states: The Turks repulsed strong Russian attacks on the Ziota Lipa.

OFFICERS FROM OVERSEA.

CLUB IN LONDON.

LONDON, Jan. 30.

The Rocky Mountain Club has been given up for a project for a club house, to be run in the interest of the Belgian Relief Fund. It is hoped to raise £200,000.

IMPERIAL UNITY.

THREE VIEWPOINTS.

AUSTRALIA, NEW ZEALAND, AND SOUTH AFRICA.

LONDON, Jan. 30.

In the "Quarterly Review" there are three contributed articles giving the Australian, New Zealand, and South African viewpoints on Imperial unity.

The Australian writer says that Australia's organisation and control of defence were a reminder to the Imperial Government and Australians of the distinct national interests forming part of the sphere of the Australian Government. With this expansion of interests, the policy of self-government tended to widen, requiring the revision of constitutional formulas. The war had revealed in a tragic way Australia's concern in European politics, and liabilities as a member of the Empire, and, therefore, it was unlikely that she would accept a situation committing her to a policy in which the people had no voice, and yet every sentiment repels the notion of separation.

"Australia," the writer continues, "has vast undertakings, vitally needing the support conferred by the Empire, which could not be guaranteed by a mere alliance. Membership of the Empire involves unlimited liability and the share of common defence, and any scheme is hypothetical unless it utilises a dominion's resources comprehensively. The Dardanelles expedition did not fail to bring home to Australians that there are matters concerning them closely for which the existing Constitution does not offer them satisfaction. The risk of discord to-day lies in the fact that the actual relations have outrun their political expression. Some definite constructive policy will be demanded to bring the government of the Empire into harmony with the realities of the new situation.

"The question is whether union should be of the confederate or federal type. Common allegiance to the Crown and the formal supremacy of the Imperial Parliament point to federalism, but actual relations rather point to a union of Governments. It is likely that when Australian thought begins to move it will be inclined to the latter. Australian opinion at present appears to be more concerned about future trade relations than political construction. It may become clear ultimately that only a federal union will meet the case. The functions of a new Imperial union would be primarily executive. It would be unwise to follow Parliamentary models too closely. It would be better to develop the Imperial Conference on the lines of an elective senate, with power to make decisions binding the constituent Governments. If the membership were enlarged it could serve as a permanent council of foreign affairs. In the task of construction the dominions would contribute the qualities of experience and courage."

NEW ZEALAND VIEW.

The New Zealand writer finds marked differences of opinion regarding methods to bring about closer union. Some, he says, consider that although the present co-operation has stood the strain of the present crisis, it is doubtful whether it will suffice in the future. Nearly all agree that Canada is the crux of the situation, and speculate about the position when Canada's population exceeds the motherland's. Most of those who favour a change are chary about committing themselves to details. Very few New Zealanders would agree to surrender their present autonomy for more or less nominal representation in an Empire Council, fearing that the silken ties may be replaced by galling fetters. There is a consensus of opinion among New Zealand jurists that any proposal to substitute a written Constitution for the present unwritten one should not be adopted lightheartedly. More frequent meetings of the Imperial Conference would remove irritations like the double tax, and, together with the interchange of army and navy officers and cheapened cables, would greatly help in the unifying process.

SOUTH AFRICAN SENTIMENT.

The South African correspondent dwells on the increasing national sentiment in South Africa, which is against any reconstruction that would reduce existing self-governing rights. It is remarkable, he says, that not a single Unionist leader has broken silence on the specific demands made by the statesmen of other dominions. The silence is probably due to a desire to avoid embarrassing General Botha. All South Africans outside the Nationalists agree that self-interests and obligation bind the Union to the Empire, but are conscious that the Nationalists' antagonism must be taken into account in a closer union scheme.

EMPIRE AFTER THE WAR.

STRONGER AND BETTER.

LONDON, Jan. 30.

Mr. W. F. Massey (Prime Minister of New Zealand), speaking at Batley, said that from the beginning of the war he was confident that the Empire would come through the crisis stronger, better, and brighter. He hoped that after the war an effort would be made to keep Britons within the Empire. The future of the Empire rested largely on the dominions. The Empire should be made self-contained and self-supporting.

IRISH CANADIANS.

VISIT TO BELFAST.

LONDON, Jan. 30.

The Irish-Canadian Rangers were royally welcomed at Belfast. The streets were packed with cheering people, who pinned orange and green ribbons and sprigs of shamrock to the men's tunics. The battalion goes to Cork to-morrow, the tour ending with a visit to Limerick on Thursday.

WORK FOR WOMEN.

LONDON, Jan. 29.

The Employment Exchange is advertising for 8000 women between the ages of 18 and 40 to fill shells. Their wages will be about 28s.

AMERICAN DREADNOUGHTS.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 30.

The Naval Committee has raised the limit of the cost of the hull and machinery of Dreadnoughts to £3,800,000.

WAR NOTES.

WILL GERMANY ATTACK?

The opinions of Lieutenant Puaux, a former editor of "Le Temps," published among to-day's cablegrams, are very interesting. This trained observer argues that Germany's only hope of being able to maintain her present military advantage is to make an overwhelming attack on the West front. He thinks that Paris may be the objective of an early simultaneous employment of all the available German troops. The lieutenant's opinions are not by any means isolated. Speculation as to Germany's immediate intentions seems to have divided the critics into two schools—those who expect Germany to attempt to disorganise the Allies' plans by an early offensive in the West, and those who say that Germany, knowing the danger that lies in the weakness of her reserves, will concentrate all her energies on defensive tactics. It is generally accepted that the Allies, recognising that the enemy's widely extended line places him at a disadvantage, are planning a concerted offensive on the principal fronts, and that the Germans will seek to prevent this co-ordination of effort. It is argued that the Allies, striking at different times, did much last year to dissipate their strength. The Austrians' dangerous break-through in the Trentino obliged the Russians to provide relief, and they attacked in Volhynia, probably before they were ready. Meanwhile, forestalling the Franco-British offensive, the Germans unexpectedly advanced at Verdun; they were held, but the pressure on the French was so great that, as has been officially stated, the Somme assault was launched weeks before the preparations were complete. The Germans know how eagerly the Allies hope that the operations this year will be decisive, and that a favourable peace will be made before next winter. If the Allies' impending blows are weakened or diverted by a great German offensive—even supposing that such an offensive exhausts Germany's reserves—and the military position remains much as it is to-day, Germany might base upon the Allies' unwillingness to face still another year of war a claim to peace terms that would not permit the Allies to stand as victors before the historian of the future. On the other hand, the same result might be achieved by a strong defensive. If the Allies, after another summer of fighting, are able to do no more than bend the enemy line, and must face another winter in the trenches, they might be prepared to negotiate for peace on the basis of a draw. Obviously that is now Germany's object. Whether she will seek to attain it by offensive or defensive will become evident very soon. The signs seem to favour an offensive the German military creed has always been "attack."

GREECE SUBMITS.

Although no official statement has been made, and unofficial reports from Athens are about the least reliable of all "war news," there seems little doubt that Greece has submitted completely to the demands of the Allies. The Greek troops have been transferred to the southern peninsula, and the Allies have resumed control of the railway to Larissa, by which the Greeks would have to travel if they wished to make a rear attack on the Macedonian armies; reparation has been made for the attacks on the Allied forces in December, the persecuted Venizelists have been liberated, and the responsible officer has been dismissed; and, most recent of all, on Monday the official Greeks were made to salute the flags of the Allies. A rigid censorship of all news from Greece has been exercised, but we can be sure that these things have not happened without some popular turmoil. The German propagandists formed the notorious reservists' leagues, which, though now disbanded, succeeded in inflaming public opinion against French and British, and the shortage of food caused by the blockade will not have added to the Allies' popularity. However, the main object has been achieved: The menace to General Sarrail's armies, which has for so long delayed the execution of the Allies' plans in the Balkans, seems now to be definitely removed, and a wasteful conflict with Greece has been avoided. Greece would not have submitted had she expected the Germans to come to her assistance. The fact that no German drive down through Macedonia has taken place, and that General Sarrail has so far been left alone to mature his plans for cutting Germany's Near East communications, are the most comforting features of the satisfactory Greek submission. It is probable that Germany is still considering plans regarding the dangerous Allied force in Macedonia, but the fact that she did not act before all hope of securing useful assistance from Greece was past is, at least, very interesting.

FIGHTING THE SUBMARINES.

It is now generally recognised that, from the Allies' point of view, the most serious factor in the war situation is the destruction of merchant ships by enemy submarines. The enemy has repeatedly said that his policy of attrition, thus applied to allied merchantmen, will bring the Allies to their knees. Until a few months ago the British were able to keep the submarine menace in check; but more recently the enemy has turned out so many super-submarines with a wide range and high speed that in spite of the number caught or destroyed by the navy our shipping losses have become appalling. It was not to be expected that in the face of this danger the Allies would do nothing. At first the navy's ingenious traps were sufficient to control the danger; more recently the arming of all merchantmen has proved partially effective; but now, in recent cablegrams, there are repeated and somewhat optimistic references to new methods being adopted by the Admiralty. Messages published yesterday stated that a deadly "undersea" conflict between Britain and Germany was about to commence, and that Britain had declared a wide stretch of the North Sea, opposite German ports, to be dangerous to shipping. To-day there are two further significant messages; Admiral Corsi (Italian Minister for Marine), on his way from the London Naval Conference, says that some special means for the protection of merchantmen in the Mediterranean are to be taken; and the "Berliner Tageblatt" declares that the British are blockading the Heligoland Bight, with a view to stopping German submarines. The easiest way to stop a pest is to attack it at its source, and that seems to be the new anti-submarine policy. These boats must work from bases. The Central Powers can provide safe bases at five places: the North Sea coast of Germany, the Baltic, the Belgian coast, the Adriatic coast of Austria, and the Aegean coast of Bulgaria and Turkey. Apparently the Allies, at their Naval Conference in London the other day, decided upon a plan by which their naval forces, either by making such bases unsafe or by attacking and laying traps for the submarines in the vicinity of the bases, will limit the operations of the undersea prowlers. It looks as if the biggest effort will be made by the British in the North Sea, for the boats coming from these ports have wrought far more destruction than has been recorded in the Mediterranean. If the new Shipping Controller's plans for augmenting the output of new ships bear the results expected and the navy succeeds in again wrecking the submarine plans of the German "frightfulness" party, the end of the war will be brought appreciably nearer. But these are two important "ifs," both contingent upon British ingenuity, efficiency, and loyalty.

NEW GERMAN PEACE NOTE.

There are suggestions that the Germans very soon will add another Note to the already considerable number that has been given to the world during the past two months. The course of events may be briefly traced. First of all, the Central Powers, through the United States President, offered to enter into peace negotiations with the Allies. The Allies replied that they would not consider peace so long as their territory was occupied by the enemy. Then President Wilson invited each group of belligerents to state the objects for which it was fighting so that a survey might be made of the possibilities of peace. Germany said that she would state her object at a peace conference in a neutral city. The Allies replied by setting forth categorically the purposes of their war activities, and declared that nothing less than these would induce them to cease fighting. It was generally considered that the Allies had by far the best of the exchange—that the Germans by declining to state their peace terms placed themselves in the invidious position into which they had tried to tempt the Allies. Since then it is probable neutral influences have been trying to induce Germany to make a franker statement; and it seems likely that as a result of the recent meeting between the rulers and highest statesmen of the Central Powers we shall shortly have an interesting contribution to the "peace talk."

LATE WAR NEWS.

LOSS OF THE IVERNIA.

ARCHBISHOP RILEY'S EXPERIENCE.

LONDON, Jan. 30.

Archbishop Riley, of Perth, who was among those aboard the Iverina, which was torpedoed recently, says that the torpedo hit the vessel amidships. There were troops and officers aboard, but the loss was only 130.

"My boat contained 50, and was overcrowded, so that I had to do the best I could to keep the boat afloat," he said. "For two or three hours we were in a very bad sea. I was fortunate enough to get them all into a trawler, where there were 600, with only standing room. The navy did all that was possible, and sent a hospital ship for the Iverina's 64 casualties. I went on the hospital ship to Alexandria. I lost everything except what I had on."

News has been received in Sydney concerning the manner in which Private Geoffrey J. Wood received wounds (in France) resulting in the loss of his right arm. In a letter from a friend in London the writer says: "Four of the boys went out with two stretchers. One was killed, one died on the way to the dressing station, one on the journey to England; and only poor Geoff is left."

Private Wood, who is a son of Mrs. A. Wood, of Kogarah, was formerly on the reading staff of the "Sydney Morning Herald." He left Sydney in April, 1915, and went right through the Gallipoli campaign, being one of the last six stretcher-bearers to leave the Peninsula. Characteristically cheerful is the letter written to a friend, in which he describes his injuries. In it he says: "You have heard about my arm being off, of course. It was jolly hard luck, but under the circumstances the best thing that could happen."

FLOODS IN QUEENSLAND.

BRISBANE, Tuesday.

Further heavy rain has fallen in the Clermont region. The assistant traffic manager at Emerald advised on Sunday that Capella reported a rainfall of 230 points, and other places 3 to 4 inches, with every appearance of more. All creeks are running strong.

Inspector Clarke reports very heavy rain between Capella and Clermont. All the watercourses are running strong. Capella Creek is over the headstocks of the bridge. The temporary bridge at Big Ebor has been washed away and is lying against the newly constructed bridge. Traffic cannot be resumed until the temporary road is reconstructed.

FEDERAL SITUATION.

NATIONAL CABINET.

ATTITUDE OF LIBERAL PARTY.

"DARK FORCES" AT WORK.

OPPOSITION TO MR. COOK.

MELBOURNE, Tuesday.

Another day has passed and nothing has been done, as far as the public are aware, to bring the present unstable conditions which exist in Federal politics to a termination. Mr. Hughes was at his office early this morning, but left again almost immediately by motor for Ballarat, where he opened a returned soldiers and sailors' institute in the afternoon, and in the evening he addressed a meeting called to form a branch of the National Federation.

STATEMENT BY MR. COOK.

The leader of the Liberal party (Mr. Cook) is still in Melbourne. He indicated yesterday that he was leaving for Sydney to-day, but he did not do so. When interviewed this evening he said that there was no political significance in his remaining in Melbourne. No further conference had been arranged between himself and Mr. Hughes.

Although nothing definite has transpired, there are rumours in the air that all is not well with the Liberal party. The section which is behind Mr. Cook in his desire to help the Government with more than lip service is becoming decidedly restive, and it would occasion little surprise if, during the next few days, something was done that would force those who place party before country to declare themselves, and let the people know who are standing in the way of the formation of a National Government.

SELF BEFORE COUNTRY.

It is well known in the inner circle that most of the trouble over the proposed amalgamation with Mr. Hughes has been brought about by men who have for years been ever ready to remove Mr. Cook from his position of leader. With them it is not even a case of party before country, but self before party and country also. This section has been long seeking for a chance to oust Mr. Cook, and, according to whispers that have been circulated, the present set of circumstances has been seized upon as the most likely to effect the desired change.

Some idea of the loyalty of this section may be gained from the fact that while other members were busy round their constituencies on the recruiting campaign the leaders of the malcontents stayed in Melbourne and engineered a movement to bring about a climax in the party.

WAITING ON THE LABOUR PARTY.

It is not considered likely that anything will be done by Mr. Hughes and Mr. Cook in the matter of further negotiations until some decision has been arrived at by the official Labour party with regard to the proposed conference between leaders. It is pointed out that if Mr. Hughes and Mr. Cook determined to go on with their negotiations without hearing from Mr. Tudor, the Labour party would immediately set up the cry that it was invited to participate in the conference and then, before it had time to make up its mind, the whole business was fixed up.

Mr. Tudor, by his evasive reply to the invitation, has therefore placed the other leaders in an unenviable position from which they cannot move without laying themselves open to a charge of playing fast and loose with the third party to the negotiations.

PARLIAMENT TO MEET NEXT WEEK.

However, Parliament is to meet next week, so within a week the caucus will be forced to give its decision on the matter. No date has yet been fixed for the meeting of Parliament, but it will most probably be Wednesday next.

COUNTRY FIRST.

ONE ISSUE, ONE PARTY.

MR. HUGHES'S PLEA FOR UNITY.

MELBOURNE, Tuesday.

Great enthusiasm marked the opening of the establishment of the Ballarat branch of the National Federation, which was opened by the Prime Minister (Mr. Hughes) to-night. Many people were turned away from the Alfred Hall (which has a seating capacity of about 4000), where the meeting was held.

Mr. Hughes said that because the Australian people had decided the conscription issue in one way by a very narrow majority, they were not relieved of their obligations. No one could say that the war prospect had changed materially for the better during 1916. They must gird up their loins, and do their part in the struggle. To say that this was a trade war was false, for it was nothing but a fight for life or death. If those who said that this was a trade war could look over the wall that surrounded this peaceful garden they called Australia, and look upon the dreadful world outside, they would rush to the wall to fight as others had done.

The causes of this war could not be found in trade competition, for Germany had already secured that objective. Her claws were in their very vitals, and she had almost digested the trade of the British Empire. If Germany had waited for another 10 years it would have been all hers, and they would have been left with nothing but the shrivelled husks. This was no trade war. This war had been inspired by the lust of world empire.

Continuing, Mr. Hughes said that Australians were not weakening in their determination to fight the war to the end—(applause)—but because they could not do that unless they were a united people he asked them to lay aside their party differences, and not face the issue as a disorganised group of parties. (Applause.) Men said that the war would go into 1918. It might be hoped that no one thought that they could go into 1918 with a spirit of optimism, believing that their resources would last interminably. They had no such resources.

It behoved them to face this as a nation and not as a number of factions spending their strength in denouncing each other. (Applause.) Their party differences must cease. The local issues upon which the people were divided must be put aside until this common danger was removed. Party feeling must be submerged in the grander, nobler patriotism of the State. Labour and Liberal, Ministerial and Opposition, must unite for the one purpose, "win the war." There could be no other issue at the present time, for there could be no other issue which was not vitally and fundamentally affected by the result of this war. They could not undertake any national work of any magnitude, nor of permanent character, while the possibility of defeat existed. To do so would be madness. How, then, could there be any sacrifice of principle or loss of opportunity in a union of parties for the prosecution of this war? If the function of a parliament was to give expression of the people's will, never was it more clearly Parliament's duty to concentrate every effort on the one issue now before the country. He was convinced that the people of Australia were seized with the needs of the moment, and were tired of petty party bickering, which only served to hinder the actions of those who desired above all to serve their country.

The time had come for the creation of a new organisation. If the members of the two great parties in Australia, Liberal and Labour, were honest in their declaration of patriotism, here was the opportunity to show it. If in the hour of danger they put their country, and not their party, first, now was the time to prove it. (Loud applause).

SUPPORT FOR MR. HUGHES.

PERTH (W.A.), Tuesday.

The Midland Junction District Council of the A.L.F. recently endorsed the Interstate Labour Conference's action in expelling Mr. Hughes and his supporters.

The Midland Junction Branch of the Amalgamated Engineers, which is affiliated with the district council, has passed a resolution condemning the council for its action against Mr. Hughes.

RECRUITING.

DIRECTOR-GENERAL IN SYDNEY.

A SUCCESSFUL MEETING.

Mr. Donald Mackinnon, M.L.A., Director-General of Recruiting, arrived in Sydney yesterday, and held a meeting at Messrs. Saxton and Binns, Pyrmont, as soon as he arrived. The meeting was to raise recruits and subscribers to the war loan, and was most successful. It was stated by the management that 83 members of the firm had already joined the colours, and that employees had taken up £500 worth of bonds in the war loan and another £200 worth would shortly be taken up by them. Two recruits were enrolled, and the firm informed Mr. Mackinnon that it had its own repatriation scheme for the benefit of men returning from the front.

The Director-General said that the recruiting campaign was making headway all over the States. He had not got the complete figures for the past week, but in Victoria they showed a distinct improvement. They had, however, a long way to go yet before a satisfactory weekly result would be arrived at. It had been arranged that the Federal party leaders, Mr. Hughes, Mr. Tudor, and Mr. Cook, would address a large recruiting meeting in Melbourne one day next week. The Prime Minister would take an active part in the recruiting movement from now on. The South Australian committee and district committees were showing great energy, and he was very hopeful that the falling back which had taken place there would be remedied, and good results obtained. At Brisbane last Saturday morning the number of recruits obtained was the largest on any Saturday for over two months.

The chairman of the State Recruiting Committee, Professor Macintyre, is expected to return to Sydney next Monday from Tasmania.

SIR JOHN FORREST'S VIEWS.

Sir John Forrest, who is in Sydney, gave his views on recruiting yesterday. The verdict of the people on the question of conscription should be respected, he said, and he did not think it was justifiable for those who took part in the reference to the people to seek in any way to reverse the verdict. Those, like himself, who were on the defeated side must play the game, and submit to the decision, however much they might regret it. Unless they did so, of what use at all was a reference to the people?

"The only course open to us now," continued Sir John, "as it appears to me is to—(1) Forget all about the referendum and banish even the thought of compulsory service beyond Australia's shores from our minds; (2) do everything in our power to bring home to the people that more men are required to reinforce those already at the front—our brave boys whom we have already sent forth with banner and with music to fight the battles of our country, who have covered themselves with glory at Gallipoli and in France, and by their valour have shed a lustre on the name of Australia for ever.

"If we seriously consider the present situation we can have no doubt as to our duty, for it is unthinkable that we could desert our lads at the front, who are continually calling to us for help and relief.

"The appeal is now to our young men to volunteer and go of their own free will without any compulsion other than that of their own ideals of what is their duty to themselves and their mates in the firing line. I firmly believe and hope that the appeal will not be made in vain."

A WEEK'S ENLISTMENTS.

MELBOURNE, Tuesday.

The recruits accepted throughout Australia for the week ended Saturday last numbered 1093, the enlistments in the various States being as follow:—

Queensland	175
New South Wales	392
Victoria	329
South Australia	119
Western Australia	62
Tasmania	16

There was a falling-off of 200 on the previous week, mainly due to a decrease in New South Wales and Tasmania.

IN OTHER STATES.

MELBOURNE, Tuesday.

Of 58 men who offered their services to-day 41 were passed.

ADELAIDE, Tuesday.

On Monday three were examined and found fit. On Tuesday, of 24 examined 16 were found fit.

BRISBANE, Tuesday.

Ten recruits were accepted to-day.

QUEENSLAND POSTER.

A special poster has been displayed throughout Queensland, the letterpress wording of which is as follows:—

"WILL QUEENSLAND QUIT?"

December.—No reinforcements sent!

January.—Reinforcements sent with great difficulty, after breaking up technical units of men trained for special purposes.

February.—No reinforcements available!

March.—?

IS IT NOTHING TO YOU?

THE AGE LIMIT.

At a meeting of the executive of the Nepean Electorate Recruiting Committee it was decided to ask the Defence Department to raise the age of recruits to 50 years, and circularise all committees to pass similar resolutions.

AT LEICHHARDT.

Presiding at a meeting at Leichhardt last night, Alderman Blackmore said that the district had sent to the front 1290 men.

Mr. Donald Mackinnon, Director-General of Recruiting, said he had ardently advocated conscription, but he had a deep faith in the voluntary effort. Australia had arrived now at a condition in which was cast upon every individual citizen the responsibility of finding the men so urgently needed at the front. That was the present test of Australian citizenship. He could not help thinking that there was, at the present, abroad a great female influence which prevented men from going to the front. He thought that the time had come when the women of the State should realise that their nation was face to face with a grave crisis. He hoped that by next week they would have Mr. Hughes, Mr. Cook, and Mr. Tudor uniting in the call for recruits from a common platform. Australians should not take consolation from the story that Germany was starving. The last of the Germans to be starved would be the soldiers of Germany. The Allied Powers had to realise that so far the Germanic Powers had proved themselves the victors. The war-map showed that. The duty of citizenship that devolved to-day upon every man and woman in the State was the responsibility of pointing out to every free man the things that were expected of him.

Miss Evans said that Australians had but a vague idea of what life was in England at the present time. It was still contended by some that Germany waged a humanitarian war, but she had watched six thousand wounded Britons being brought in, and what she saw gave that the lie, and should be sufficient to spur every one with a spark of manhood in him to enlist.

RECRUITS OF ALIEN PARENTAGE.

NEWCASTLE, Tuesday.

At a meeting of the recruiting committees of the district last night, Mr. D. Watkins, M.P., reported that he had made enquiries from the authorities in Sydney about the Australian-born sons of enemy parentage. He had been informed that those sons would be accepted when they produced a certificate signed by six members of a recruiting committee, testifying to the recruit's loyalty. They had to take some safeguards, owing to what occurred at the beginning of the war.

Various speakers said that the information cleared up a considerable misapprehension that had existed.

WAR SERVICE.

WHAT DAPTO HAS DONE.

(FROM OUR SPECIAL REPORTER.)

Considering the size of the town, and the limited extent of the district, Dapto has no reason to be ashamed of what it has done in this great war, both in regard to money and men. Many of the coastal districts are different from the places out back, where there are big centres of population and districts covering a large area.

Shortly after the war started a branch of the Red Cross Society was formed at Dapto. The town and district were divided into sections, and lady collectors appointed to obtain monthly donations. This organisation has steadily continued its work without a break ever since, and has raised nearly £1000. The amount raised for Australia Day was £171. But this is only one side of the work of the Red Cross Society, as large quantities of goods have also been forwarded to headquarters. Of the money collected £50 was sent to the Belgian Fund, £15 to the Servian Fund, £15 to the Polish Fund, £13 to the Allies Fund, and £10 each to the Sheepskin and Fruit and Vegetables funds. The subscriptions were augmented by socials, concerts, etc. The Dapto Agricultural Society also sent over £100 to patriotic funds, the profits from the last show and annual functions being devoted to patriotic purposes. The committee raised £30 among themselves. In addition the Brownsville people interested themselves in the Belgians, for whom about £50 was raised by socials, etc. The young ladies of the district have also done good work on behalf of the War Chest Fund and although not very long in operation their organisation has raised the sum of £61, and sent forward Christmas cheer for the lads of the district who have joined the colours.

In regard to the district contribution in men, the result is most creditable, considering the nature of the dairying industry. There are many young men on the farms who would go to the front if they could be spared, but their enlistment would mean at least a reduction in production. About 50 have joined the colours.

STADIUM RALLY.

In connection with the Stadium rally on Friday night, February 16, it has been decided to have a torchlight procession from the city to the Stadium, headed by the bands and returned soldiers. Several additional items have been added to the programme, but the Stadium management will be glad to receive offers to assist from a violinist, a 'cello player, and a cornet player, and from any other specialists.

The Director-General of Recruiting, Mr. Donald Mackinnon, M.L.A., will, at 9.15 this morning, address a meeting of the staff of Farmer and Co., Limited.

The Rev. John Calder, of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, Forbes, was entertained by his congregation at a farewell gathering prior to his departure for the front as chaplain of the forces, and presented with a communion cup.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Sir,—I beg to suggest a means to increase interest in the recruiting campaign. The enlistment figures for each electorate are given weekly, and thus it could be arranged that those who had enlisted during any week could be screened during the succeeding week on the pictures in the particular electorates in which they had enlisted. Comparative figures as to the number of recruits might also be placed on the screen. There are obstacles in the way of fulfilment of this proposal, but none of them are difficult to surmount. Moreover, it would be a sure means of attracting attention to the recruiting campaign.

PARLIAMENTARY CANDIDATES.

The nominations of Messrs. J. F. Parker and J. Cooley, for the State electorate of Camden, were endorsed at a meeting of the N.S.W. executive of the P.L.L., and were ordered to a selection ballot in the electorate. Endorsement was given of Mr. W. J. M'Kell as selected Labour candidate for the State electorate of Redfern, and of Mr. F. M. Bourke for Newtown. Mr. M. Charlton was endorsed as selected Labour candidate for the Federal division of Hunter.

HEAT WAVE.

WELLINGTON (N.Z.), Tuesday.

New Zealand is experiencing something in the nature of a heat wave. High temperatures are being recorded generally, Gore topping the list with 92 degrees. In many places the dry weather is seriously affecting the crops.

ANOTHER BIG TRAWL.

Mr. Fuller (Chief Secretary) stated yesterday that he had received a report to the effect that the State trawler Koraaga returned to port at 4.30 p.m. on Monday with approximately 14,000lb weight of mixed fish. The ship was absent from the wharf for 98 hours, and met a lot of bad weather during that period, which seriously interfered with the fishing, and completely stopped it for some time. The actual fishing hours were less than half the time during which the Koraaga was absent. Included in the catch was over 9000lb weight of deep-sea flathead.

VENEREAL DISEASES.

NORTH SYDNEY CLINIC WANTED.

The directors of the Royal North Shore Hospital are particularly desirous of establishing a department for the treatment of venereal diseases at the latter institution, and some time ago took steps to bring this wish before the then Minister for Public Health (Mr. George Black). Instructions were given by Mr. Black for the preparation of plans for the erection of an out-patients' block, to be used for the treatment of such cases. Beyond a promise made by the Minister for Public Health at the latter end of last year, that the question would be reopened at an early date, nothing has as yet been done towards providing the accommodation needed. A good deal of attention was devoted to the matter at the annual meeting of the hospital. The report intimated that it was impossible for the board to provide adequate means for the treatment of patients suffering from venereal diseases with the limited accommodation for outdoor patients at present existing.

MANLY COTTAGE HOSPITAL.

The annual meeting of the Manly Cottage Hospital was held in the local Literary Institute, Mr. F. Trenchard Smith presiding. The report pointed out that the various departments of the institution had been kept busy during the year. The number of cases treated during the year was 782 indoor and 808 outdoor. Rate of mortality was 3.32. The total income was £3042 9s 11d, and the expenditure £2780 13s 8d.

The following officers were elected:—Patrons, Mr. Dugald Thomson, Brigadier-General Ryrie, M.P., Dr. Richard Arthur, M.L.A., and Alderman A. T. Keirle (Mayor of Manly); president, Mr. F. Trenchard Smith; vice-presidents, Mrs. M'Gaw, Miss Warburton, Messrs. H. E. Williams, C. W. Marshall, and H. D. L. Woods; trustees, Messrs. J. A. Paterson, D. Hogan, E. E. Hassall, P. S. Nott, and G. J. Wilkinson; hon. solicitor, Mr. A. W. E. Wearne; hon. auditors, Messrs. F. W. A. Eagar and I. A. Lewis. The committee will be elected on the 8th prox.

SOLDIERS' LETTERS.

It was recently stated by the military that letters to soldiers must not bear either the number of the brigade or division, and a number of examples were published in the "Herald" as a guide. It has now been decided that, as far as Artillery reinforcements are concerned, the number of the brigade is to be given in addressing members of that unit. The address should therefore consist of the number, name, reinforcement number, and brigade, Australian Imperial Force, Abroad.

BREACH OF CONTRACT.

NEWCASTLE, Tuesday.

At the District Court to-day, before Judge Fitzhardinge, Meredith and Co., of New Zealand, claimed £241 2s 10d from Foley Bros. for an alleged breach of contract in connection with a sale of chaff. Mr. Watt and Mr. Cowan, instructed by Messrs. Reid and Reid, appeared for the plaintiffs. There was no appearance at this stage for the defendants. When the evidence had been concluded, Mr. Carlton, of Messrs. Logan and Carlton, made application for a postponement of the case on the grounds that the defendants' solicitors were under the impression that the case would not be heard till next Tuesday. His Honor refused the application made on behalf of defendants, and entered a verdict for £241 2s 10d.

THREE ESSENTIALS OF PROGRESS.

ENTERPRISE, CAPITAL, AND LABOUR.

AUSTRALIAN BANK OF COMMERCE.

The half-yearly meeting of the shareholders of the Australian Bank of Commerce was held yesterday, the chairman of directors, Mr. Mark Sheldon, presiding.

In moving the adoption of the report and balance-sheet, particulars of which have already been published, the chairman said that the figures of the balance-sheet showed a continuation of satisfactory progress. Comparing the figures with those of December 31, 1915, and taking the liabilities first, paid-up capital has increased by about £2571, the whole of the subscribed capital, amounting to £1,198,679, being now fully paid. The reserve fund has increased by £20,000. Customers deposits and other liabilities have expanded by £168,247. Bills in circulation, etc., balances due to other banks, accrued interest, etc., and notes in circulation show a net expansion of £299,830. Fixed deposits are included in the item customers' deposits, etc., and these, as well as current accounts, continue to show favourable growth. The developments in other directions indicate increasing business. Liabilities to the public amount now to £3,965,639. As regards the assets side of the balance-sheet, continuing the comparison with 12 months ago, increases are shown in the following:—Bills discounted, loans, and advances, £257,800; cash at London bankers and at short call in London, £29,242; Government and municipal securities, £49,980; and bills receivable in London and remittances in transit, no less than £323,371; while there are decreases in coin and bullion of £95,088; Australian notes, £34,559; and balances due by other banks, £78,285. The total of liquid assets stands at £2,013,398, exceeding last year's figure by £194,622. This figure of liquid assets represents 10s 2d in the £ on our total liabilities to customers, the strength of the bank in this direction being thus fully maintained.

The assets, as a whole, total £6,831,427, and show an increase on the year of £455,400. This total of assets represents 172 per cent., or £1 14s 6d for each £ of the liability to the public.

Shareholders number over 8000. The half-year's profits are £31,202, as compared with £29,471 in the December half of 1915. Gross profits show increased returns as a result of steadily expanding business, but these are adversely affected by increased taxation. The bank is again taking part in financing the wheat realisation scheme of the Federal Government, and this will enable it again to furnish to clients and others in the country the facility of obtaining from the bank advances under the scheme. The bank is participating in the finance business resulting from the purchase by the Imperial Government of the unsold portion of the Australian wool clip. The Australian people and the primary producers in particular are under a very great obligation to the British Government for the timely and very generous manner in which they have furnished aid and transportation for the handling and marketing of the Commonwealth wool clip and wheat crops.

The financial position generally, Mr. Sheldon continued, is still overshadowed by the need for further financial assistance in the shape of war loans asked for by the various Governments. The bank is doing its part, both directly by subscription and also by assisting customers where desired to take up what they feel their finances will permit. Purchases of the wool clip and of large quantities of last and the present season's grain crops by the Imperial Government should tend to open the way for the success of this loan.

Notwithstanding excessive rainfall in certain districts, the season, taken generally, is favourable. Most of the crops have suffered, some indeed very severely; but the harvesting of a considerable weight of grain is nevertheless expected. Many pastoralists have suffered losses from floods and other causes; but, as a whole, the outlook for the grazing industry is favourable.

Commercial matters are still being carried on with due regard for the uncertainties of the future, and this naturally has led to a certain slackness in trade in some directions, which is only what could be reasonably expected.

The recent trend of proposed legislation in the State of Queensland has been of such a nature as to give cause for serious reflection on the part of those who are responsible for investment of funds, and the incidence of the same must fall very heavily on the general public of that State.

Enterprise, capital, and labour must work harmoniously together if the best results for all are to be obtained, and sympathetic legislation is one of the essentials required to encourage development and general prosperity.

Since the war commenced 112 of the staff of the bank have volunteered and been released for war service. Two more, in addition to the five already recorded, have lost their lives while fighting for their country. The depletion of the staff for military service has cast extra work on the shoulders of those remaining: this burden has been borne willingly and cheerfully.

The motion was seconded by Mr. F. Jago Smith, M.L.C., and was carried unanimously.

THE DEATH AT FRENCH'S FOREST.

Dr. Arthur, honorary organiser of the Voluntary Workers' Association, writes:—"The sad incident at French's Forest of the death of one of the voluntary workers there should surely come both as a reproach and a trumpet call to the thousands of young men who up to the present refuse either to enlist or to help in the preparation of homes for those heroes who have suffered and bled for them. The late Mr. H. Gunn was 51 years old, an age at which a man unaccustomed to hard manual toil might reasonably have pleaded that he was not called upon to undertake such work. But he did not dream of sheltering himself behind his age or physical disability. He saw what he thought was his duty, and putting aside considerations of comfort and safety went and did it. For this he has made the last and greatest sacrifice, and one can claim truly that he has died as on the field of battle. His death would not be altogether in vain if many others who as yet have been heedless of the call could be induced to throw in their lot with the voluntary workers and get to the task of preparing land and homes for the men who have given up so much and dared so greatly for Australia."

EMPIRE REPRESENTATION.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Sir,—In reading your very important leading articles during the past week, it seemed to me that there was one, and one only, simple solution of the present tangle into which Federal politics have grown. Surely the Liberals can agree that Mr. Hughes shall proceed home in time for the Imperial Conference, as, whatever may be the condition of parties, he is de facto Prime Minister of the Commonwealth. He certainly will not go as a tongue-tied delegate, but as a representative, and while he will not, of course, outside the expression of his own opinions, commit Australia to any definite course of action, still he will be the custodian of a large amount of secret information in which Australia has as much right officially to participate as any other part of the Empire.

The same anomalous position might arise under ordinary circumstances. The Prime Minister might visit England to attend a conference, but with a very small majority at his back, and on his return a general election might mean the defeat of his party and his exclusion from executive authority, but the information and opinions of which he was the guardian would be passed on to his successor, and surely we can trust sufficiently to the honour of Mr. Hughes, or any other Prime Minister, to carry out this political programme with absolute candour and faithfulness. It is clear that if a general election is to take place, and the assent of the Liberals is not given to Mr. Hughes's appointment as the representative of Australia, then Mr. Hughes cannot go, and nobody can go, and this country will be in a most humiliating position in the eyes of the whole Empire.

I do not know at present the inner runnings of Federal politics, but I understand it is probable the Senate—which has a large Labour majority—will not sanction the appropriation of supplies sufficient to bridge the period while Mr. Hughes would necessarily be away. But this need not deter the Liberal party from agreeing to Mr. Hughes as the official representative of Australia. If supplies are refused, then upon the great Labour party, which now obstructs, will be thrown the whole responsibility of defeating the patriotic wishes of the people, and the next election, under such circumstances, should tell no uncertain tale.

If supplies are voted, then Parliament should be prorogued until Mr. Hughes's return, when a general election can be held. We must trust the present Executive during the interval to carry out all their functions on non-party lines.

MR. WADE'S SEAT.

QUESTION OF A SUCCESSOR.

There is some uncertainty in the Gordon Electorate as to whether Mr. Wade, the member for the district in the State Parliament, intends to seek re-election, and a public meeting was held recently at Chatswood to formulate plans to select a successor. As the outcome of that meeting a conference of various persons appointed as representative of different parts of the electorate took place in the local town hall last night. Mr. G. Stevenson presided.

The chairman explained that the reason the conference had been called was that the district, which was strongly temperance, was not satisfied with the amount of support liquor reform had received in the House. They had nothing but gratitude for Mr. Wade and the support he had given the temperance movement, but if they were to select someone in his place, as it seemed probable they would, it was very desirable to have someone who would not only take up the work where he left off, but urge the question of the maintenance of 6 o'clock for all time. The present conference was an attempt to embody the convictions of the 8000 persons in the electorate who had voted for 6 o'clock. They wished to co-operate with any Liberal candidate who came forward, but if he were going to receive the whole of the temperance vote it was necessary that he should pledge himself above all to the cause of liquor reform.

Mr. F. H. Molesworth said that they preferred to have State option rather than local option, because, while the latter provided an equitable reform throughout the State, the latter was ineffective in its incidence, because it provided no relief for the districts which carried it by a large majority, such as Gordon had done. They wanted to eliminate the three-fifths provision, which stood as an effectual bar to real reform.

After a number of other speakers had dealt with the liquor question it was decided to form the "Gordon Electorate Citizens' Association," embodying the following platform:—(1) Good government and national efficiency. (2) Justice for all classes and freedom of individual effort consistent with the rights of others. (3) Permanent 6 o'clock closing of liquor bars, State option, the enforcement of existing liquor laws, and such reform of the Liquor Acts as will give effect to the expressed will of the people. (4) The passage of legislation dealing more drastically with gambling, and the safeguarding of social morality. WOMAN SHOT.

ASSAILANT COMMITS SUICIDE.

TRAGEDY IN NEW ZEALAND.

WELLINGTON (N.Z.), Tuesday.

At Invercargill a sensational shooting affair occurred last night. Frederick Annison, architect, about 50 years of age, met Margaret Brennan, a married woman, in Victoria-avenue. After walking a short distance with her he suddenly drew a revolver and shot the woman through the throat. The woman succeeded in reaching home, and was removed to the hospital in a serious condition. Annison disappeared, but was traced to a boarding-house. When a detective arrived there he shot himself in the head, death being instantaneous.

The motive for the crime is unknown. The two had been on friendly terms, but latterly their relations had become strained. Annison had been despondent for some time, and had threatened to commit suicide on the death of his wife two years ago. He had formerly lived in Natal and South Australia.

MOSMAN LIBERALS.

The annual general meeting of the Mosman branch, Liberal Association of New South Wales, was held last night in the Mosman Town Hall. Mr. G. H. Rotton (president of the branch) occupied the chair.

The chairman urged members of the association to use every effort to make the Mosman branch thoroughly representative of a great Liberal constituency.

Mr. Rotton was re-elected president. The following officers were also elected:—Vice-presidents, Mrs. Leahy, Mr. R. S. Gay, Mr. C. B. Ward, and Mr. P. W. Pearson; hon. treasurer, Mr. S. L. Peyton. A committee of 12 was also elected.

Mr. Rotton and Mr. Gay were elected to represent the branch at the central conference.

The nomination of candidates for the Federal Senate resulted in the selection of Senator Sir Albert Gould, Senator Millen, and Mr. C. W. Oakes.

Brigadier-General Ryrie, M.P., was unanimously nominated as the candidate for the House of Representatives.

On the motion of Mr. Gilchrist, seconded by Mr. Buchanan, a resolution to support the National Government of New South Wales was carried.

Mr. Colquhoun, M.L.A., said he could claim some credit for having brought about the union of Parliamentary forces, which had resulted in the formation of the National party. For the return to responsible government the people of New South Wales owed not a little to Mr. C. G. Wade, M.L.A., the late leader of the Liberal party.

BREAK OF GAUGE INVENTION.

An interesting invention for overcoming the break of gauge problem was demonstrated by the inventor, Mr. George E. Moore, at 148 Hay-street, yesterday, before a small gathering, which included Mr. M. M. Henderson, chief mechanical engineer for the Commonwealth Railways, Mr. J. Thompson, M.P., and Mr. Chanter, M.P. A model truck, carrying a weight equivalent to 23 tons on a full-sized truck, was run along rails of varying width, the change of gauge being effected smoothly and easily. The invention consists in the axles of the wheels being divided in the centre, and there is an automatic device for changing and locking the wheels at different gauges. The change is effected by means of a raised centre rail, which comes in contact with a grooved roller under the axle, and lifting this operates the mechanism, changing the width of the axle according to the width of the line. Mr. Henderson intimated that he would report on the invention to the Government.

LORD CROMER.

END OF A GREAT CAREER.

LONDON, Jan. 30.

The death is announced of Lord Cromer, in his 77th year.

Lord Cromer died at his Wimpole-street residence from a stroke suddenly at 10 o'clock last evening. He had been in indifferent health for a considerable time, but his vitality had been remarkable. Throughout his illness he had attended to his duties as chairman of the Dardanelles Commission.

Lord Cromer acted from 1872 till 1876 as private secretary to the Earl of Northbrook, Viceroy of India, and in 1877 was appointed Commissioner for the Egyptian Public Debt. That was the beginning of a lengthy career in Egypt, where his statesmanlike methods soon brought him into prominence, and secured for him promotion. In 1879 he became Controller-General in Egypt, and four years later was appointed agent and Consul-General there—a position he held for 24 years. He was created Baron in 1892, viscount in 1898, and Earl of Cromer in 1901. Lord Cromer took a keen interest in military matters. In 1876 he retired from the Royal Artillery with the rank of major; and he was the author of "The War Game" and other military works. His other publications include: "Paraphrases and Translations from the Greek," "Modern Egypt," "Ancient and Modern Imperialism," etc. Lord Cromer was twice married—in 1876 to Ethel Stanley, daughter of Sir Rowland Stanley Errington, Bt., and in 1901 to Lady Katherine Georgina Louisa Thynne, second daughter of the fourth Marquesse of Bath. There were two sons of the first union and one of the second. Lord Cromer's heir is his son Rowland Thomas Baring, Viscount Errington, who was born in Cairo in 1877, and who, when he retired in 1911, held the post of private secretary to the permanent Under-Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs. He was chairman of the Dardanelles Commission.

YOUNG OFFICER'S SUICIDE.

LONDON, Jan. 29.

The evidence at the inquest into the death, at York, of Lieutenant Beit, aged 26, son of Mr. Otto Beit, the South African millionaire, showed that during Lieutenant Beit's absence some subalterns began a fox-hunting game in his room. When Beit returned he was told to join in and given a minute to hide. His fellow-officers could not find Beit and turned the room topsy-turvey, but caused no damage. Beit later on admitted that he had hid himself on a moor outside the barracks. He did not know it was against the rules of the game, and left a letter saying that he went to a picture show, not knowing that a fox hunt had been arranged, adding that he made everybody angry, and could not endure another night's hell.

His fellow-officers gave evidence that Beit wrongly construed the disturbance in his bedroom. There was no ill-feeling. Beit's German name prejudiced nobody. He was popular in the regiment and elsewhere.

A verdict of suicide during temporary insanity was returned.

FRENCH SOLDIER'S LETTER.

SINGLETON, Tuesday.

Some months ago Misses M. Bowman and A. Kirkland instituted a movement to provide knitted socks for the soldiers of France, and the Singleton ladies responded to the call most generously. Amongst the workers was Miss Alice Wright, of Maison Dieu, and in one of the socks she enclosed a short note of greeting and her name and address. Miss Wright has since received a letter of thanks from one of the French soldiers, of which the following is a translation:—"France, November 28, 1916. My Dear Young Lady,—What a joy for me to be able to write to a young Australian girl. I am more happy because of it. I had your nice letter read by one of my comrades, who knows English perfectly, and I thank you sincerely for this little present. I am of Pas de Calais (north of France), live 80 kilometres from poor Belgium, and the Germans are installed in my house since October 4, 1914. Unfortunately, my dear mother and my two brothers, aged 16 and 17½ years, have remained with these cursed barbarians for 26 months. I am on the road of the exile, and without any news of my dear family. Isn't the war sad, dear young lady, which the good God preserves you from? By good luck I have found my father, who was mobilised. I left my home because at that time I would have been 18 years old, and I was very strong, and the Germans would have certainly made me a prisoner. I am 20 years old and of the 1916 class, and for about two years already have been a soldier. I have been one year at Verdun, and now I am at the Somme. Alas! when will finish the terrible plague which throws the whole of Europe into consternation? However, it is not the time of weakening. I must avenge those who are under the oppression of these banditti, and who are very dear to me. It is necessary to avenge our friends and assure the liberty of the future generations, and for all these causes not a French soldier will want to know the word of feebleness before knowing that all the cowardice of these criminals is atoned for. Our motto is the following: 'To conquer or die.' Louis Pelletier, Paris."

PIONEER SURVEYORS.

"Pioneer surveyors of New South Wales" was the subject of a lecture delivered last night before members of the New South Wales Institution of Surveyors by the retiring president, Mr. John Weingarth. Many difficulties and dangers had to be met and overcome in the early days of the colony, he said, and unfortunately the authorities were not always as grateful as they might have been to the pioneers who worked so hard and uncomplainingly, opening up the country. The lecturer dealt more particularly with the career of Charles Grimes, who from the position of deputy surveyor of roads at 5s per day rose to be Surveyor-General, a post he held from 1803 to 1811. He had many thrilling adventures.

Mr. P. E. Rygate was elected president for the ensuing year; Messrs. E. H. Cowdery and J. A. Harrison vice-presidents; Mr. W. A. Chadwick hon. secretary; Mr. F. L. Alexander hon. treasurer; Mr. J. E. Proust, editor of the "Surveyor"; Mr. T. M'Donough, business manager; Messrs. A. D. Craig, L. A. Curtis, S. R. Dobbie, A. E. Hall, Fred Hardy, and V. G. Rush, members of council.

MEN ON HOME SERVICE.

RECRUITING COMMITTEE'S PROPOSAL.

NEWCASTLE, Tuesday.

A discussion arose at a meeting of the recruiting committee to-night regarding the number of officers and men who have been drawing military pay since the war commenced who, it was declared, had no intention of going to the front.

The Mayor (Alderman Moroney) believed that returned soldiers and veterans could do the work of many highly-paid officers. One could go through the streets of Sydney any day and see numbers of men in uniform. These men were urgently needed at the front.

The following resolution was adopted:—"That the Defence Department request all soldiers and officers who have held military positions, and are still eligible for military service, to give in their names with a view to joining contingents going to the front, and that the Government be asked to consider the advisableness of utilising the services of retired or non-commissioned officers or returned soldiers for instruction purposes to relieve others now engaged in the work."

Messrs. Millen, Oakes, and Pratten were elected as candidates for the Senate. It was unanimously resolved that the Liberal Association be requested to postpone the closing of nominations for the Parkes Electorate in the House of Representatives until February 15, so as to allow of time to advertise for nominations by the local leagues. Dissatisfaction was expressed with the present member, Mr. Bruce Smith. It was stated that he had not been seen in the district since last election.

THE BRITISH WAR LOAN.

THE TERMS.

The Australian Censor has now permitted particulars to be given of the terms on which the British war loan is issued. The amount is unlimited. Applications close on February 16. The price of issue is £95, and interest is payable at the rate of 5 per cent. per annum on June 1 and December 1. Applications close on February 16, and payment may be in one sum of £95 per £100 applied for, or by instalments, viz., 5 per cent. on application, 15 per cent. on March 2, 15 per cent. on March 31, 20 per cent. on April 18, 20 per cent. on May 9, 20 per cent. on May 30. To those who pay fully on allotment interest paid on June 1 will be £1/8/9 per cent. For instalments interest paid on that date will be 11/10 per cent. The extreme currency of the loan is to 1947, but the Government may redeem at any time after June 1, 1929, on giving three months' notice. To those who desire to compound the payment of income tax which may be levied on the interest a 4 per cent. stock is issued at par, having an extreme currency to 1942, but it may be redeemed at any time after June 1, 1929. Payment of subscriptions may be in full or in instalments. The date of payment of instalments is the same as for the 5 per cent. loan, but there is only one 15 per cent instalment, thereafter instalments are 20 per cent. Interest is payable on April 15 and October 15. First interest payment for fully paid allotments is on April 15 at 12/9 per cent. On instalment allotments first dividend will be the full half-year's interest on October 15.

British Government Treasury Bills will be accepted under discount at 5 per cent. per annum, and War Expenditure certificates at 4 per cent. as from February 16 in lieu of cash in payment for fully paid allotments.

Stock or bonds of the loan will be accepted at their issue prices in payment of death duties, provided they have been part of the estate of the deceased for not less than six months prior to death.

A sum equal to ⅛ of 1 per cent. of the loan will be set apart monthly to form a sinking fund to be used for purchasing stock or bonds for cancellation whenever the market price falls below the issue price. The sinking fund will not be allowed to rise above £11,000,000, but as soon as it falls below £10,000,000 monthly payments will be resumed. Income tax will not be deducted from the interest on the 5 per cent. stock, but the income derived from such interest will be assessable to income tax. The 4 per cent. interest, though not assessable to income tax, will be liable to assessment to super-tax.

Stock and bonds and the interest will be exempt from all British taxation, present or future, if it is shown that they are in the beneficial ownership of a person who is neither domiciled nor ordinarily resident in the United Kingdom, and dividends will be exempt from British income tax, present or future, if it is shown that the stock or bonds are in the beneficial ownership of a person who is not ordinarily resident in the United Kingdom without regard to domicile.

Conversion of 4½ per cent. war loan, of 5 per cent. Exchequer bonds, and 6 per cent. Exchequer bonds will be allowed in fulfilment of the options granted in the prospectuses of those issues.

THE MORATORIUM.

"E.H.J."—The moratorium does not apply. "A. Brooks:" The rate of interest is not affected by the moratorium.

NOTES AND COMMENTS.

At a meeting of the shareholders of the Electric Light and Power Supply Corporation, Limited, held yesterday, Senator Sir A. J. Gould presiding, a resolution was passed authorising the directors to issue 60,000 £1 shares, and a new article was approved of providing for any casual vacancy occurring in the board of directors.

We are informed that the Australian Mutual Provident Society has effected new assurances during the past year exceeding £6,600,000 in the ordinary department and over £1,000,000 in the industrial department, together making a total of more than £7,600,000.

INCOME TAXES.

TREATMENT OF ENEMY GOODS.

A Sydney firm having communicated with the Federal and State Taxation Commissioners as to how enemy goods should be treated in their income tax returns obtained conflicting replies. The Federal Commissioner was of the opinion that balance-sheets as certified by a public auditor would be accepted, while the State Commissioners replied that enemy goods must be brought into account at cost, laid down on premises.

COSTS OF LAW SUIT.

"M. A." writes:—

Sir,—During the year 1916 I was defendant in an Equity, and a verdict, with costs, was given against the plaintiff. Though I was successful, I had to pay a large amount of costs as between solicitor and client. Would you kindly let me know through your financial columns if I can charge this amount against my income?

No.

"J. G.": No tax is leviable. "Anxious": No. "K. E." (Lidcombe): No return is necessary. "Day Workers": Yes. "Veleska": (1) No. (2) £200. (3) In the other State. "Puzzled" (Mosman): No.

"E. Bevan:" The advertisement is a legal formality. No return is required in the case mentioned.

LONDON FINANCIAL CABLES.

CONSOLS.

Consols were quoted to-day at £51/17/6, a fall of 12/6 compared with Thursday's price.

FINANCING AUSTRALIAN BUSINESS.

At the half-yearly meeting of the Union Bank yesterday Mr. H. P. Sturgis, the chairman of directors, referred to the difficulty of financing business between Great Britain and Australia and New Zealand. He said that the Governments concerned had considerably aided the banks in connection with wool, wheat, and meat.

COMMERCIAL.

THE MARKETS.

In metal lines there was inquiry for No. 8 black wire and No. 10 black as well as No. 8 galvanised. The first-named could not be procured under £23, while some houses were asking 10/ more. For No. 10 £27/10/. Most houses, too, were asking £29/10/ for No. 8 galvanised. No. 10 galvanised was comparatively plentiful, and quotations varied from £29 to £29/10/ per ton. All other metal quotations were without alteration.

Eastern goods were firm at late rates. Tapioca was going out better at 28/ for seed and 29/ for medium pearl. Canary seed was scarce, and in sack lots was selling up to 37/ a cwt. The c.i.f. quotation was given as 35/.

The tea which came by Monday's mail was only 5000 packages for the whole of Australia and New Zealand. Only 700 packages came to this State. Values in the last week have increased on the local market from 1d to 1½d per lb.

Only a restricted business was done in oils yesterday. Linseed was quoted at 5/10 and 6/ for raw and boiled first brands respectively. Australian raw was worth 5/4 in cases and 5/7 in drums. Pinetree turps was selling at 4/3, and Pratt's at 4/4. No cables giving the f.o.b. rates for linseed were received.

The inclement weather had its effect on the jute market. Business was dull, and prices remained unaltered.

EASTERN EXCHANGE.

It is impossible for the ordinary trader to import tea from Ceylon owing to the difficulties of exchange. Those houses which are strong and which have houses in Colombo and Calcutta are managing to do a little trading, but it is on a very restricted scale. The latest price of the rupee for exchange was 1/5⅝, on which basis business is ridiculous. A little buying of money from people here who have it in India or Ceylon, and who want it transferred here, has been done on very advantageous terms to the seller, and this has enabled a little trade to be done.

The ruling prices were:—

MINING.

WESTONIAS ACTIVE.

Yesterday's mining market was characterised by a further activity in Western Australian gold ventures; other sections did not possess any "out of the ordinary" features.

As was the case on the previous day, the Edna May group received a fair amount of attention, and was responsible for a fair volume of business being transacted. Values on the whole were easier.

The following telegrams, which were received by the chairman of the Sydney Stock Exchange, probably had a considerable amount of influence on transactions.

The manager of the Edna May Consolidated gold mine reported as follows:—

Main shaft: Removed ore stored in crosscut to surface; resumed driving on reef. Winze deepened 2ft; total 100ft. Discontinued sinking; struck water. Driving on footwall of reef 106ft from surface; advanced 6ft. Stone 5ft wide; valued 5dwt.

The manager of the Edna May Deep Levels gold mine reported:—

Main shaft sunk 7ft; total 30ft. All in quartz dyke are going down vertically; value 5dwt. Advanced rise 5ft; total 29ft; value, 20oz.

Edna May Centrals found buyers at 21/, a figure which showed no variation when compared with Monday. Deeps opened /4 weaker, at 7/6, and on the noon board a sale was recorded at 7/1, a drop of a further /5. During the afternoon two more sales were effected at this figure. Consolidated contributing changed hands, at 8/4½, a price which was /3½ weaker. Golden Point, paid, scrip, for delivery in six weeks, sold at 2/3. The parent stock, Edna May (unlisted) shared in the general weakness, which was noticeable about the group, and at noon a sale was effected at 74/, a weakness of 2/. In the afternoon a further fall of 1/6 was evident. Black Range West and Great Boulder scrip both showed a rise of /1½, the former cleared at 2/6, and the latter at 10/4½. Occidental, paid, changed hands at 4/.

Ratrut shares were slightly firmer. Buyers offered 14/ during the morning, and a sale was recorded at 14/1½, as against 13/9 on Monday. Vegetable Creek advanced /1 to 3/11. Trong scrip was /9 lower at 11/.

Barriers were to a certain extent neglected, but prices possessed a firm tendency. British, old, advanced /3 to 29/, and later rose a further /3, to 29/3, while B.H. Proprietary, at 48/6, was /6 firmer. Junction North at 7/9 was unchanged.

In the copper section business was confined to a sale of Mount Morgans at 32/6, and a prompt cash transaction of Lyell scrip at 27/3.

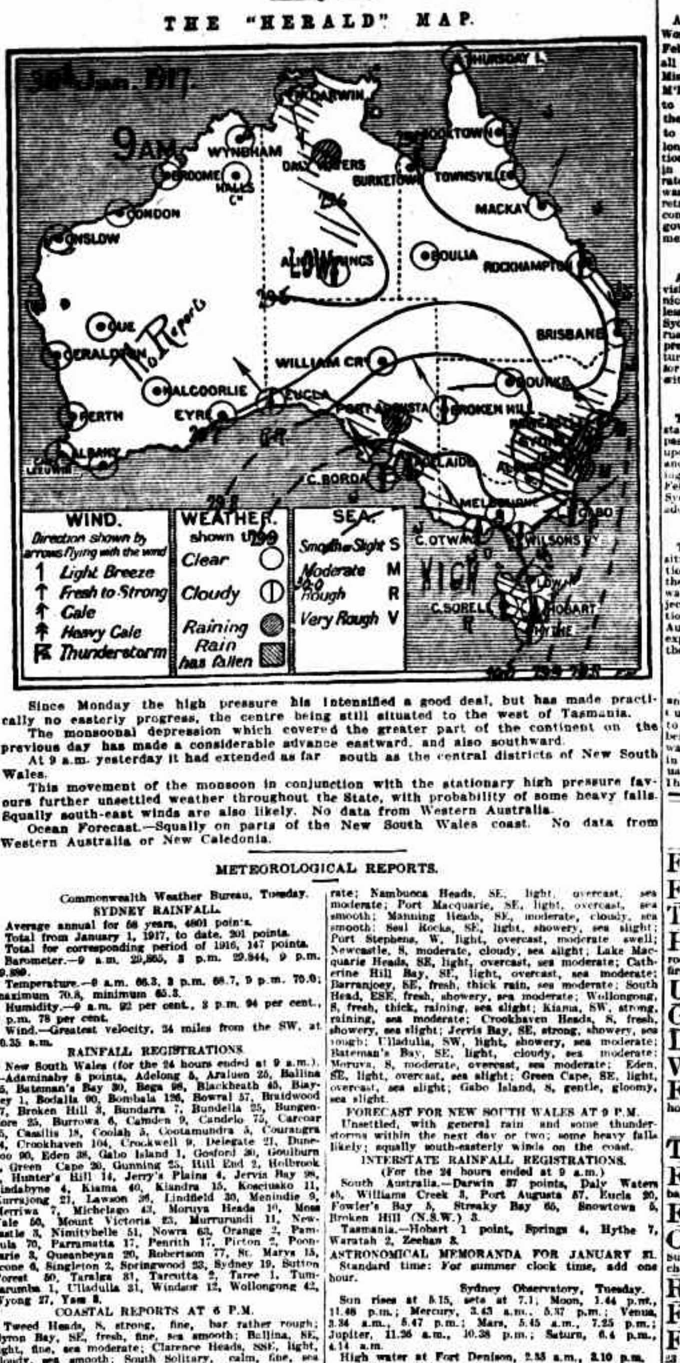
AUSTRALIAN WEATHER.

THE "HERALD" MAP.



Since Monday the high pressure has intensified a good deal, but has made practically no easterly progress, the centre being still situated to the west of Tasmania. The monsoonal depression which covered the greater part of the continent on the previous day has made a considerable advance eastward, and also southward. At 9 a.m. yesterday it had extended as far south as the central districts of New South Wales.

This movement of the monsoon in conjunction with the stationary high pressure favours further unsettled weather throughout the State, with probability of some heavy falls. Squally south-east winds are also likely. No data from Western Australia.

Ocean Forecast.—Squally on parts of the New South Wales coast. No data from Western Australia or New Caledonia.

TRADES AND LABOUR.

TEXTILE WORKERS' CONFERENCE.

A conference under the auspices of the Textile Workers' Federation will open in Melbourne on Friday, February 9, at which delegates will be present from all States, those representing New South Wales being Miss N. Wilkinson and Messrs. H. Ormiston and J. M'Kenzie. The principal objects of the conference are to consider what steps should be taken to urge upon the Federal Government the claims of textile workers to a bonus in compensation for extra exertions and longer hours worked for military purposes; consideration of steps to be taken to procure from employers in New South Wales the difference between the lower rate, which had been paid, and the higher rate, which was awarded on appeal by the union, in respect of a retrospective award dating back to November 17, 1916; consideration of an application for a Federal award governing the industry, and the prevention of employment of youths in factories at nights.

FURNISHING TRADE.

A recent award in the furniture trade made provision for the fees of apprentices who attended technical classes and were present at 70 per cent. of the lessons to be paid by employers. The classes at the Sydney Technical College, Ultimo, commence on February 26, and with a view to further encouraging apprentices to attend it has been decided by the Furniture Trades Union to offer prizes, value a guinea each, for frenchpolishing and cabinetmaking in connection with the classes.

CO-OPERATION.

The secretary of the Operative Stonemasons' Union stated yesterday that the members for some time past had had under consideration a proposal to enter upon a co-operative undertaking for the preparation and supply of stone for building purposes. A meeting in connection with the matter is to be held on February 10, at which Mr. Meredith Atkinson, of the Sydney University, has been invited to deliver an address on co-operation.

A.W.U. CONVENTION.

The annual convention of the A.W.U., which is sitting in Sydney, yesterday considered an application to amalgamate that had been received from the Kurrawang Wood Cutters Union, and the matter was deferred till to-day, when a report on the subject will be presented by a committee. The convention rejected a proposal for the amalgamation of the Australian Society of Engineers, the opinion being expressed that the society should join with some of the existing organisations in the iron trade.

STOREMEN AND PACKERS.

A new award will shortly be gazetted for storemen and packers in all retail shops in the County of Cumberland. There is a general reduction from 50 to 48 hours weekly, the reduction in grocers' shops being three hours, and there is a general increase in wages of 5s weekly, with 6s 6d increase for storemen in charge of departmental reserves. The rate for casual hands is increased from 1s 6d to 1s 9d per day. The award will have currency till December 31, 1919.

VISITORS TO SYDNEY.

ARTHUR RICKARD AND CO., REALTY SPECIALISTS,

STRONGLY RECOMMEND TO YOUR NOTICE THE UNDERMENTIONED RESORTS. ALL ARE BLESSED BY NATURE WITH ADVANTAGES THAT BESTOW PLEASURE, RECREATION, AND HEALTH ON THE HUNDREDS OF THOUSANDS WHO VISIT EACH OF THEM DURING THE YEAR.

YOU SHOULD VISIT THEM BEFORE YOU GO HOME

BONDI, with its magnificent beach—the nearest to the G.P.O. It is reached by the Bellevue Hill tram, and by Paddington-Bondi line, both of which have their termini at the beach. The City Railway, when made, will add another and speedier means of access. A. R. and Co. can sell you sites which command exquisite views of beach, ocean, and coast. They are a few yards from dressing sheds and the surfing—£4/10/ per foot.

CRONULLA has the most select surfing beach in the metropolitan district. It is reached by train to Sutherland, thence by the Cronulla tram. The motor trip, via Kogarah and Tom Ugly's Point, or Sans Souci, is delightful. Reserve a day for the Cronulla trip, or you will regret it. The firm is selling lots, 50 x 230, fronting the beach, at £5/10/ per foot. Other blocks a few hundred yards from the beach or tram, at from 35/6 per foot.

SYLVANIA is on the road to Cronulla, at Tom Ugly's Point. Magnificent views of George's River and Botany Bay. Very desirable blocks, 200 yards from water front, at £20 each.

PORT HACKING adjoins Cronulla, part of which clustered round one of its many bays. It is famous for fishing grounds. A. R. and Co. can sell you a large block favourably situated, for £35.

MANLY DISTRICT.—You all know Manly, but have you ever trammed or motored to Brookvale and Narrabeen? The trip is delightful, and the beaches superb. Motors run from Narrabeen to Newport and Bayview, both on Broken Bay.

Near Manly the firm have some lots in Gordon Heights Estate—spacious blocks at from £31/10. At Brookvale, fine, large blocks (some of them acre lots), commanding magnificent seascapes, from £44 each.

Narrabeen, about 15 minutes' walk from the first tram stop, fine, elevated camp lots, £10 to £20, 5/ or 7/6 per month—good buying these.

A little distance from Narrabeen is the fine beach known as Brock's, not yet reached by the "madding" crowd, but certain to have tram service in the near future. Lots £47 each.

Near Newport, one of the beauty spots of Australia—Flood's Peninsula—with best boating, fishing, etc. Roomy blocks from £50 each.

WOY WOY.—The Playground of Sydney—a delightful harbour, with the best fishing in the world, and villages all round its shores. About 25 minutes' walk from the station is the magnificent Ettalong Beach. Camp lots from £10 to £20; large beach lots 30/ per foot. Over the water from the station, Empire Bay lots £12/10/ each (5/ per month), allotments in Merritt's Wharf Estate from £12 upwards. Down the harbour, Killcare blocks from 8/6 per foot. These are close to harbour front and ocean surf beach—the estate occupying an isthmus.

OUR OFFICE AT

HABERFIELD GARDEN SUBURB
HABERFIELD GARDEN SUBURB

WILL BE OPEN UNTIL 9 P.M.

THIS EVENING.

The lengthened day has been taken advantage of by us to afford the convenience to those visitors to our Suburb who cannot come here during the afternoon.

We think it unnecessary to repeat in these columns the advantages that Haberfield has brought in its portrayal of the high ideals of

GARDEN SUBURB PLANNING.

All those essentials of present-day demands are there as a natural course of events. Our present properties, of which we invite your inspection, will be more convincing than the description in these paragraphs.

COME OUT TO-DAY

AND SEE THIS BUNGALOW AT [illegible]

This is a Bungalow Cottage of the most modern type, containing drawing, dining, and 2 bedrooms, sleeping-out room, kitchen, and laundry. LAND has a frontage of 50 feet by depth of 150 feet. This is a fine allotment. Electric light, gas, city water and sewerage; good streets, good footways; [illegible] minutes electric tram service; handy to the railway; and above all,

THE INTEREST CHARGED IS ONLY 5 PER CENT.

A DEPOSIT OF £50
is all that is necessary, with repayments on an easy weekly basis.

OUR INTEREST AT 5 PER CENT.
is a particular attraction at present, when ruling rates are much higher. You have but to calculate the difference between this and higher rates to see what a saving you are making over a period of purchase.

The economy demanded by these times should easily appeal to all intending purchasers, and it is hardly necessary to point out how unreasonable it is to pay rent without further purpose when the same money will help purchase a home under most favourable conditions.

Call and see us at any time. Office hours 9 to 6, including Saturday afternoons.

ACCOUNTANCY.
ACCOUNTANCY.

"Every office man should qualify."
This is what we say and have said for 20 years.
You will naturally want to know—
(1) WHY should I qualify?
(2) How will I be benefited?
(3) How do I qualify?
(4) What are the Examinations?
(5) How long will it take?
(6) What will it cost me?

These questions and many others are fully answered in our publication, "Guide to Accountancy," 65 pages of information. A copy sent free on application.

We coach the greatest number of Accountancy students in both Australia and New Zealand, the result of specialised work during 20 years.

You must succeed with us. The Accountancy Degree is invaluable to every man engaged in commercial work. Its possession ensures promotion and permanent prospects.

Enthusiasm, and a keen sympathetic personal interest in each student's progress are dominating features of our method of instruction, which is conducted individually and privately in your own home and in your own spare time.

Each student is supplied with a complete comprehensive printed course of lessons, which are so excellently graduated, clear, and simple in arrangement and so freely illustrated with practical examples, that a student's work is reduced to a minimum, and satisfactory progress is assured.

MERIT LIKE TRUTH WILL OUT!
Here is proof of the merit of
Stott and Hoare training
IN THE COMMONWEALTH TYPISTS'
EXAMINATION STOTT AND HOARE
STUDENTS HAVE ATTAINED
ABSOLUTE SUPREMACY
FOUR TIMES IN SUCCESSION.

16 PASSES, INCLUDING TOP PLACE.

The results of the 1916 Examination show 16 passes to the credit of Stott and Hoare's pupils, as well as the honour of securing

HIGHEST MARKS IN EVERY SUBJECT.

The results of the last four examinations are tabulated below. The figures speak for themselves, and are more eloquent than any remarks we could make. We would only remind you that this examination is considered the SUPREME TEST FOR WOMEN SHORTHAND WRITERS AND TYPISTS.

The salary starts at £136, and rises—by means of regrading—up to almost anything.

RESULTS OF LAST FOUR EXAMS.:

1912.—Stott and Hoare passes—14 out of 24, including top and second places.

1913.—Stott and Hoare passes—12 out of 20.

1914.—Stott and Hoare passes—9 out of 11, including top place, 2nd, 3rd, and 4th.

1915.—No examination held.

1916.—Stott and Hoare passes—16 out of 34, including TOP PLACE.

Don't be misled by first places awarded by obscure examining bodies, or first places secured in examinations at which Stott and Hoare students do not compete. It is the policy of this College to only present students for really "worth while" examinations—those conducted by the Commonwealth Government, and which entitle the successful candidates to remunerative Government appointments. We consider it a waste of energy in endeavouring to secure first places that only confer empty honours.

CLASSES FOR 1917 ARE NOW BEING FORMED—ENROL TO-DAY, AND COMMENCE YOUR INSTRUCTION TO-MORROW.

If you want efficient coaching in any subject, call on the Principal, Mr. Geo. H. Rose, B.A., for complete details and Prospectus of 1917 classes.
